

Season's Baseball Classic Opens Today

Two Great Teams Clash Today In World Series

Mackmen And Cardinals Will Open Struggle In Sportsman's Park, St. Louis.

By Alan Gould, (Associated Press Sports Editor) ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 30.—The World Series, baseball's big show and one of the most picturesque pageants of United States sport, will be launched tomorrow with prospects of balmy weather, a boom time capacity crowd and a dramatic pitching duel between Lefty Grove, ace of the world champion Athletics, and Paul Derringer, freshman star of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Good times or otherwise, the world series annually commands a national interest second to nothing else in the country's sporting activity. This year is no exception as the championship clubs of the American and National leagues come to grips in their struggle for diamond supremacy.

SOLD OUT

Sportsman's Park has been sold out for the first two games, so far as reserved seats are concerned. A capacity crowd of nearly 40,000 is expected to cheer Gabby Street's Cardinals as they begin to fight to stop the onrush of Connie Mack's machine, one of the greatest in modern baseball.

The National league's gallant but crippled forces enter the series again as under-dogs, after four consecutive and decisive setbacks at the hands of their rivals. Even the enthusiasm of hometown support, the advantage of starting on their own grounds and the widespread admiration for manager Gabby Street failed tonight to cloak the fact there is more hope than conviction in the chances of the red birds overthrowing the world champions. The Athletics ruled 8 to 5 favorite to capture their third straight crown and deservedly so, on the record and "dope."

The American League's forces have captured 16 out of the last 19 series contests. If the Athletics triumph again, they will set a new-all-time club record of three straight and a league record of five consecutive championships.

St. Louis is carrying the National League banner for the fourth time in six years. The Cardinals of 1926 were the last representatives of the senior circuit to win the world championship. Their shrewd and popular leader, Gabby Street, is confident his club is the one destined to turn the tide, in spite of a succession of late-season injuries.

LOSE HAINES

The Cardinals have lost their veteran right-hander, Jesse Haines, for the series. They probably will start with a substitute, Andy High, at third base instead of Earl (Sparky) Adams, who twisted an ankle ten days ago and is still hobbling. They will have a semi-casualty in centerfield, the youthful Pepper Martin, who has a slightly damaged leg. They will gamble in the box with Paul Derringer, powerful young right-hander with a remarkable first year record but no previous experience whatever in World Series combat.

FULL OF FIGHT

"We have survived a flock of difficulties before and came out on top," declared Street tonight. "We have had some tough luck but it's going to make my boys scrap that much harder. I will start Derringer and don't make any mistake about him. He has the stuff to win. If he does, just watch us." This seemed to sum up the prevalent feeling. Although nine out of ten of the assembled experts predicted a decisive victory for the Athletics, they agreed the National League champions would be hard to stop if they get off to a winning start behind Derringer, the only freshman pitcher ever accorded the distinction of an opening World Series assignment.

MACK SAYS LITTLE

Connie Mack, arriving this afternoon with his championship collection of stars, maintained his usual

reticence in discussing pitching prospects. There was no reason, however, to doubt he would again adopt the orthodox system of rotating Robert Moses Grove, greatest of modern pitchers, and George Livingstone Earnshaw, righthanded hero of the 1930 battle. They won the series last year, have had another great year and are primed to throw 'em past the Cardinal sluggers again.

AFTERMATH

Out at the mines things were quiet too, but there were a few ominous rumblings. Scarcely a man was to be seen in the mining hamlets of Blenfaul and Taylorton, home of the strikers, but the women were about as usual. Strike leaders were conspicuously absent. Sam Scalet and Martin J. Forkin, for whom warrants have been issued in connection with yesterday's demonstration, were reported to have left the district. Dan Moar, President of the Miners Union executive and James Sloan, Dominion President of the Mine Workers Union of Canada, could not be found.

It was a coincidence that the day after the riot Judge E. R. Wylie, Royal Commissioner appointed to investigate the grievances of the miners and all aspects of the strike, should open his investigation. No one appeared to give evidence. Leaders of the strikers, fearing arrest, are under cover, and the Judge adjourned the inquiry until next Monday.

Another development today was the opening of an inquest of the killing of Julian Jryshko yesterday. The body of Julian Jryshko was identified by Steve Stephenski and the inquest adjourned until October 9. No one appeared to identify Nick Narwan, the other casualty. His name was determined by a union card found on his person, but this was not enough to satisfy the formalities of the court.

The men arraigned in court today were: Martin Day, John Gryduk, Andy Levis, Peter Smarz, Metro Uhren, R. W. Dixon, John Kilemkus, Joe Leptak, D. Rowson, Isaac Minster, Joe Berontas, Alex Petryk, and Harry Nickelowsky. They were not asked to plead, but before being led out, Minster complained the police had taken their money away from them and refused to allow them to communicate with their friends. He asked the Justice of the Peace to order the police to restore their money and permit them to use the telephone in order to arrange for their defence.

H. E. Sampson, K.C., special prosecutor, and representative of Hon. M. A. MacPherson, Attorney-General of Saskatchewan, asked for the adjournment and announced the Crown would be ready to go on tomorrow. He said the police would give the men every facility to communicate with their friends and obtain counsel.

The battle yesterday in which two were fatally wounded, and 12 persons injured, including five townspeople and seven demonstrators in addition to 12 police officers, began when some 400 people from the mining districts advanced on Estevan with the avowed purpose of holding a meeting at the town hall. Police resisted the advance and the strikers began hurling rocks.

The demonstration had been forbidden by Mayor D. Bannatyne, acting on a resolution passed unanimously by the town council.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

(By Tec) Athletics or Cardinals—Which? "Lefty" Grove

Robert Moses Grove stands out as the one commanding figure of the 1931 world series which will get underway at St. Louis this afternoon. Grove, best known as "Lefty", is an enigma that not even the most astute baseball expert has been able to solve. A brilliant pitcher, possessor of the highest percentage of victory ever recorded, the Philadelphia remains as much of a mystery today as he was years ago, when he was the pitching sensation of Jack Dunn's Baltimore International League Club.

Grove is untalkative. He detests interviews. One reporter who usually makes his subjects of interview feel that a big favor has been done for them, spent some 30 minutes with Robert Moses recently. That interview brought forth from Lefty approximately six shakes of the head, four grunts and 12 monosyllabic replies. Grove's longest sentence was: "No, I'm not tough."

Grove seems to be as little known by his teammates as he does by the outsider. All anyone really knows is that he can and does pitch like a Mathewson or a Walter Johnson. His record for the season shows a total of 31 victories and four defeats. That total of wins is higher than ever been made by any other left-hander. It gave him an average of .888, a new high mark for all time.

So it's no more than natural that Grove should be the one big topic of World Series discussions. In this connection, there are two contentions. One is that Grove, virtually invincible against the best and worst in the American League, will be equally effective against the St. Louis Cardinals. The other is that Grove is due for a fall. Naturally none can know what the outcome will be, but it is difficult to see how the Cards are going to make a monkey of him.

New Pro Hockey Loop?

Plans for a proposed four team professional hockey circuit to include Montreal, Quebec, Hull and Ottawa are under consideration by a group of Hull and Ottawa sportsmen, following negotiations with Louis LaTourneau, prominent Montreal sportsman. It was reported recently. A group of Hull citizens is reported to be planning the erection of a

THE CANADIAN LADIES' OPEN GOLF CH'SHIP

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 30. (By the Canadian Press)—Completion of the second round of match play for the Canadian ladies open championship left four United States contestants, two Canadians and two British women to battle it out for the title and the Duchess of Connaught Cup.

The defending champion, Miss Maureen Orcutt of White Beach, N. J., scored an easy triumph over Mrs. Harley G. Higbie of Detroit, Mich., six up and five to play. Brilliant sunshine and high temperature favored the contestants as they made their way round the tricky rolling Rosedale course. One of the strong Canadian hopes was eliminated when Miss Ada MacKenzie of Toronto, holder of many titles, went out at the hands of Miss Virginia Van Wile of Chicago, Ill., on the 19th hole.

Miss Marion Hollins of Santa Cruz, Cal., defeated Mrs. E. W. Whittington, Toronto, three up and two to play in a comparatively high scoring match. Both the British entrants disposed of their U. S. opponents without serious difficulty. Miss Enid Wilson of Nottinghamshire, British open champion, disposed of Mrs. Mary K. Browne, Cleveland, O., five up and three to play. Miss Bernice Wall of Oskosh, Wis., was eliminated by Miss Marjorie Kerr of Norfolk, three up and two to play.

An easy victory was chalked up by Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, Kas., who put Mrs. J. A. Dennis of Detroit, Mich., out of the running, seven up and five to play.

The Canadian close champion, Miss Marjorie Kirkham, of Montreal, remained in the title quest by disposing of Mrs. Arthur Harrison of Buffalo, N. Y., two up and one to play. Another outstanding Canadian star and former United States champion to emerge victorious was Mrs. W. G. Fraser of Ottawa, who eliminated Mrs. S. G. Bennett of Toronto, seven up and five to play.

Investigation they regarded as essential. Now, Lloyd George, it is stated in Liberal circles, takes the further ground that the Liberal agreement to consider emergency tariffs is contingent on their being no election. If Sir Herbert Samuel agrees with his Conservative Cabinet colleagues to an election, the Liberals may split. Free trade Liberal candidates may be put in the field against the National Government. Mr. Lloyd George through out has been opposed to an early general election.

DEMONSTRATIONS

Unemployed demonstrations continued today—forerunners of a turbulent political campaign. Near Battersea town hall tonight there were more wild scenes. In the Hall, Rt. Hon. L. C. Amery, former Conservative Secretary for the Dominions, was speaking. Outside a crowd of about 5,000, mainly unemployed, gathered, listening to inflammatory speeches and occasionally singing the "Red Flag." Dozens of police mingled among this crowd and kept the individuals on the move.

POLICE CALLED

Two thousand post office workers clubs are all owned by the Cardinals management, the last three serving as "farms" for the Cardinals.

Sold Out

All reserved seats for the World's Series at Philadelphia have been sold. At St. Louis the price of one reserved seat for three games is $16.50. Orders for more than two seats will not be accepted. No tickets for single games will be sold, except general admission tickets on the day of the game.

"A Mouthful"

Lou Marsh in the Toronto Star remarks that "the latest concerns the state of Canadian exchange. Yankee pugilists who come over are now demanding their pay in Uncle Sam's dollars. Some of them should be paid off in doughnuts," he says.

Westville Lost To Mohawks 12-5

New Brunswick Champions Out-hit And Outsmart "Miners" In Every Stage Of The Game—Second Game Friday.

WESTVILLE, N. S., Sept. 30. (By the Canadian Press)—Displaying marked superiority in all departments of the game, the St. Stephen Mohawks registered a 12 to 5 victory over the Westville Miners here today in the first of the three game series of semi-final round for the Maritime Provinces amateur baseball championship.

MARSHALL GOOD

Three Westville hurlers endeavored to break a batting spree of the New Brunswickers that forced Billy Richardson, star twirler for the locals, to the showers for the first time this season. He was relieved in the sixth after the Mohawks had knocked out six hits. His successor, Sid Darroch, lasted only one third of an inning and was found for another half dozen sae'ties, and as many runs, before Alex Marshall, speed ball artist for Westville was taken from centre-field position, in an attempt to stem the tide. The latter's performance on the mound was the one redeeming feature of today's match as far as the home team was concerned. He allowed the Mohawks one safe hit in the three and two-third innings he worked.

BOLES A PUZZLE

While Westville collected ten hits they found Roy Boles' deliveries puzzling. Ten "Miners" were left on bases in excellent scoring positions, testifying to his ability to pitch air-tight ball. The New Brunswick champions collected fourteen hits, Moffatt, shining both in the field and at bat. He handled seven chances without a miscue, and hit three times in five trips to the plate. Thirteen batters stepped to the plate in the hectic sixth inning, during which Boles and Moffatt both shared a pair of bingles. The second game of the series will be played at St. Stephen on Friday and the third, if necessary, at the same place the following day.

carried out a demonstration in the west end against the pay reductions they will suffer in common with all other civil servants. They were interrupted by the police, who prevented them from making an intended march on Westminster. Earlier today, unemployed demonstrators clashed with police outside Bow Street police court, where cases resulting from last night's brush between jobless and policemen near the House of Commons were being heard. A section of the crowd tried to force their way into the courtroom. Mounted police were called in and several persons were knocked down, one man being injured by a horse's hoofs, but there were no serious casualties.

ECONOMY BILL PASSED

The National Government's economy bill, going its speedy way over the legislative hurdles, received the Royal assent tonight after getting third reading in the House of Lords. This is the measure enabling the Government to make its cut in national expenditure by means of Orders-in-Council. All the government's emergency legislation, including a bill to deal with would-be food profiteers, which Prime Minister MacDonald announced today will be completed before the House adjourns a week hence.

RIDER MOBBED

The temper of some of the demonstrators found another vent in nearby Hyde Park a little later. An unfortunate individual clad in green coat and fawn breeches and gaiters was enjoying a horseback ride when he was surrounded by a small mob. The rider dismounted but was unable to free himself until policemen charged the crowd. For some time afterwards the police
