THE HIGHLANDS, Wednesday night. Al Blanchard's Orchestra. 248.

A REAL TREAT—Mr. Ed Acomb treated The Guardian staff yesterday to toothsome chocolate bars, which were much enjoyed.

RECORD NUMBER OF CARS—The early car ferry yesterday brought over no fewer than 57 tourists cars—a record so far. A number of cars failed to get on board and had to wait till the late ferry.

WEEK-END VISITORS—Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Allan, Moncton, Mrs. R. A. and Miss Nora Bowie, Brookville, Ont., Mr. and Mrs. Pottinger, and Misses Harrington and Reid, Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Babbage, New York City were week-end visitors in the city, who registered at the Canadian National.

VAGABOND ARTIST WILL DISPLAY ABILITY—Claude Bradley, the Nova Scotia vagabond artist, arrived in the city over the weekend. Although Mr. Bradley is well known all over the North American Continent, this is the first time he has visited the Island. He generally travels by the side door pullman and knows the rights of the Knights of the Road. He is a unique character, and an accomplished artist, scenes coming from his brush in fifteen minutes. During the exhibition he will be engaged by the Rogers Hardware Company demonstrating Gliddens Jap-a-Lac Paints. Come and see this well known philosopher artist at work.

"THE JOLLIES" ENTERTAINMENT—The party recently given by the Gyros to the cast of "The Jollies" was an outstanding success. About one hundred and fifty took advantage of the boat sail. The night was perfect, and promptly at 7 o'clock the S.S. "Harland" left Pictou's Wharf and steamed out the harbor. A sing-song was organized on the rear deck, music being provided by Gyro Albert Blanchard, assisted by Alyre Arsenault. This entertainment was greatly enjoyed by all on board, and during the time the Gyros handed out ice cream cones to the satisfaction of all, even the kiddies had their fill. Returning to the wharf at 8:45, the junior members of the cast were taken to their homes, while the senior members motored to Beach Grove Inn to attend a private dance. Here they were joined by the cast of the Ice Pageant. Altogether, about one hundred couples attended the dance, which was most enjoyable. Music was provided by Albert Blanchard and his orchestra.

FORESTALLING

THE CUT-WORM

A warning has been issued by the Entomological Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, that the conditions this spring in certain areas of Saskatchewan and Alberta, west of a line drawn north and south through Regina, have been such that a more extensive outbreak of the pale western cut-worm may be expected next year. The adult of the pale western cut-worm is a grayish moth which begins to fly and lay its eggs from the first of August to the fifteenth of September. During that time any land that is being cultivated, pastured, harvested, or distributed in any way, is likely to receive eggs and be infested next spring. It is the opinion of the Entomological Branch that, since the eggs are laid only on loose soil, any field being summer-fallowed should be kept free from weeds and then left entirely undisturbed until after September 15th. It is also urged that land which is harvested between August 1 and September 15 be not seeded next spring until it is known definitely that no cut-worms are present.

CANADA'S POULTRY AT ROME

Canada's poultry exhibit to the World's Poultry Congress to be held at Rome, Italy, from September 6 to 15, has been shipped on the Italian liner Saturnia via Naples en route to the exhibition. The birds are in fine condition and consist of tricolors of Barred and Plymouth Rocks, White Wyandottes, S. C. White Leghorns, R. C. Black Bantams, Rhode Island Reds and one Chanteclair.

"Well, how's married life?"
"It's like Eden, old man."
"Splendid."
"Yes, we've nothing to wear and we're in daily fear of being turned out."

from 6 to 30 days in darkness. The periods of cold and darkness varies with the varieties of winter and spring cereals. In this manner it is claimed that the crop yield is greatly augmented. Later, the Cereal Division contemplates reporting some definite data after summarizing the additional field results.

CITIZEN EFFORT NEEDED

"I would point out that there is not a city in Canada (and I have visited practically all of them) where one will not find slum conditions. This is a challenge to the citizens of these communities to insist that these slums be abolished and replaced with modern sanitary buildings. . . I challenge the right of a landlord to receive rentals from an insanitary and dilapidated building when he is financially able to replace it with a decent structure."—Hon. H. H. Stevens.

HONEST MANUFACTURERS

It is a very rare occurrence for fertilizers sold in Canada to be below the registered guarantee in plant food. This happy position is credited largely to the wholehearted support of Canadian fertilizer manufacturers and importers in conforming with the provisions of the Fertilizer Act and thus assisting the fertilizer inspectors of the Dominion Seed Branch in its enforcement.

Harvesting General All Over Canada

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 21—Harvesting is now general over the western provinces except in the more northerly districts of Saskatchewan and Alberta. In the southern part of the three provinces threshing machines are humming and grain deliveries at country points are increasing. The quality and grade of the outrun so far is good and if fine weather continues during threshing this year's western wheat crop should be of exceptionally high quality, according to the weekly crop report of the Department of Agriculture Canadian National Railways.

Cutting in southern and central Manitoba is almost completed but is not so far advanced in the northerly districts. Threshing is in full swing and great variations in yields are being realized. Both quality and yield of coarse grains vary a great deal from one farm to another even in similar localities. Northern Manitoba from Dauphin north and west will harvest a normal yielding crop with some districts producing over the best crops on record. Along the Leuvan, Lampman, Avonlea, Gravelbourg, Central Butte, Riverhurst, Gleasonville, Riverhurst, and other sub-divisions, weather has been warm with scattered showers and wheat cutting is about seventy per cent completed. In some of these localities fields are too poor to be cut for anything except feed, while others show prospects of averaging around twenty bushels to the acre. Coarse grains are poor and the yields will be very light. Central Saskatchewan has conditions similar to southern Saskatchewan and many districts will harvest extremely light crops, while others can expect a fair to good outrun.

Prospects are from fair to poor along the Blaine Lake and Lanigan sub-divisions, with other sub-divisions centering on Prince Albert showing more promise although harvest will not really be fully under way until next week.

Weather in the southern territories of Alberta has continued mostly dry and warm. Some districts received a few scattered showers but these were of little benefit at this late date.

Grasshoppers continue numerous in some localities along in the Drumheller and Oyen sub-divisions with their attendant damage. Along these sub-divisions wheat will yield from two to ten bushels to the acre. The Three Hills sub-divisions reports grain ripening very fast and cutting has commenced. The estimated yield is twenty bushels to the acre. Central Alberta, along the Camrose, Viking, Vegreville, Alliance, Blackfoot sub-divisions report cutting just nicely commenced. No damage has been experienced from any source and the outrun should be satisfactory.

Weather in the Peace River has been fine and warm. Grain is ripening fast and cutting will be general within a few days. Prospects for an average crop along the northern Alberta railways are good. Harvest operations dried up the flow of cattle on western stockyards this week which resulted in strengthening of prices. Stocker and feeder trade has shown improvement and good stockers are selling from $2.00 to $2.25. The hog market has also strengthened and this strengthening should continue for next week or two.

THREE WOMEN PUT ON SCOTLAND YARD

LONDON, Aug. 19 (A. P.)—Three women have been appointed as permanent members of the detective staff at Scotland Yard for the first time in the history of the metropolitan police.

The innovation, the latest of many reforms recently initiated by Lord Trenchard, the chief commissioner, followed experimental tests on women's aptitude for criminal investigation which proved eminently successful.

The three appointees were previously uniformed constables in the women's section of the metropolitan police and served a probationary period of one year in plain clothes with conspicuous success.

The women's section of London's police force numbers 100.

UNDER DISTRIBUTION

"Side by side with the alleged over-production, one is confronted with the stubborn fact that approximately two-third of the world's population is living under conditions of actual want. Indeed, in a substantial measure, below what is known as the line of bare subsistence. Consequently, it is only reasonable to say that the real difficulty is in our inability as humans to so direct our affairs that there should be an equitable distribution of the results of our labors!"—Hon. H. H. Stevens.

French Highway Historical Landmark

(By Josephine Hambleton) (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

PARIS, Aug. 21—To the usual animation of the highways of France along which, it is said, travel 1,700,000 a day, is now added the colorful exodus from cities to the sea. Two millions, it is expected, will go down this year to the shores of the Channel, the Atlantic and the Mediterranean. Half a million children will camp in the vacation colonies on the coast.

On the way, what is so delightful as the old inns which, with their quaint bright signs, tempt the wayfarer to tarry?

The most ancient of the inns which play so distinctive a part in the legends of the Great Roads is at Theze, Loir et Cher. It was built by the Romans and, if you have not forgotten your Latin, on the pavement in front of the massive stone walls, you may still read the imperial bill of fare, with prices as later.

Later inn-keepers are not above copying this admirable practice from those admirable tourists and practical travellers, the Romans. Today, whether along the lonely paths of the Pyrenees, the sunny roads of Provence, or the boulevards of Paris, posted up outside the door, for the uncompromising gaze of all and sundry, is the menu of the day's fare, with prices of each dish. Where the welcome adage "Vin compris" is lacking, the unhappy traveller knows that here he must pay extra for his wine.

In the heart of Calvados, six miles from Deauville, but six centuries in atmosphere, with its antique rafters against the sun-baked stucco is the Inn of the Golden Eagle, "L'Aigle d'Or."

Hors d'Oeuvre, haricots verts, green peas, potatoes, roast veal, cheese, apple tart (Tarte maison)—today's menu, hanging under the creaking sign of the gilded bird, ends with the encouraging: "Vin compris—Onze francs."

The whole, including tip, for 50 cents.

Inside, original prints from Dickens remind the traveller that he has found a favorite haunt of wayfarers from England. One oak bench, worn smooth by four centuries of diners, has cut deep in the brown wood the letters: "Bummel, 1830."

Beau Brummel carved his name in the bench, while supping here, on his way to Caen.

He who would pass the night at the sign of the Golden Eagle must go out through the great courtyard (where coaches drop up in the old days), climb the outside wooden staircase to the balcony above.

"Many travellers this year?"

"Fewer in cars, more on foot, especially from London," answers the jolly host.

The Inn, a favorite resort of artists, English and French dates from 1520. It was in the 16th century that the French first took to the roads wholesale and inn sprang up prolific as good intentions along the path of the prodigal.

At Totes, near Dieppe, the somewhat austere front of the Swan Inn (Hotel du Cygne) belies the comfortable interior which Guy de Maupassant made famous in "Boule de Suif," the huge copper kettle left by Napoleon after a sojourn here still hangs before the broad fireplace. Established, too, in the 16th century, it became known as a rendez-vous of the king's cavaliers. It was a favorite stopping place of Messire Castelmore, known more commonly as D'Artagnan, on his secret and perilous errands across the Channel.

Even more brilliant it became under Louis XV who designated it a hunting lodge for Madame de Pompadour. In the Great War, it was for a time the refuge of the King and Queen of the Belgians. Dynasties pass but appointments and service are much the same as when D'Artagnan made his sudden apparitions here. The host, in modest chef's cap, still welcomes the guest and vaunts good fare and modest rate.

There are inns famous for the departure of kings in exile. At "La Comanderie" a few leagues from Evreux, Louis Philippe stopped in 1848, in his precipitate flight from the revolution. In the simple room, with its old rafter mellow in the Autumn light, the Empress Eugenie rested a few minutes in September 1870 and had a cup of coffee before the fire. She too was flying from Republican Paris.

Others are known for their splendid entrances. They are to be found along the Route of One Hundred Days, known as the Route Napoleon. It runs from Cannes to Grenoble on the way to Paris. At the Inn of the Golden Arm (L'Auberge du Bras d'Or) at Sierston, the room where Napoleon had his first sleep after his escape from Elba is much the same as it was in March 1815. At Grenoble, the Hotel des Trois Dauphins still preserves some of

IN MEMORIAM

GEORGE BRADLEY

Death came with startling suddenness to the home of Mr. J. P. Bradley, High Sheriff of Queens County, and Mrs. Bradley when their son George was killed on his way home from Summerside on the morning of August 3rd.

Born at the old home in Kelly's Cross on March 13, 1908, Mr. Bradley was in his early manhood, with every prospect of health and happiness for the future, but an unfortunate automobile accident brought grief and bereavement to the happy family circle where he was sincerely loved for his retiring and gentle ways. A devoted son and kind brother he is sincerely mourned by his father and mother, three sisters and two brothers—Mary E., Annie, Janie, (Mrs. Russel Bell), Austin and Robert, besides a host of relatives to whom the sympathy of the Province is extended.

The funeral took place on Saturday morning. Requiem Mass being celebrated at 9 o'clock at St. Dunstan's Basilica by Rev. Louis Dougan, a large concourse of friends attending to pay their respects to the deceased who was esteemed by all who knew him.

The cortege then proceeded to St. Joseph's Church, Kelly's Cross, Rev. Clarence Pitre officiating, after which the remains were laid to rest in the adjoining cemetery.

The deceased was a member of the Holy Name Society and the Benevolent Irish Society. The B.I.S. attended the funeral in a body and several of the members followed the remains to their last resting place in the peaceful cemetery in Kelly's Cross. May his soul rest in peace.

The pall bearers were: John S. Garrick, Roy McDonald, Frank Acomb, Charles Bradley, Frederick Bradley, Ray Doyle.

MR. MURDOCK McLEOD

The death of Mr. Murdock McLeod of St. Peter's Road took place at the P. E. Island Hospital on July 19th, 1933, after a short illness. The deceased who had always possessed a strong and robust physique, had taken suddenly ill was taken to the P.E.I. Hospital, and despite the kind care and attention of efficient nurses and medical skill given him, he was not able to resist the call of that cruel monster Death. He was a man of ordinary ability, possessing the good virtues of a kind and loving husband and father, upright and honest in all his dealings with his neighbors, always trying to live among his fellowmen and practice the rule of doing unto others as he would be done by.

He was held in high esteem and won the favor and respect of the community in which he lived and will be greatly missed by all who know him. Not dead to us, who loved him best, not lost, just gone before. He leaves to mourn their loss a sorrowing wife, nee, Sade McDonald, four sons and two daughters, also two sisters, Mrs. Dan McLean and Mrs. Jessie Oliver, besides a host of neighbors, friends and relatives in whose hearts and affections the vacancy can never be filled.

He was a son of the late Norman McLeod and Margaret McLeod of Belle Creek, P.E.I., where he was born 64 years ago, and moved shortly after to his late home on St. Peter's Road. To the sorrowing wife and family who are now stricken with grief and sorrow almost unbearable, we offer our deepest sympathy and can only point them to one above all others, who is able and willing to help them bear their burdens in their dark hours of grief and sorrow. The funeral which was largely attended, showed the esteem with which he was held, followed the remains to their last resting place in the Cardigan churchyard, where all that remained of a loving husband and kind father were placed to await the resurrection morn.

MRS THEOPHILUS DOUCETTE

On Wednesday, August 9th there passed peacefully away at the Medford Hospital, Mrs. Annie M. Peter's Doucette, wife of Theophilus Doucette, of Medford, Mass. Although Mrs. Doucette had been ill for five months, yet the end came as a shock to her many friends. She was born at North Rustico, P. E. I., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Peters, and moved to the States twelve years ago. The late Mrs. Doucette was 41 years of age—a young woman to have to leave life at a time when those who loved her, needed her most. Besides a sorrowing husband she leaves to mourn one son, Francis, also one sister and three brothers, namely—Mrs. Joseph M. Gallant of North Rustico; Jerome and Joseph also of Rustico and Henry of Charlottetown. The funeral was held Friday morning from the Sacred Heart Church in Malden, Mass., with a Requiem High Mass sung by Rev. Thomas Mareham, D. D., and was largely attended. She was buried in St. Mary's cemetery, Wakefield, and services at the grave were conducted by Rev. Father Sheehan.

The pallbearers were as follows: Messrs. Joseph Martin, Raymond Dolron, Joseph Gallant, Neil Doucette, Everett Jenkins, Eugene Connolly. Many beautiful floral offerings were received.
