Victim Of Grim Legal Immigration Farce

JOHN RADUNSKE, FATHER OF TWO, IS "MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY"—HE HAS COMMITTED NO CRIME BUT HELD IN JAIL

As a sample of a grim farce that might have been conjectured by the pen of Hugo or Balzac, John Radunske, a German youth raised in Ontario and father of two American born children, languishes in a Detroit jail, a victim of an impossible web of immigration red tape with two adjacent countries refusing to claim him as a citizen. LEFT, Radunske, aged 24, as he appears in Wayne county jail, Detroit. He has been in custody since Oct. 1, 1930. RIGHT, Radunske's two motherless children, American born, now in Canada, separated from their father by jail bars and a legal farce.

Nabbed In Town's First Bank Hold-up

THIRD BANDIT ONLY 15 YEARS OLD.

Hundreds thronged the court house at Coburg, Ont., when two of the youths charged with staging the town's first bank hold-up, Walter Clifford, 21, and Leslie Forbes, alias Leonard Forest, LEFT, 21 Ottawa, appeared and were remanded until March 3. They did not plead to the charge of robbing the bank of $1,985 while armed, Feb. 17. After the spectacular capture of the youths by bank clerks and citizens, police learned that the third member of the trio was only fifteen years old. He was taken separately before juvenile court and was remanded to the same date. The two accused presented a contrast in appearance and attitude as they were led into court by Provincial Constable Carey. Forbes was obviously ill at ease, despite his attempt at jauntiness. Clifford, a Nova Scotian, slouched into court and looked straight ahead of him in the dock, apparently oblivious of where he was and what was going on. His long black hair hung over his face and he made no attempt to straighten it.
