

THE RELIEF OF LUCKNOW RECALLED.

Mr. Wm. JOHN TRAINER, 12 Bond Street Toronto, age 55 years, endorses Burdock Blood Bitters. He says: I served in the British army eleven years, and was through the Indian Mutiny under Sir Colin Campbell and Gen. Havelock. I had the bone of my left leg shattered by a splinter of shell at the relief of Lucknow. The wound never healed up properly and was continually breaking out and discharging matter. It was of such a size that two fingers could be laid in it. In the year of 1881 I took Burdock Blood Bitters and used Burdock Ointment as a dressing. This treatment gradually healed up the sore until at the end of six months it was completely cured. The cure has been a permanent one to this day (Jan. 15th, 1901), the sore has never broken out. The skin is perfectly smooth and clear and only a slight scar remains. Wm. JOHN TRAINER.

Repair Work

One of our great specialties

Our business has been so great for past few months it has been almost impossible to turn out our orders on time. The question naturally arises, What is the reason of so great a rush? The reason is plain, our plant is fitted throughout with the latest Modern Machinery and employing none but first class workmen, we are in a better position to turn out work in a satisfactory manner than any other establishment on P. E. Island. We have the facilities and know how to execute the work. Give us a trial and be convinced of the merits of our work.

ORNAMENTATION.

In one of his most pleasing essays Lord Bacon has told us that "God Almighty first planted a garden". And we are elsewhere told that in it was "every tree that is pleasant to the eye and good for food." The story raises the natural presumption that it is good for man, for every man and for every family to be surrounded with objects of natural beauty and utility and that among the objects available as pleasing to the eye are trees. This is the planting season, and in this fair land of ours trees can be planted and will grow almost everywhere. And yet how comparatively little has been done in the way of providing this form of aesthetic surroundings about the homes of the people.

It is true that tree planting has not been altogether neglected, whether in regard to those that are purely ornamental or those that produce fruits, but where the latter have been planted and cultivated the object has been very commonly a commercial one, and the ornamental idea has been mainly lost sight of. The two ought to be combined. The farm should be made beautiful as far as may be, if only because it is upon the farms of the country that a majority of our people have their homes, and if their surroundings are made beautiful the taste is elevated and cultivated and the national status in by so much raised to a higher plane. And it will pay to plant fruit trees on almost every farm, and to give them careful and skilled attention from year to year. There are hundreds of farms on P. E. Island that might be practically doubled in productive value by a few acres transformed into an orchard.

In our capital City as well far too little attention has been given to beautifying both the public squares and streets, and the private grounds of our citizens. All can see how great a transformation has been wrought in our central square, largely through the taste and effort of Mr. Arthur Newberry. The city owes him much, but the work ought to be extended and it would be found profitable as well as pleasing. If all our squares were made as attractive as they might easily be made with ornamental trees, well laid out walks and pretty flower plots the value of the entire property in the City would be appreciably increased, and especially those properties fronting on such squares, and life would also be made somewhat more pleasant for all.

And then how much might be done more than has been by individual citizens in rendering their grounds more beautiful with trees, plants and flower beds. Our American neighbors have as far surpassed the Canadians in this as they have in ornamenting their squares and streets. Every residence ought to have its garden, however small, devoted to objects of beauty. A patch even 10 feet square can be made ornamental, and relatively as beautiful as an acre. Neglect of these things makes our town seem to tourist visitors to be dull and backward, and our people wanting in taste. They come from a land where both public and private taste has been more generally developed than with us, and where the many take pride in attractive surroundings rather than the few.

It is to be observed that a good work thus begun tends always to go on and extend. The man who plants trees and flowers and beautifies his grounds stimulates his neighbors to do likewise. Equally in regard to our public places of resort the same rule obtains. Not the humblest citizen of Charlottetown would willingly see Queen Square transformed into the unkempt and unsightly place it was a few years ago. In many cities prizes are given for the improvement of private premises. That great newspaper the Chicago Tribune has recently given generous prizes for the best garden. In Ottawa Lady Minto has offered prizes for City gardening. Ottawa is already a beautiful City, and it is an evidence of the general advancement that the writer can remember the time, since confederation, when a herd of cows were permitted to feed at will upon Parliament Square in that City. No doubt there is an improvement in both public and private taste in these matters, but our progress is too slow. Both in town and country we need to awake to the fact that this is the twentieth century and the world is moving forward at not merely railway speed, but at electric speed. We must bestir ourselves if we are to keep up with the procession.

HYPNOTISM.

Just now some of our readers may be more than usually interested in the subject of hypnotism and desire to know more about it. The Century Dictionary gives the following definition of the term:

An abnormal mental condition characterized by insensibility to most impressions of sense, with excessive sensibility to some impressions and an appearance of total unconsciousness, especially, that variety of this condition which is artificially induced, usually by concentrating the attention of the subject upon some object of vision, as a bright bit of glass, or upon the operator, who generally aids in the result by making a few light passes with his hands. When in this condition the mental action and volition of the subject are to a large extent under the control of the operator.

Hypnotism is in fact the scientific name for the phenomena formerly attributed to mesmerism, which took its name from F. A. Mesmer, a German physician who propounded the theory in 1778 in Paris. The power was supposed to emanate from the operator in the form of animal magnetism, and originally Mesmer professed to produce his results by the operation of actual magnets, but all such apparatus has long since been abandoned. It is now generally admitted that there is no force of any kind transmitted from the operator to the person operated upon, and many of the earlier pretensions of mesmerism have been abandoned. The value of mesmerism, hypnotism, or Braiddism (as it is sometimes called after the English surgeon Braid who first studied it scientifically) is probably not very great. At the same time it is susceptible to mis-application and to some abuse.

If entire insensibility to pain could be produced by hypnotic sleep few persons would take anaesthetics and few physicians would apply them in cases of surgical and dental operations. But although many eminent surgeons have made careful investigation of the truly remarkable phenomena of hypnotism it has not yet taken the place of chloroform, ether, or cocaine in the hospitals and at the operating table. The reason is obvious. Hypnotism will not do what has been so frequently claimed for it in that regard. We remember very well being invited by an eminent professor of hypnotism in another city to witness the extraction of a decayed tooth from a subject in hypnotic sleep. The subject in this case was the professor's own daughter, a young woman of some 18 years. She was described as a good subject, and both she and her father had apparently full faith that the operation would be painless. It failed, however, and at the critical moment of extraction the patient screamed most lustily and apparently suffered greatly afterwards.

Doubtless hypnotism will be found to have its uses, and there may be something in what is called "suggestive therapeutics" in which suggestions made by the operator to the patient from time to time while the patient is under control of the operator, may be beneficial in some cases. No person should however submit to alleged curative treatment by this method except under direction of a skilled physician. So-called hypnotic treatment has been much exploited by quacks in recent years, but this affords no ground for condemning hypnotism of itself. Its phenomena afford an interesting study for those who can keep a cool head and examine its results impartially.

Great Victory.
BARNABY RIVER, N. B. Mar.—Few cases of illness and recovery have excited the interest in this community, as has the kidney trouble of Mr. Cornelius Crotte. Mr. Crotte's treatment by the doctors at home and in the hospital, and the fact that they absolutely gave him up as a case beyond all hope, is well known. His subsequent restoration by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills reads like a miracle. "For five years I have suffered off and on with kidney trouble. Last fall I had an attack, for which the doctors had little hope of my recovery. I was obliged to go to the hospital for treatment, but it did me no good, so I came home given up by the doctors. A friend suggested Dodd's Kidney Pills. From the first box I improved. Now I am at my work every day."

Every Form of Piles

Mr. George Thompson, a leading merchant of Blenheim, Ont., states:—"I was troubled with itching piles for fifteen years, and at times they were so bad I could scarcely walk. I tried a great many remedies, but never found anything like Dr. Chase's Ointment. It cured me."
Mr. Jas. Jackson of the Laurie Spool Company, St. Alexis des Monts, Que., writes:—"I was troubled for two years with that cruel disease, bleeding piles, and after using Dr. Chase's Ointment, I can say I am entirely rid of it. It is a treasure to all suffering from piles."
Mr. W. D. Thornton, blacksmith, Calgary, N.W.T., states:—"For fifteen years I suffered untold agony from blind, itching piles, and have been under treatment with well-known physicians. I had 15 tumors removed, but obtained no positive cure. I have suffered more than I can tell, but can now say that, thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment, I am positively cured, and by one and a half boxes. 60c a box."
