THE DEPTH OF THE OCEAN.

Dr. John Murray, lecturing in Glasgow recently on the depths of the ocean, said the average depth of the sea was something like 13,000 feet. If all the land of the continents were levelled down the ocean would envelop the whole earth to a depth of two miles. The greatest depth of the ocean yet found was in the Atlantic, of the Virgin Islands. It was 5,555 fathoms, or about 250 feet less than six miles.
