STREET IMPROVEMENT NEEDED.—An unsightly pile of loose stones dumped some time ago on Lower Water Street, between Kennedy's Corner and C. Lyons & Co.'s office would be all right if the crusher went over it a few times and some clay were added. As it is no horses are able to drive over that portion of the street which would look vastly improved with a little attention.

ASHORE AT MAGDALENS.—The Belgian steamer, "Indutimare" is ashore on White Horse Reef, Magdalen Islands. The engine room and forehold are full of water, and the bulk head damaged in the forehold. The ship can likely be saved if the fine weather continues. She requires lightening, and salvage pumps are needed. It is possible that a tug from Halifax will be sent, if no other craft is handy to the scene of the wreck. The Indutimare was built in 1910 at Sunderland, and is owned in Antwerp. She is a steamer of 1,577 tons gross.

ROYAL WELCOME FOR GENERAL SIR SAM HUGHES

The following has been received from the old land by a resident in Prince County, which speaks well for Sir Sam Hughes:

"If the people of these islands were able to meet General Sir Sam Hughes and welcome him, their welcome would astonish the world. If he were to ride through London at the head of his Canadian soldiers he would get acclamations that Canada could never forget. All our great cities and towns are eager to do him honor. It is not our fault that we have had no opportunity of showing our pride and our gratitude to the great Canadian organizer of victory. But we desire to let Canada know what we think of the man who will be remembered forever as the Kitchener of Canada.

Sir Sam Hughes is Canada incarnate. The Canadian army is his work. He made it. He started to make it when he was a boy of sixteen by joining the Cadet Corps. He was the first Canadian to volunteer for the South African War. His faith in the citizen soldiers of Canada is not a new thing. It sprang out of his lifework.

As Minister of Militia and Defence he prepared Canada for the storm which broke on the Empire in 1914. He stamped on the soil of Canada when the storm broke, and a great army of Canadian soldiers rose who fought like lions beside their blood-brothers.

"The Canadian soldiers call him the 'Father of the Contingents.' They also call him 'General Sam.' They love him as the British soldier used to love Lord Roberts. Why? Because he is a leader of men. Sergeant Frank Brown, the Canadian soldier-post, who fell at St. Etol in February, 1915, wrote a tribute to 'Sam' which in its way is as fine as Kipling's tribute to 'Bobs':—

We may hold different views on hooch, But take it from a dub— You trained us without whisky, But you gave us decent grub. And if we pull a grandstand play, And make ourselves a name, We'll tell them all that you're the guy Who put us on the game.

"The Canadians have made themselves an immortal name. As soldiers they are second to none. Now that Sir Sam Hughes is once more coming in our midst let us all salute him as the Canadian Kitchener, the citizen soldier who made a great army out of plain citizens. Welcome, Brother Sam!"

 THE GUARDIAN *****

"Please send the Guardian sure" is the interesting postscript to a soldier's letter sent by the family to this paper today. Many hundreds of soldiers have written similarly. Better send The Guardian along to YOUR boy
