THE CLOSING HOUR OF EMERGENCY SESSION

Was Marked by Touching Scenes. Speeches Breathed the Deepest Patriotism and Party Politics Were Thrown to the Winds. Opposition Members Praised Action of Government Throughout the Crisis

(By Our Own Reporter)
OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—The closing hour of the emergency session of Parliament was marked by the most touching scenes ever witnessed by the House of Commons. Hon. George P. Graham broke down completely in referring to the death of his brilliant son, some two years ago, who was a captain in the militia. He added "if Providence had been kinder to me I would have had a son in this contingent."

Sir George Foster said that he had never felt so moved as on the present occasion and it was with difficulty the veteran statesman could continue his remarks.

Dr. Clark, of Red Deer, who has a son in the Princess Patricia regiment, and Sir Robert Borden evinced equally deep emotion.

The speeches were made during the half hour the House met Saturday afternoon waiting for the Senate to wind up its business and for prorogation. The speeches markedly touched, as they were in the extreme, breathed the deepest patriotism. Party politics as it has been all week were thrown to the winds.

Dr. Clark praised the action of the Government throughout the present crisis. They had met the situation with "energy, wisdom and effectiveness." In a brilliant peroration he declared: "In this fight there can be no let-up and in the end but one end, that is victory for what is right."

Cot. Hughes, Minister of Militia, thanked Dr. Clark for his kindly reference to himself. He was certain that the utterances came from the heart, when he was sending himself a boy to the front. This was greeted with loud cheers.

Sir Robert in briefly replying said that the Government appreciated to the full the spirit which had marked the Opposition. Every member of the Government during the trying past two weeks had recognised the seriousness of their responsibility and devoted to every action their best ability and energy. He paid a tribute to the heroic resistance of the people of Belgium and hoped the Canadian troops would prove as worthy as had the soldiers of Belgium.

Hon. Mr. Graham, speaking with the deepest emotion, said that they were now one united whole fighting for what they believed was right. He broke down completely, and tears flowed down his cheeks as speaking of the departure of the Canadian troops, he remarked that if Providence had dealt more kindly with him he would have had a son at the front.

Sir George Foster closed with a magnificent speech in which he declared the last four days had vindicated public and parliamentary life in Canada.

PRINCESS PATRICIA LIGHT INFANTRY

(By Our Own Correspondent.)
OTTAWA, Ont., August 23.—"I have great pleasure in presenting you with these colors, which I have worked myself. I hope they will be associated with what I believe will be a distinguished corps. I shall follow the fortunes of you all with the deepest interest and heartily wish every man good luck and a safe return."

With these appropriate words Princess Patricia presented on Sunday morning the colors to the new infantry regiment which has been named after herself and is commanded by Colonel Farquhar, Military Secretary to the Duke of Connaught. The presentation came at the close of the first parade of the new regiment, when they attended divine service in the open space before the grand stand at Lansdowne Park.

At the close of the ceremonies there was the march out of the regiment, when the soldiers were inspected by the Duke of Connaught. Some ten thousand people braved the rain to see the new corps and enthusiastically cheered them as well as Princess Patricia and the Governor General.

Recruiting for the regiment started only a little over a week ago, and the last of the uniforms were only distributed on Saturday night, yet the men presented a magnificent appearance and marched like regulars of the British army. They were a well set up, muscular, clean-cut military looking body and their neat khaki uniforms were just what was needed to emphasize their fitness for military service.

The religious service was conducted by Rev. Cannon McKay, of All Saints Church. The soldiers, as well as the spectators, joined heartily in the special service. The singing was led by the band of the Governor General's Foot Guards. At the close of the service the Duke of Connaught briefly addressed the men.

"It affords me great pleasure that the first parade of the battalion is to divine service," he said. "The fact that the name of my daughter is associated with the regiment shows that I will take a deep interest in it. The words of duty, discipline and mercy, are strongly ingrained in all British soldiers. I have every belief that these qualities will be demonstrated in the Princess Patricia Light Infantry. I wish the regiment the best of success."

DROWNING ACCIDENT AT SUMMERSIDE

(Special by phone)
SUMMERSIDE, Aug. 23.—A sad accident occurred in Summerside Harbor on Saturday evening last when William Howatt, aged 18 years, of St. John, an employee on the ferry-works at Charlottetown, lost his life. The tug J. O. Grant was towing a scow into Summerside, and when inside the harbor, the tow line in some way became caught on the corner of the scow. The deceased released it with a handspike. In receding the line caught the young man throwing him overboard. Every effort was made to save him but in vain. The tug proceeded to Summerside where the accident was reported, and Mr. Miller, head of the contracting firm, remained to superintend searching operations. The search was continued all day to-day but without success. Search will be resumed to-morrow.

ADVICE TO BRITISH PUBLIC

(Exclusive to the Guardian)
LONDON, August 23.—The Morning Post warns England against overconfidence. It says only by realizing that England is at the crisis of her fate and must put forth her utmost strength can victory be won. It continues: "Unless enlistment is maintained at full swing it is impossible to keep pouring fresh force on the continent which certainly are required. One hundred thousand men per month is a large order, but we shall have to keep up something like that to have effective influence upon land. In this war the two great delusions in the part of the British public are: first, excessive reliance on Russia, and second and worse delusion, because certainly false, is that Germany as a nation are defeated and disintegrated. This statement is interpreted here as meaning the crisis in Italian affairs is at hand."

ITALY AND AUSTRIA

(Special to the Guardian)
ROME, August 23.—The tension between Austria and Italy is acute. Italy is expected to declare war on Austria on Monday.

(Special to the Guardian)
LONDON, August 23.—The Rome correspondent of the Evening News says Otilie Delcasse and Count Witte representing France and Russia are in Rome in conference with the cabinet. This statement is interpreted here as meaning the crisis in Italian affairs is at hand.

TWO DUTCH STEAMERS SUNK BY MINES

(Special to the Guardian)
LONDON, August 23.—A Press Despatch says the Dutch steamship Marland of Copenhagen struck a mine in the North Sea on Friday and foundered. The fate of the crew is uncertain. The Dutch steamer Broberg launched boats but failed to reach the crew. On Saturday morning the Broberg while continuing her search struck another mine and foundered.

All the crew were saved except the engineer and were landed at Lowestoft. The accident occurred thirty-five miles from land.

BRUSSELS WAR FINE

(Exclusive to the Guardian)
LONDON, August 23.—The Times calls attention to the imitation of Napoleon by Germany in demanding forty million dollars war levy from Brussels. Napoleon made his campaigns partly self-supporting and once levied seventy million dollars on Russia. The treasurer of the city of Brussels, M. Hallet, says: "No possible measures will give them even a fraction of that sum. It is a flagrant infringement of the Hague convention. Either the levy of eight million pounds is a fine or it is a forced contribution. A fine may be legitimately imposed upon a community by invaders, but it implies an offence for which he is exacting a penalty. Brussels has committed no offence, nor do Germans allege any offence against her."

SEIZE LEIGE DEPOSITS

The German army administration seized the cash deposits in private banks at Liege. The bankers are issuing small notes, nearly all are withdrawn the circulation of coin.

TWO MILLION MEN IN DEATH GRAPPLE

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Along a hundred miles of fighting line at least two million men are linked in a death grapple in the first pitched battle. Since Saturday the struggle has waged from Mons on the southern side of Belgium, to Luxembourg on the frontier. The English expeditionary force has come into the open and is fighting at the side of the French. The Kaiser's army, the flower of the German army, is facing the British with the allied troops and with cavalry charge and cannonade and hand to hand encounter of infantry, the destinies of Europe are trembling in the balance.

We know only that the clash has occurred. No details as to how the issue of the strife goes are permitted from the curtain enveloping the scene. It will be days, maybe weeks before a decisive result is at hand or details permitted to be known. In the titanic engagement in which half a dozen battles are being fought, any one of which would be Gettysburg or Waterloo by comparison, at Mons, at Givet, along both banks of the River Meuse, down at Neufchateau and along towards Arlon, embattled powers are struggling with varying success. At Luttre, in Hainault province, where Mons is located, a bloody battle is in progress; between Charlemagne and Namur another great struggle is in progress with the French on the offensive and reported meeting with success. From Namur to Chatelet, a distance of fifteen miles, another battle is raging to halt German advance towards Dinant six miles from the frontier.

With Brussels captured the Germans are apparently making no effort to advance on Antwerp. Instead the forces which occupied Brussels are now passing through the city toward the Belgian border.

(Exclusive to the Guardian)
PARIS, August 23.—The French minister of the interior, M. Malvy, said to newspaper men tonight: "A great battle in Belgium began this morning—that's all I know."

(Special to the Guardian)
LONDON, August 23.—The Germans have penetrated to Ostend and are in touch with the French advance.

(Exclusive to the Guardian)
LONDON, August 23.—(By Worton Teason) The German advance continues around and south of Brussels and along the lines of Nyoveath and Braine. Mons appears to be their aim, probably Valenciennes. There were no Germans at Ghent at midday. They are camped at Saerne. The Germans are spreading themselves out over Belgium, cutting telegraph wires interrupting railway communication, and stopping all sources of news. An artillery attack was made on Namur today, and fighting reported at Mhines.

By wireless it is reported the Kaiser telegraphed his daughter, Princess Victoria Louise, Duchess of Brunswick, "God our Lord has showered his blessings upon our brave troops and made them victorious. Let all at home offer their gratitude to Him on bended knees and pray. He may remain with us and with the entire nation in future."

KAISER CLAIMS VICTORY

(Exclusive to the Guardian)
BERLIN, August 23.—The papers today rejoice mightily over the taking of Brussels. They say it will be invaluable in feeding the entire northern Germany. The severity of the fighting near Louvaine is shown by the fact that the women have buried more than three thousand dead in long trenches in the fields.

LONDON TIMES, Aug. 24.—A message from Antwerp states that the town is highly excited over the news of the great battle. Trains filled with refugees are pouring into Ghent from the scene of fighting. Fugitives tell of a fierce battle between the French and Germans. Many villages and Louvain and Alost are occupied by the enemy to secure the German main army's advance.

RUMORED SINKING OF BRITISH VESSELS

(Exclusive to the Guardian)
LONDON, August 23.—The Press Association from information received from Manchester says the British steamers Hyades and City of Winchester were caught and sunk by Germans. No information locally due to censorship.

JAPAN DECLARES WAR

(Exclusive to the Guardian)
LONDON, August 23.—The report that the Japanese embassy had received notification of Germany's answer to the ultimatum is officially confirmed. The Japanese ambassador has been ordered to leave Berlin. An embassy official replying to a query whether Japan would listen to a proposal that America should hold Kiauchau, in trust for China, remarked: "I think not, the next thing you will hear will be the booming of guns."

(Special to the Guardian)
LONDON, August 23.—Central news dispatch from Tientsin reported that the Jap fleet, with a fleet of transports conveying troops near Kio Chau are ready to commence operations immediately the ultimatum expires.

TOKIO, August 23.—Japan has declared war on Germany. Japan ordered immediate action on land and sea. (Special to the Guardian)
SAN FRANCISCO, August 23.—Jap cruiser Idzumi, coaling in the States asked Japan her plan in war on Germany, but no reply has been received here. The English War Press Bureau says the situation is satisfactory.

GREAT RUSSIAN VICTORY

(Special to the Guardian)
LONDON, August 23.—The Russian embassy here today made public the following report sent by the Grand Duke Nicholas to Petersburg. "After two days battle the Russian forces are victorious. We were opposed by the three German army corps. We have captured many guns. The Germans lost heavily and were compelled to retreat. Our troops are in pursuit of the enemy. It is of great strategic value."

(Special to the Guardian)
LONDON, August 23.—A despatch to the Russian General of staff, says: During the fighting in one point, in East Prussia, the Russians captured eight cannons, twelve shell carriers, two machine guns, and a large number of prisoners. On the Galician frontier during the battles at Goudek and Krasnik the advancing Austrians suffered great loss. The Russians captured six officers and 259 men.

MYSTERY OF THE GOEBEN

(Exclusive to the Guardian)
ROME, August 22.—(By mail to London) M. Camillo Dianfara writes: "The failure of the Anglo-French squadrons to engage the German dreadnought Goeben and the cruiser Breslau is still wrapped in mystery. The Germans made no secret of their departure from Messina and determination to sell their lives dearly. According to an eye-witness when the commander of Messina port went aboard the Goeben to visit the crew, the port either to disarm or leave port within twenty-four hours, a most impressive scene occurred whereby the German sailors wrote a magnificent page of heroism and valor in German naval annals. After delivering the ultimatum to the commander of the port departed. Admiral Sushon then assembled his whole ship's company on deck and asked whether he interpreted their sentiments aright in refusing to disarm. As if from one great throat a cry of "Ja ja" went up. Admiral Sushon waited for a moment for silence and then said, "I have already delivered your reply and I also added that we Germans fear only God." This time a deafening "hurrah" rent the air. Then a junior officer stepped forward and addressing the Admiral said: "We would sooner die than surrender and remain idle while our brothers fight." Again enthusiastic cheering broke out lasting until the Admiral gave word for the crew to work which proceeded with fierce haste. Preparations for departure including the coaling of the Goeben was soon finished and then came an hour of quietness and rest during which the officers in view of what seems certain death and destruction of ships wrote their wills and handed them to the German consuls. Meanwhile the smokestacks and masts of the English squadron lying outside the three mile limit could be seen on the horizon. Then the warships stripped for action with bands playing the national anthem, with every man at his post and every light burning moved out to sea. Crowds of Italians lined the shore, many men weeping while women prayed on their knees that God and the Virgin might spare the brave sailors. For hours the population waited with ears stretched towards the sea listening for the roar of guns, but nothing was heard. What happened is still a mystery."

NAMUR INVESTED

PARIS, Aug. 22.—An official statement issued tonight says: "Namur is partially invested. Heavy artillery opened fire towards noon. The westward movement of the German columns continues on both banks of the Meuse, outside of the range of action at Namur. German cavalry forces passed through Belgium to-day, going west. They were followed later by an army corps."

ENGLISH ADVISED TO LEAVE OSTEND

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The Daily Mail points from Ostend the following: "The Germans are a few miles from Ostend, English Channel. Fifty thousand Germans who marched through Brussels are now at Ghent."

DUM DUM BULLETS

PARIS, Aug. 22.—Matin says a German Officer who was taken prisoner was found to have in his cartridge belt several dum dum bullets. He is to appear before Court Martial. An order was given by the General-in-Chief to send the German Emperor a formal verdict by which the German Officer will be shot.

LONDON AMERICAN VIEWS

LONDON, Aug. 22.—Oscar S. Straus, member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at the Hague, chairman of the diplomatic committee of American citizens' relief committee, said today: "It has been my privilege to meet many prominent British officers and officials. So far as I know there is no opposition in England to the plan of the United States to have Americans buy German liners now in American ports. In fact, I think the idea has been well received, as the British feel the return of such liners to service would make it possible to bring large quantities of wheat and other foodstuffs to England." Discussing the situation in the far east, Straus said: "Some Americans seem to be unduly excited about Japan's action concerning Kiauchow. I don't think that the States about and Japan has no designs on the Philippines. As a member of the Colonel Roosevelt Cabinet I conducted negotiations for the Japanese immigration Treaty and became convinced that Japan had no designs on the islands and would not have them. They are not suited to her use. The climate is too hot for Japanese. The States must not become embroiled in any way in this war. One great nation must remain neutral and be ready to extend a helping hand when the fury of the war has been exhausted and mediation is necessary in the interests of humanity."

WHEAT FOR THE SWISS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—More than one million bushels of American wheat are on their way to Switzerland. Shipments of three cargoes having been arranged by Dr. Hubscher in charge of the legation here. Arrangements have been made to allow passage through France and Italy, of foodstuffs intended for Switzerland. At the British Embassy it was said that Britain did not need more foodstuffs than she was procuring.

FRENCH DRAGOON GUARDS A VILLAGE

PARIS, Aug. 22.—A story worthy of Dumas or Balzac is told by the Matin: In recent Alsace skirmishes a French Dragoon horse was killed. He was stunned by the fall and left for dead on the field. Some hours later the French saw him on foot at the entrance to the Village. "What are you doing here", the officer of the patrol demanded strongly. "Oh I am occupying this Village," was the answer. "I was waiting for you to come, the Germans are in the wood yonder but they dare not enter the Village while I am here because they won't believe that I am alone."

All the goods and valuables were stolen from the bodies of officers and soldiers.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 22.—Seattle papers today publish a story of the arrival on the Pacific coast of the British Cruiser Newcastle and the French Cruiser Montcalm, which are being coaled from the Esquimalt station and is cruising up and down the coast.
