WOOL INDUSTRY BADLY HIT

LONDON, Aug. 31.—A blight has fallen upon the wool textile industry. The change in fashions, the competition of artificial silk, blind faith in the father-to-son tradition of ownership, the antiquated nature of so many of the mills compared with those of foreign rivals are discussed by an expert, A. J. Cumings in The News-Chronicle. "The wool textile industry has been terrifically hit all over the world by the change to domestic fashions. Whereas a costume in 1914 took cloth of the order of 5 1-4 yds in 1930 it was of the order of 2 3-4 yards. The stockings worn by women were, as to approximately 90 per cent worsted in 1914. Today it is a rare thing indeed to see a woman in worsted stockings. And feminine underwear has also moved to artificial silk. Those changes doomed hundreds of mills and firms all over the world. As we were dominating overwhelmingly the greatest textile country, we were immeasurably the hardest hit."

POLICE HEAD'S ANNUAL REPORT SHOWS LARGE INCREASE

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—Placid London, which relies on Scotland Yard to guard its safety, was startled by Lord Byng's admission that he must have more men to combat the steady crime increase in the city, apparently due to the economic depression. The annual report for 1930 by Lord Byng, the Commissioner of Police for the Metropolis, showed more serious crime and more minor offenses than in 1929, but that there were fewer police. It was made plain that Scotland Yard had not lost any of its effectiveness, but is hard-pressed for the first time in two decades. The number of criminal offenses has compelled Lord Byng to reorganize the force and seek more recruits.

Burglaries Increase

Burglaries have increased conspicuously. Hard times has driven the criminals to bold tactics and many homes have been broken into and valuables stolen, while the occupants slept or visited the movies. There were 352 burglary cases in 1930, compared with 262 in 1929. Housebreaking cases increased to 2,865 from 2,543. Buildings, other than houses or homes, broken into in 1930 aggregated 2,101 compared with 1,539 in 1929. Robbery and larceny from persons continued to show a "disquieting increase." Simple larcenies increased from 5,800 to 7,036. Cases of robbery and assaults with intent to rob increased from 60 to 77 and larceny from persons amounted to 931 as against 319 for 1929. These totals are the highest recorded for many years and include a number of cases of bag-snatching by men using motor cars which is comparatively new in London.

Bigamy Jumps

Bigamy shared in the general increase. There were 105 cases last year as against 83 in the previous year. Extortion cases increased to 48 from 20, being more than three times the number since 1918.

The recorded value of property stolen was approximately $4,782,700 being an increase of approximately $797,865. The value of property recovered was approximately $1,165,180, or an increase of approximately $203,930.

Burglars and housebreakers and other criminals have begun to adopt the American crime methods by stealing automobiles to make their getaway or to carry out big hauls. Because of this new tendency thefts of motor cars increased by 50 per cent to 4,941, but 4,759 were recovered.

EXPERTS FIND NEW BLOOD TEST

PARIS, Aug. 31. (U.P.)—After a year and a half of work Professor Henri Vaquez, leading cardiologist and one of "Firebrand Briand's" physicians, in collaboration with other world heart specialists, has discovered a new way of taking blood pressure readings with the oscillometer.

Treating cases of hypertension, or high blood pressure, before they become chronic, will be made possible through the discovery. "Hitherto," said Dr. Romeo J. LaJole, one of the collaborators from Los Angeles, Calif., "the maximum and minimum blood pressure have been used and have shown too great variation from time to time, to permit dependable diagnosis. But this method of taking the average pressure will result in greatly improved technique. The new discovery has thrown light on what probably will lead to the eventual ability to measure the dynamic capacity of the heart. "Our findings have been confirmed by outside investigators in Germany and Italy. The new method of blood pressure reading proves also that hypotension, or low blood pressure, is not a disease, as was formerly believed. Assisting Professor Vaquez and Dr. LaJole, are Drs. P. Gley, physiologist, and Mg. Gomez. It also was pointed out that the new method will be invaluable to insurance companies. "He looked so stupid when he proposed to me." "Well, darling, look what a stupid thing he was doing."
