HAS RELATIVE HERE - Slated for return to the United States in October is Pte. David D. Livingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. David T. Livingston, Boston, now in Pilsin, Czechoslovakia, with his unit, the 315th Infantry, 9th Division, Pte. MARITIME PROVINCES - Harvesting of a heavy crop of good quality hay is nearing completion and pastures are in good condition, says Bank of Montreal Crop Report. Grains are filling satisfactorily and a fair yield is in prospect. In Prince Edward Island a heavy crop is indicated. The digging of early potatoes has commenced, with satisfactory results, but the blight which is prevalent amongst the later seed varieties will reduce the yield considerably. Other roots are progressing favourably. Only a light crop of apples is in prospect and the yield of other fruits will be below average.

ACTS OF VANDALISM - The Experimental Station, Charlottetown requests the co-operation of parents in Charlottetown and vicinity in the protection of valuable experimental crops now under test at this station. Recently, valuable varieties of scab and blight resistant potatoes have been destroyed by children. These varieties have taken years to produce and might mean the saving of thousands of dollars to farmers throughout the province. The same applies to orchard and vegetable crops. These acts, on the part of children, have been drawn to the attention of the RCMP. In order to avoid disagreeable consequences, parents should warn their children to remain away from the Experimental Station at all times.

RETURNS FROM CONFERENCE - A good start was made in ironing out Dominion-Provincial financial difficulties at the conference last week at Ottawa, reports Premier J. Walter Jones, who with Hon. William Hughes, Provincial Treasurer, Attorney General Large and government officials returned home over the week-end. The conference, the Premier emphasized, was only a preliminary one. The only committee appointed being one composed of the Provincial Premiers and members of the Dominion Government. The conference meets again on Nov. 26, and in the meantime the federal proposals outlined by Prime Minister Mackenzie King will be carefully studied. Premier Jones expressed his appreciation of the good work done by the officials who accompanied him to Ottawa.

THE KIRK PULPIT

Preaching yesterday morning on the text, "Now our Lord Jesus Christ Himself, and God, even our Father, which hath loved us, and hath given us everlasting consolation and good hope through grace, comfort your hearts, and establish you in every good word and work." (Thessalonians 2:16-17). The minister, the Rev. T. H. Bussell Somers, said: How do you comfort a boy in the death of his mother? But you put your arm round his shoulder. But you must not pity him too much; he will become distraught. You will be wise to say to him: "Dad needs you now!" He will brace up, lay boyhood aside and become father to the man. In the words he speaks, and in his new responsibility, comfort comes on him unawares.

The Bible constantly stresses the importance of the word; we are comforted when we speak the promises of faith to our neighbors. But the word must go with the work, and the work with the word. Percy who has sorrowed selfishly are still uncomfortable, while people who comfort others when they themselves are almost disconsolate find soon that their own hearts are girded. So take the truth to your own need: "Your Father, your heavenly Father, needs you to help His other children." Try to help Him, and by the word and work you shall be comforted.

Dr. Lowell said of Shakespeare: "If he had sorrowed, he made them the word of everlasting consolation to his kind." There is no "if"; every man has sorrow. "No" is born to trouble as the sparks fly upward" - as he is born also to joy. Shakespeare's sorrows, even if he turned them into sympathy, as indeed he did - were still only the wool. Man's word, if it is no more than his word, is no comfort. The warp is God and the frame of all the weaving is His, and the providence of shine and shadow. But it is certain that Shakespeare found comfort because he comforted "his kind."

You may have crossed the Atlantic by the route around southern Ireland. If so, you have noticed the vivid green of the grass on the southwest Irish headlands. Why is it so green? One reason is in Ireland; rain and mist, brought partly by the Gulf Stream, and alternately sunshine which make the soil fertile and lovely. The other reason is in you: your eyes have been vexed with greys and blues of ocean, your mind made impatient by waiting. By very contrast, and because this is your first glimpse of land, the meadows are doubly green. There's a tomorrow waiting at the earth in green because it knows our mist of tears. And it will be all the greener because you have passed through the storm and sun. They that sow in tears - there's a phrase! "They that water the seed in their weeping shall reap in joy." Here today we sow the seed for one another. Our Lord Jesus Christ, and God, even our Father, which hath loved us, and hath given us everlasting consolation and good hope through grace, comfort your hearts, and establish you in every good word and work.

"TAHITI NIGHTS" GOES WACKY WITH WOO
Those South Sea breezes are blowing again and they're waiting along one of the merriest, maddest, music-is-everywhere. It's "Tahiti Nights," Columbia Pictures' nowlyua nua-nua show in play at the Capitol Theatre. It brings a South Sea island right to your door and plunks it down on your funnyside. With fun in Tahiti and the "Huaopola" is the call to love the sailor to excitement when he breaks the taboo to woo her! It takes you back to the good old South Seas where they were a song on their lips and all the girls were tips! You'll love this musical!

Will Jason directed and Sam White produced from the original screen play by Lillian Hayward. attired in a dress of pink georgette with white accessories to match. Her travelling suit was of rose flannel. The bride and groom were attended by Miss Edith Hardy and Leonard MacNevin, a friend and brother of the bride, respectively. After the wedding ceremony a dainty wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's parents. Later in the evening a happy group of senders arrived on the scene after which the newlyweds left on a short motor trip to New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. Preceding her marriage a shower was tendered the bride by her friends of the Phillips Building, Charlottetown, where she had been employed with The Mutual Fire Insurance Company. Also in the company of St. Catherine's, a shower in the hall by friends and neighbours in honour of her approaching marriage. A miscellaneous shower for the young couple at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan MacPhee, Nine Mile Creek, which included a beautiful mirror from the Nine Mile Creek Women's Institute, Mr. and Mrs. MacPhee will reside at Nine Mile Creek where the groom is a prosperous young farmer.
