QUEEN'S CANADIAN FUND DONATIONS FOR AIR RAID VICTIMS

Repeated bombing raids on British port areas and the industrial Midlands has attracted fresh attention to the plight of the many thousands of civilians in Great Britain who are harried from shelter to shelter and finally driven into the open country by successive raids. Eventually places are found for them all, places of relative security, but their belongings of all kinds are destroyed. The task of emergency feeding alone is difficult. The task of setting them up on more with some quantity of clothing and bedding is much more difficult.

To meet these enormous needs, funds have been started in various parts of the world. Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth has permitted the use of her name in connection with the Dominion campaign, which is officially known as "The Queen's Canadian Fund for Air Raid Victims."

Every dollar contributed to the Queen's Canadian Fund goes without deduction to the Lord Mayor of London for distribution to the homeless and needy.

Fund Is $22,000 Richer By "Misunderstanding"

The Queen's Canadian Fund for Air Raid Victims finds itself unexpectedly $22,000 to the good. This is the happy fruit of a misunderstanding concerning a generous gift by Mrs. Kelly Evans, of Hot Springs, Virginia.

Mrs. Evans gave to the fund what she described as "$32,000 in gold" held for her in a bank in London—all funds donated to the Queen's Canadian Fund being distributed by the Lord Mayor's National Air Raid District Fund.

It was assumed that Mrs. Kelly Evans held gold worth $32,000 in Canadian currency, and the donation was recorded at $32,000 in Canadian currency. However, the money was actually gold dollars to a face value of $32,000.

According to a cable just received from the Lord Mayor, these coins realized £12,958. 10s. 10d. or a little over $57,000 in Canadian currency. The Lord Mayor, in his cable, asked the Chairman of the Queen's Canadian Fund to inform Mrs. Kelly Evans of this good news.

Mrs. Kelly Evans, it will be remembered, has already given to the Wings for Britain Fund her London bank balance of over £8,000.

An agreement against concluding a separate peace informed quarters suggested that a formal British-Soviet alliance probably would be a necessary first step, and they said there was no indication that such an alliance was being considered immediately.

They added, however, that "no one knows whether there eventually will be one," and they conceded that both Britain and the United States probably would welcome Russian assurance against a separate peace as a condition for the sending of material aid which would fall into German hands in the event of a Russian capitulation.

A committee was appointed to draft a resolution to be presented to a provincial convention dealing with conscription of wealth, manpower and national resources in connection with the winning of the war; also unemployment and emergency projects. Can. Legion To turn out On Sunday

German claim Continued success Against Russians

(By Alvin J. Steinkopf) (Associated Press Staff Writer)

BERLIN, June 26 — (AP) — The German army's drive to the east against Russia was claimed by Nazi military leaders to be progressing to their satisfaction today, while the Nazis through propaganda and diplomacy sought to rally other peoples to support the enterprise.

The march of Nazi soldiers in the field was called in Berlin the "epochal" as the German slogan.

In its daily communique issued from Hitler's headquarters, the high command was reticent about Russian losses.

"In the east," said this war bulletin, "operations on land and in the air continued on schedule yesterday. After decisions fell in our favor in numerous battles, successes in operations of great dimensions are beginning to show themselves."

This, aside from an observation that "naval units are participating in the fight against the Soviet Union," completed the official report on the eastern front given unofficially by the German news and propaganda agency was a claim that German and Rumanian air squadrons had heavily bombed important Russian naval bases along the northern coast of the Black Sea.

Attacks on railroad centres and highways and marching Russian columns in the northern Black Sea area were claimed to have brought Soviet military traffic virtually to a halt.

Military spokesmen claimed that in numerous places the German army had penetrated deeply, but they shied at naming the places. They confined their observations to theoretical expositions of German advantages.

As to an alleged European coalition against Communism, it was stated that Russian planes had bombed eastern Rumanian cities. Other Russian planes also were reported over Rumania, East Prussia and Finland.

ST. STEPHEN, N.B. June 26 — (CP)—A verdict that Beulah Bartlett died of injuries suffered in a car accident June 19 "through negligent driving" by Beverly Eaton of New Limerick, Me., was reached at the conclusion of an inquest here today. Eaton is under remand on a charge of reckless driving. The coroner's jury also found that when the coupe left the road the three passengers were crowded in the front seat with the driver, a violation of provincial law.

Canadian-born Pilot Officer Is decorated

(By Pat Ussher) (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, June 26 — (CP Cable)—A Canadian-born pilot officer was decorated today for courage and skill in a raid over Norway in May.

Pilot Officer Oliver L. Philpot who was born in Vancouver was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and Sergeant's Peter Grant and James West the Distinguished Flying Medal.

The citation said they were respectively, the pilot, air-gunner and wireless operator of a plane operating against an enemy airbase and shipping in Norway. Despite considerable anti-aircraft fire and the presence of an enemy fighter, Philpot dropped to 200 feet to bomb the target area.

The bomber was hit by anti-aircraft shells and attacked from the east by the fighter plane. West fired his machine guns until the rear turret was rendered unserviceable. Then West went forward and gave first aid to Grant who had been seriously wounded.

West, although not a wireless operator, got through a signal and obtained a homing bearing which Grant, despite the severity of his wounds, checked before fainting.

Although his compass was out of commission, Philpot, assisted by West, flew back to Britain and landed safely at their airbase in spite of the fact he had the use of neither wing flaps (used to check the speed of a plane) nor the undercarriage because the drydown controls had been shot away.

Philpot, the citation said, displayed great skill and courage under extremely difficult circumstances. West undoubtedly saved the life of Grant who, despite his wounds, displayed marked devotion to duty.

He made the announcements following a meeting with a special city health committee.

DECLARES

These parachute spies, as they were called, were said to carry wireless equipment. Some were captured by peasants and turned over to the military.

German-Rumanian batteries on the western side of the Prut River were silenced by Soviet artillery, and three pontoon bridges thrown across the river were wrecked, the communique said.

The Russians reported Rumanian prisoners said that in each of their regiments 40 German soldiers and officers were mingled "because the German command does not trust the Rumanian soldiers," and that German artillery units were planted behind the Rumanian troops as a "bait."

The German and Rumanian troops were said to have suffered heavy losses also near Sk
