Ottawa St. Pats Win Junior Opener

The Juvenile Kinsmen of Summerside and the Charlottetown Midgets, N.B.-P.E.I. hockey champions in their respective branches, will mark time this week pending a decision in both classes in the Nova Scotia playdowns.

✣ ✣ ✣

Cape Breton will be the scene of the opening games in both leagues tonight when the Truro juveniles meet the Shipyards at Sydney and the Truro midgets take on the entry from Glace Bay. Return games in the home and home series will be in Truro Friday or Saturday.

✣ ✣ ✣

Frank Hansen, skip of the Prince Edward Island curling entry in the Macdonald-Brier Tankard play at Saskatoon, arrived home Saturday night. Frank spoke glowingly of the hospitality extended his rink on the trip and at the bonspiel proper.

✣ ✣ ✣

Commenting on the play the Charlottetown Skip stated the weserners excel in the "knock-out" style of play. "They hardly ever play a draw shot, but lay out and raise in, or play to the side of the house and 'chap and lie'," said Frank.

✣ ✣ ✣

"Depending on the score of the game they may even decide to drift their stones straight through. And can they ever use the broom. They really use that piece of equipment to advantage and it is nothing unusual to see three of them sweeping a stone in perfect unison to coax it on its way."

✣ ✣ ✣

Frank reported that the matches drew almost as large crowds as hockey games. The houses were packed for all the matches with spectator space at a premium. Other members of the rink to return were Walter Pickard, mate, and Wes Whitlock, first stone. Frank Cox, the other member of the team, is expected home this week. Chief Justice Thane A. Campbell who attended the "blue-ribbon" curling classic and a trustee of the Macdonald-Brier Tankard has also returned.

✣ ✣ ✣

The National Hockey League is suffering from "growing pains" and Doug Vaughan of the Windsor Star, comments on this problem as follows:

✣ ✣ ✣

"National Hockey League magnates, who are never happy unless they have something to worry about, have a new problem on their hands. They have discovered that the sport is getting too big for its boots or, to be more explicit, that the present day arenas aren't big enough to house the crowds with the result that they, the magnates, are losing money. And if you know these hockey magnates you would appreciate that hitting them in the pocket-book is to deliver a blow where it hurts most.

✣ ✣ ✣

"As an example, just think how the management of the Chicago Black Hawks must feel today. The Hawks closed the most successful home season — at the box office—in their 20-year-old history on Wednesday night by setting a new National League paid attendance record of 440,040 for 25 scheduled games.

✣ ✣ ✣

"The spacious Chicago Stadium —largest in the circuit—has been filled to its topmost rafters this season in reaching a mark that can hardly be surpassed without building a bigger stadium.

✣ ✣ ✣

"The best previous record was 360,572, also made by Chicago in the 1943-44 season. In breaking this mark, the attendance averaged better than 17,500 for the entire home schedule.

✣ ✣ ✣

"This is a far cry from the days of 1926 when a group of young men from Western Canada introduced hockey to the Chicagoans at the old Chicago Coliseum. Approximately 7,000 of the more curious witnessed that first game and a total of 50,000 was the paid attendance for the season.

✣ ✣ ✣

"In three years hockey outgrew the Coliseum and was moved to the 16,000 seating capacity at the Stadium where the sport has gradually developed to the point where now even this building isn't big enough.

✣ ✣ ✣

"During the past season hockey-mad Chicago fans gobbled up all available seats weeks in advance. Every game was a sell-out.

"It has not been a situation peculiar to Chicago. The answer has been the same all around the league. According to the latest available figures the overall increase for the league has been 22 per cent. Believe it or not, but even the last-place Rangers will hang up a new attendance record with an average of better than 15,000.

✣ ✣ ✣

"The problem that confronts the magnates is what is to be done about these growing pains.

✣ ✣ ✣

"The solution, of course, at first glance appears simple enough. All that is needed in every city in the league is a newer and bigger rink. There isn't a doubt in the world that, had the Chicago Stadium been able to accommodate 30,000 people, there would have been 30,000 people present for nearly every game. The same holds true for the rinks in the other cities—Detroit, Montreal, Boston and New York.

✣ ✣ ✣

"However, as conditions are today, it is easy to say "build a new rink" but a virtual impossibility to do—especially a rink that would handle a crowd of 25,000 and upwards."

Halifax Team Outclassed By Visiting Team

BY BERT ALLEN

HALIFAX, March 18 — (CP)— Ottawa St. Patrick's College juniors outclassed Halifax St. Mary's, 9-5 in a free-scoring game here tonight to take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-three, first-round Memorial Cup playdown series.

The Ottawa District champions were superior in all departments once they hit their stride in the second period and it took some brilliant work by Halifax goalie Harry Gilfoy to prevent the count from running into double figures.

St. Pat's victory makes them top-heavy favorites to capture the series in two straight games unless the tri-province titleholders show a form reversal in Wednesday's second fixture.

The Ottawa speedsters were forced to come from behind twice before assuming command. After a two-all opening period, Halifax went ahead, 3-2, early in the second frame and then St. Pat's sharpshooters connected for four successive markers without a reply to gain a 6-3 advantage going into the final session, in which they outscored their opponents 3-2 to chalk-up a well-earned verdict.

The game was wide-open all the way with very little heavy bumping by opposing defencemen although referees Leo Murray and Sibby Mundey handed out 16 penalties, all minors, during the fixture. Ten of the penalties came in a hectic first period that featured a general parade to the cooler.

Ottawa's first-string trio of Bobby Dennison, Dave Maguire and Les Anning set the scoring pace for the winners, collecting five goals and eight assists for their night's work. Dennison was the pay-off man on three occasions while Anning and Maguire each cashed a single. Their other marksmen were Phil Maloney with two, Sammy Gaw and Andre D'Aoust.

Big Dick Currie, fast-skating St. Mary's winger, was a standout performer for the Maritimers with two goals to his credit while the other St. Mary's counters went to defenceman Doug McNeil with two and Elmer MacGillivray.

St. Mary's, unbeaten in two years of junior and juvenile competition previous to tonight's encounter, were strengthened for the game by the addition of forwards Bernie MacDonald of Sydney Juniors, and Richard Gamble of Moncton Bruins, and defencemen Mike Hennessey from Charlottetown Collegians. The three players qualified under the Canadian Amateur Hockey's Association's replacement ruling which allows a team to add three players from its own district when competing in Memorial Cup playdowns.

Berwick Bruins Win Intermediate Opener 8-5 From Ch'town Legionaires

KENTVILLE, N.S., March 18 — (CP) — Berwick Bruins rang up an 8-5 victory over Charlottetown Legionaires here tonight in the opening game of the Maritime intermediate hockey championships. The second of the home-and-home game series will be played in the Prince Edward Island capital Thursday night.

The game, witnessed by 1,500 hockey fans from all parts of the Annapolis Valley, was played on heavy ice, although a fast pace was maintained. Easily one of the best games here this season it was unusual as no penalties were called against either side.

Charlottetown opened the scoring early in the first period as Strain flipped one past Hennigar in the Berwick goal on an unassisted effort. Before the period ended Berwick had scored four times and Charlottetown twice more, with Berwick leaving the ice one goal up.

In the second period the Bruins poked in two more against a lone effort by the Legionnaires, to increase their lead by one point. Cudmore, Charlottetown goalie, was slashed under the chin by a high stick in this period, but returned to the game after a short rest.

The third period was a repetition of the second, as Charlottetown again was outscored two to one. Cudmore put on a smart display in this period. Throughout the game, both teams were hampered slightly by the heavy ice.

G-O-L-F

By BYRON NELSON

It seems as though everybody has a different idea about how to stand or how to grip the putter in order to putt well. Therefore, let's discuss putting today.

When you miss a short putt you've definitely lost a stroke. Whereas when you hook a drive or miss a chip you can still overcome your mistake by hitting a good chip or making a good putt.

Putting is done mainly by a sense of concentration and feel; feel of the putter head, the touch. To putt well there are a few fundamental things that must be done.

As for advising you how to stand and how to grip the putter, that seems unimportant because everybody holds the putter differently and stands differently. Yet they all obtain about the same results.

One of the very necessary things to do in order to putt well is to keep your putter on the line. In other words, when it goes back of the ball it must stay on a line and hit through the ball towards the cup. At all times during your putting swing, the putter must be low to the ground and low on the follow-through. This gives the ball overspin and makes it roll true.

Another very necessary thing to remember is to keep your body still while actually putting. Any movement will throw your putting stroke out of line.

Some of the best putters we have had in the game in recent years are Horton Smith, Paul Runyan, Harold McSpaden, Sam Snead, and Ben Hogan. If you were to watch these men putting you would see that they all have a different stance and all use a decidedly different putting grip.

Smith and Snead stand fairly erect with their feet close together and play the ball approximately in the middle of their stance, with their weight equally distributed on both feet.

Paul Runyan, who has retired from the game to go into the jewelry business, stood with more weight on his left foot while keeping his feet spread well apart. He played even with his left foot

Harold McSpaden, who stands with his feet wide apart, plays the ball well in front of the left foot and kind of shoves the ball into the hole.

Runyan and McSpaden hold their putters firmly in the left hand, whereas Smith and Snead hold their putters lightly.

Ben Hogan, who is probably the most effective short putter in the game today, plays the ball off his left heel. He keeps his weight evenly distributed between both feet and has a very short backswing. He hits up and through on each putt.

All of these boys when they putt do not use all wrist-action or all arm-action in their strokes, but a combination of both. This keeps their clubheads working as a pendulum stroke.

My own style of putting is more like Snead's, but there is a difference. I play with a wide open stance so that when I am putting I am almost facing the hole. I keep my left hand firm on the club and try to tap the ball through to the hole with my right hand. I have to work constantly on my putting to keep from hitting the ball with a wrist motion. That's my weakness in this department of the game. However, when I can hold my left arm and hand firm on the club and tap the ball smoothly, then my putting is good.

French Bluebeard Begins Fight For Life

PARIS, March 18 —(AP)—Dr Marcel Petiot, compared in the French press with Bluebeard, began his fight for life today with the affirmation that the slayings of perhaps as many as 63 persons were of "traitors" executed by a resistance group to which he belonged.

The physician a short, dark man with piercing eyes, listened pensively to charges in the heavily-guarded Palais de Justice that his dwelling had been a veritable murder factory.

Petiot on the stand mentioned only "executions" by other members of the alleged group, not saying whether he had taken part in any of them. He said his "comrades" had used his house "rashly" in his absence.

DOUBLE AUTOMATIC BOOKLET

—Bedeque South Shore Hockey—

—The Freetown Grads drew first blood in the Bedeque South Shore hockey finals Thursday night by defeating the Bedeque Beavers 8-1 in a "rip-roarin" encounter, played before a large number of fans. After splitting a brace of goals with their opponents in the opening canto, the Jardine coached squad cut loose with an attack that netted seven goals in the last two periods, while Hill kept his net clear of rubber. The game was very fast, crammed with thrills and spills and although the score was rather lop-sided neither team let up in the least until the last bell. The Beavers lacked their scoring punch of previous games, and found trouble in piercing the Grad defence for close in shots.

Taylor with three goals, and Campbell and Somers with two each, were the big guns for Freetown, Frank and Austin McDonald were outstanding for the losers, the former getting their lone tally soon after the game started.

Young Rogers, Beaver goalie, although beaten eight times, turned in another of his brilliant performances.

No penalties were imposed by J. Myers and W. Stavert, officials in charge.
