TWO VIEWS OF WHISKEY

Dear Buckley: I send you some of the most wonderful whiskey that ever drove the skeleton from the breast of man.

What better was Henry II? He lived to curse the hour when he was born, to curse the children whom he left behind, and why?

My Dear Bob: I return to you some of the most wonderful whiskey that ever brought a skeleton into the close or pined a doctor of lust and bloodshed in the brain of man.

TIMELY NOTES ON TOPICS CONNECTED WITH Silver Fox Farming

A moderate sales room greeted the opening of the Hudson's Bay Company's silver fox sale at London last Monday when their offering of 11,280 skins was put up at auction.

The full silvers were difficult to sell on the opening days and prices were estimated as unchanged with London taking the majority of the skins sold.

In the afternoon there was more interest evidenced and the final reports show about 30% of the offering was sold in London, with some to South America and prices up 10%.

G. M. Lamson & Co. Ltd., London were slated to follow Hudson's Bay Company on Tuesday with their offering of silver fox pelts.

At a meeting of that Company's representatives together with those of Anning, Chadwick and Kiever and Eastwood and Holt, it was decided to withdraw their silver fox pelts from the sale.

These companies, representing 12,800 skins, Lamson's representatives had entered the sales room in the morning prepared to start the auction when the news of the Belgian surrender came through.

American observers who were present at the sales wired their firms in New York that they could see no direct repercussions as affecting the American market because of the Belgian surrender or the news of the London sale.

The indirect psychological effect is problematical, but it is not likely to have any very great bearing on the silver fox market.

Our fox ranchers will no doubt be greatly interested in the above news, especially the fact that the silver fox remains in London at a comparatively light, nothing to be compared with the numbers on hand two seasons ago.

Not since the days when Napoleon gathered his tremendous armies to invade the British Isles for the invasion of Great Britain has the dear old land of our forefathers been in such peril.

NEWSY NATURE NOTES

This is Trillium time. Throughout the whole country wherever there are woods or wooded hillsides, we find these lovely flowers in their glory.

The Trillium is one of our flowers which is very early named. When we examine the root—be your pardon, the root of the word I mean, not of the plant—we find that "tri," meaning "three," is apparent in every part of the Trillium.

Three large white petals, three green sepals underneath, six stemlets in two sets of three, three styles, and three large leaves. Every-where these are to be seen.

Do not neglect your adult foxes during the summer months if you want to have good pups in the fall. You cannot operate on a starved diet for several months and then start suddenly to feed up in September or October and expect a good pup.
