RICHEST APARTMENT

Many of our readers have heard of the fabulous sums which are yearly paid as rental for some of the apartments in New York city, but it is doubtful if there be more than a comparatively few who realize of what one of these costly apartments consists. The one which has set the high water mark in rentals occupies the entire floor in a twelve-story building at the corner of 5th avenue and 31st street, and there is one other apartment in the building having the same space. Some may ask what should make an apartment worth a rental of $25,000 a year, and in reply it can be said that for one thing the building in question is located on the most costly land available for such houses and the other is that it contains every known device to render life safe and comfortable. The site of this building contains 12,800 square feet and the land is worth something like $100 a square foot, the property representing an investment of about $3,000,000, which, divided among the twelve floors, means $250,000 a floor.

There is a labyrinth of rooms and an army of servants is necessary to look after the needs of a private household occupying a single floor. There are two passenger elevators to serve the tenants and these are a solid case of metal lined with French walnut exquisite in grain and finish. Stepping from the elevator one finds himself in an outer corridor or hall, from which he enters a vestibule with floor of marble, but walls panelled to the ceiling with English oak, treated in such a way as to give a subtle blending of green and grey and brown. Beyond the vestibule is a conservatory 15x34 feet in size, windows along one side admitting light from the central court, which is thirty-two feet square and faced entirely with mat glazed tiles to increase the reflection of light. At the front of the house are living room, dining room and billiard room, with fireplaces in the first and last named.

Perfection of detail is one of the big items in boosting the rent of this apartment. For instance, every bit of hardware was gold plated before it was put into place, and the lights, dome for a double purpose. Gold does not tarnish, and the fixtures will not, therefore, need to be polished, but simply to be wiped with a soft, dry cloth. This prevents the marring or fixture is set. For the side lights in many of the rooms, the brackets are of solid brass, gold plated. In the dining room they are silver plated on white metal. All radiators are concealed inside the panelled sections below the windows, the hat escaping through grates opening. Outside the paneling there is a little button at the end of a tiny brass handle not more than an inch long. This turns in a circle from one to another of four diminutive brass knobs no larger than shoe buttons. This little brass handle makes it possible to regulate the valve which admits steam to the radiator so that one can have four different amounts of heat.

The casement window above the radiator is another feature. In the wooden frame next to the casing there is a gold plated lever. When the lever is turned upward the entire window moves up an inch, which brings it clear of the window sill. The usual knobs, also gold plated, are then turned and the casement opens quite according to poetic tradition. In the dining room, measuring about twenty by twenty-eight feet, the walls are solid paneled with five ply veneer wood to prevent warping or splitting, the walls are painted with nine coats of paint as carefully as the work of finishing an automobile body is done. There are three tones used to differentiate the various moldings and panels. The broad surfaces are the palest of French greys, some of the moldings are white and the rest are just off the white. The mantel is of white marble, clouded with grey, and the lighting fixtures are silver plated. From a private hall, leading from the vestibule, one enters the sleeping rooms on the 81st street side. Most of these have private baths; all of them have closets, and in the wall of each closet is built a jewel safe with the usual combination lock for safeguarding the family jewels.—Building Age.

—KENTUCKY BABY SHOES. (Lexington, (Ky.) Leader.)

A unique and interesting relic in the shape of a pair of home-made baby shoes, made back in the good old pioneer days, was presented to the Kentucky historical society at Frankfort recently by Col. E. C. Merrill, the widely known ex-Confederate and retired journalist of this city. The shoes were made by Col. Merrill's great-great-grandfather and have been worn by three generations of the Merrill family—his great grandfather, his grandfather and himself. These shoes have an interesting family history. Since the beginning of their career, 140 years ago, in the tanyard of Andrew Merrill, who served with Gen. Washington in the war of the Revolution, until the surrender at Yorktown, the shoes have been placed on the feet of 200 babies of the Merrill family. They have travelled through seven ages, and had been returned from Texas only a few days ago, when they were sent by Col. Merrill to join the valuable collection of relics in the museum of the historical society at Frankfort.

WAR CONTRACTS ENQUIRY IN NOVA SCOTIA

KENTVILLE, August 14. —There is abundant evidence that the buyer, McKay, and the veterinary Chapman, were far from careful in their business of buying and examination of horses for the war. This lack of care was taken full advantage of by unscrupulous sellers who "needed the money." The day passed without anything more startling than has already come out.

Vinton P. Smith, "patriot" incidentally a prominent liberal, who palmed off a nag with a "waterfall" over one eye, two legs with lumps on them, and other infirmities, was duly set forth in the evidence. This was only one of a bunch which he was good enough to hand over to the government for a considerable consideration. He said that McKay told him if he was good at that for $125 he would buy it. Wallace Foster, another of the apostles of purity, professing to be the same political faith exchanged a horse with McKay, getting the nag with the affected eye with other trimmings. He was very gay in court. He preferred such a story and expressed the view that one eye was enough for any horse.

Sir Charles had his views and expressed them.

Horse traders proved hot proposition. Their code of ethics proved too much for the commission.

Robert Fitch sold another charger, age 23, which he stoutly claimed as good as gold. He is a non-com in a local cavalry corps. Both counsel and Sir Charles regretted he wore a uniform.

M. Outhit, liberal county councillor, being free with his money, said he slipped $5 to Dr. Church because he got a good price for a poor horse. Could give no reason why he did it as he had never spoken to Church before the sale.

The famous horse which kicked the end out of the barn when "medically treated" by Dr. Church, was promptly disposed of to the government by A. B. Harvey at a good round price.

This bunch of horses sold by Harvey make a record which takes first place.

RETREAT IN ORDER.

Even an extremely aggressive enemy can be conquered by strategy; it is only a question of employing the stratagem fitted to the case.

An open-air preacher of East London understood this, and his stratagem fitted to a charm. He was addressing a crowd when a soldier who had been drinking came up and ridiculed the service. Finding it was useless to ignore the man, the preacher said: "Ah, my friend, you're no soldier; no servant of the King would get drunk and interrupt peaceful service."

The man said he was a soldier, and asked the preacher to test him.

"Very well," was the reply, "I will. Now, then, attention! This the soldier-did as well as his condition would allow.

"About—turn." This order was also obeyed, though with some trouble.

"Quick—march." And off went the valiant soldier, marching down the road at a snail's pace, while the preacher resumed his address.

HALIFAX BOY HONOURED

HALIFAX, Aug. 13.—Another Halifax boy has been honoured by his King and country. Particulars have just been received of the signal honour paid "Bert" Mahar, now Lieut. T. B. Mahar, son of John Mahar, Edward Street. Lieut. Mahar lunched with King George at Windsor Castle, July 21, and was decorated by His Majesty with the Military Cross. Ten other officers were present, among whom were two Canadians, one of the Canadians was Capt. Scrimger.

Writing to his brother, Fred Mahar, Lieut. Mahar told in the most modest manner possible of the honour done him.

"My dear Fred," he wrote, "was in England last week on a few days leave. While there I was decorated by the King at Windsor Castle (Military Cross). I stayed for luncheon. There were ten of us down, including two Canadians. One of the Canadians was Capt. Scrimger, the doctor man.

"Things will continue in the same nasty manner. By the way, in what battalion is Stan Bauld? I have run into Canadians, but as yet have met none that I knew."

The following is the telegram which Lieut. Mahar received summoning him to Windsor Castle: "Lieut. T. B. Mahar, Norfolk Hotel, Surrey Street, Strand, W.C.

Your attendance is required at Windsor Castle to-morrow, July 21. Service Dress. Proceed by 12.5 train from Paddington. You are invited to meet the King at Windsor at 1.15. There is a train leaving Windsor at 1.15 o'clock. Kindly telegraph acknowledgement of summons, stating whether able to remain for luncheon.

LORD CHAMBERLAIN.

Speaking of the event, one of the London papers said: "Second Lieut. T. B. Mahar, the King's Royal Rifle Corps, had the honour of being received by the King at Windsor Castle on Wednesday, when His Majesty decorated him with the Military Cross."

NOVEL WAY TO SERVE ICE CREAM.

Variety of ways to serve ice cream is perhaps more important than variety of creams to be served. There are many individual molds in which to which the cream may be packed, but this means a good deal of work, and there are other ways of serving cream that are easier and just as effective.

For example, halve large oranges and remove the pulp carefully, throw the shells into cold water until they are needed. Make a good orange jelly out of the pulp, wipe half of the orange shells dry, fill them with the jelly and set them away to chill. When ready to serve wipe the other half of the skins dry and fill with ice cream, smoothing off the tops evenly, then turn a jelly-filled half and an ice cream-filled half together. Tie them in place with narrow white satin ribbon, draw a spoon through the bow and lay them on a paper dolly on the plate, with a square of delicate cake beside them, and serve.

Ice Cream Sandwiches: Split in half lengthwise as many little sponge cakes as there are guests to be served. Whip a cup of cream; have the ice cream frozen very hard in a square mold, then cut slices from it the size of the cake and lay the cake up with it in sandwich form. Put the whipped cream into the pastry bag, squeeze a rose on top of each sandwich and serve.

Raspberry Rings: Make a good clear raspberry jelly, turn it into wet individual ring molds, allowing one to each cover, and let it set. When ready turn out onto plates and put a spoonful of raspberry ice and vanilla cream in the centre of each mold, decorating the top with a little whipped cream put through a pastry bag.

Banana Boats—Select large, mellow bananas, and cut out lengthways one stripe of the peel; then hollow out the banana without breaking the skin. Throw the boats into cold water and allow them to remain there until needed. Make banana ice cream in the usual way; when ready, drain and dry the boats with a soft cloth and fill them smoothly with the banana ice cream, dust the top of each with a little powdered dry macaroon and serve with nut horchata.

Pineapple Cones—Pare carefully medium sized pineapples and cut them in half, slicing a little from each end so that they will stand steadily. With a sharp knife hollow out the centre core. Dust the pineapple cup with sugar and fill with cream, sprinkling the top with finely chopped candied cherries. Squeeze the hard core and add the juice, with a tablespoon of ginger sirup, to a cup of sugar and half a cup of water. Serve the sauce with the cream cones.

Peach Melba—Take a good sized, fairly ripe peach, dip it in boiling water so that it peels easily, and remove the skin. On a round piece of sponge cake 2 1/2 inches in diameter lay round spoonful of French vanilla ice cream, place the peach on it, and turn over all raspberry sauce made by squeezing half a basket of raspberries, adding sugar to taste and making sure that it is well chilled. After the

A MYSTERY

"Joan of Arc was a spinster, was she not?"
"Yes, why?"
"Oh, I was just wondering how she got her armor buttoned up the back."

Mrs. de Fashion—My dear, I have picked out a husband for you.
Miss de Fashion—Very well; but I want to say right now, mother, that when it comes to buying the wedding dress, I am going to select the material myself, so there. — New York Weekly.
