Six D.F.C.'s Won by Men of First Canadian Squadron Who Went Into Action Against Enemy Two Years Ago

Nazi Bombers Helped Some Of Lads By Destroying Crime Sheet in One Raid

By Flying Officer Basil Dean, R.C.A.F. London — Canada's first fighter squadron to proceed overseas — the only R.C.A.F. unit to serve during the Battle of Britain — has just celebrated its second anniversary. It was two years ago in June that the squadron landed in Great Britain.

FIRST R.C.A.F. SQUADRON OVERSEAS HAS PROUD RECORD. Veterans of Canada's first squadron of flying fighters go into action in Britain, these officers and their fellow "originals" have established impressive records in combat.

Two Squadrons Merge. The squadron was born from the amalgamation of two pre-war Canadian squadrons, No. 1, which was based at Calgary, and No. 115, which had its headquarters at Dartmouth across the bay from Halifax at the end of May, 1940.

Three Bombers Downed. It was a grand record for the first time out, however. The squadron was ordered to intercept 25 enemy bombers raiding Britain, three of which were shot down.

LOOK WHO'S LAUGHING. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret, who wore a turquoise dress in princess style with white accessories and wore a corsage of Taismanian roses and baby's breath.

Many Former Members Are Not Leaving Own Squadrons Or Holding Senior Staff Jobs

Carry on Tradition. While many former members have gone to other squadrons, the "newcomers" still carry on. There is Sgt. Don Morrison of Toronto, who has destroyed two enemy aircraft and helped destroy another, besides between two and three damaged on his board.

On the other side of the picture is a picture where the squadron was quartered recently. It was a baronial castle not far from London. Its scores of rooms were lined with Rembrandts and Rubens and other old masters.

WARTIME U. S. A.—One picture tells story of auto's demise better than all the words. A pretty June wedding of interest to friends in Ottawa as well as Calgary, Alta., and P. E. Island, was solemnized in St. Teresa's Church, Ottawa, at eight o'clock on the morning of June 22nd.
