same as the educational system. The child starts in, in the common school, and begins to learn the alphabet. He progresses until he reaches Prince of Wales College. The same is true with the education we receive in agriculture. We start in with the school fairs, then progress to County fairs, County Judging Competitions, and finally we graduate to the Central Exhibitions. You may call that professional breeding or what you like, but so far as live stock exhibitions are concerned, they occupy an important position in the live stock activities of the Province.

Where would a man go who was desirous of improving his herd of cattle,—to the back woods or to some place where they never spend money in educating themselves along live stock lines? Not at all. Where else could he go but to the professional breeders of the Province; and that is why I will defend the Exhibitions so long as I am at the head of the Department of Agriculture.

Seed Fairs.

The Leader of the Opposition wondered why Seed Fairs were dropped out of Provincial activities. Well, I am wondering why he is wondering that, because they have never been dropped.

MR. SAUNDERS: I asked you if they were, and you nodded your head and I took it for granted that they were.

HON. MR. MYERS: I refer my hon. friend to page 98 of the Agricultural Report. The old Seed Fairs that he refers to have been dropped; but let him turn to page 98 and he will find what we are doing along that line. I may say, for the benefit of my hon. friend, that whenever he is in doubt, let him come down to the office, and we will give him full information. The "Ornament" of that Department will take the greatest care and trouble to see that he secures the fullest information.

MR. SAUNDERS: You are exceedingly obliging.

HON. MR. MYERS: That is what we like to be. Another activity we are interested in is Field Grain Competitions. The object of these competitions might be cited as follows:

1. To stimulate an interest in the production of pure, clean seed of the best varieties of our own farm crops.
2. To encourage and assist those who are engaged in growing seed grain.
3. To show the value of seed selection and the proper cultivation of the soil.
4. To direct the attention of the general farming public to the value of pure seed and better methods of cultivation.

In the old Seed Fairs, any man could pick out a special bit of seed and take a prize. Was the money expended along that line doing any practical good? I contend that it was not. In order to compete now in the Central Seed Fair in the College during Farmers' Week (there are separate contests for each County)—no man could compete in that competition unless he had fifty bushels of seed oats that he would actually sell, and unless he had twenty bushels of wheat or ten bushels of barley. That is where we are getting some benefit from these Fairs. It is just the same as in pure bred cattle competitions.

MR. SAUNDERS: Isn't that what we were doing?

HON. MR. MYERS: Not at all. Any man could compete, whether he had a bushel behind his sample or not.

Mr. Saunders and His Potatoes.

My hon. friend has some advice for the Potato Growers' Association. I guess he knows more than he did a year ago about potatoes. I am not very sorry for him in his losses. I always believe in the shoemaker sticking to his last and the lawyer to his books.

MR. SAUNDERS: That is a fine way to look after the potato industry!

HON. MR. MYERS: We grew more potatoes last year than ever before, even without my hon. friend's help. We want to keep the speculative element out of the industry, and I think he would be well advised in future to grow his own potatoes in his own office. (Laughter.) As to reports that he has heard here and there, I wonder if he knows that we have a representative man looking after the potato market down in the West Indies, also in Cuba, and in Calgary?

MR. SAUNDERS: I guess it is almost impossible to improve that Department!

HON. MR. MYERS: That is what we want to do,—improve it. In February 106 cars of potatoes were shipped from the Island. I saw at Albany one night on the branch line a string of cars, and it was an encouraging sight. I was just thinking, wouldn't it show a fine spirit on the part of the Leader of the Opposition if he would say to this House: "What a wonderful thing the establishment of the car ferry was for the Island. Wasn't it a great thing for the Island when Borden was elected to power in 1911 and established for this Province something that we never had before, and that we needed so badly." But my hon. friend forgets these things and it is well to bring them to his attention once in a while. So far as the Potato Growers' Association is concerned, they were never organized to deal in commercial or table stock, only in certified seed. But circumstances have forced them to go into the table stock market; and one of the leading produce dealers in my hon. friend's own home town of Summerside was in Charlottetown the other day and told Secretary Boulter that the Growers' Association did good service to the Island in operating this year, for if they had not been operating he did not know what would become of the situation. The dealers did all they could, but the crop was so large and conditions so bad that individual dealers simply dared not take a chance, and for that reason the Growers' Association had to go into the marketing of table stock and they did wonderful work in that connection.

The Leader of the Opposition argued at length that the Technical School which was established under the reign of my predecessor in office was destined to be a wonderful institution indeed. I wonder if there are not some other things in connection with that institution that my hon. friend knows, but about which he did not speak. Does he know that it was the intention of my predecessor to make it a boarding School, and that there were in the vicinity of 50 beds and mattresses purchased for that school? They are out there yet, some of them.

So far as the conduct of the business at the School was concerned, we found it in a loose state indeed. It was costing too much money,—altogether out of proportion to the educational expenditure of the Province. Seven boys from the country were there during the last winter, and the expenditure on the School was over $20,000. Would any sane man contend that this kind of thing should be continued, especially since we have lost the Dominion grant of $30,000 to agriculture. But we have succeeded in making arrangements with the Department of Labor at Ottawa whereby we will be able in a sensible, businesslike way to take full advantage of the technical grant available.

Women's Institutes.

Just one thing more with reference to the Department of Agriculture. Turn to page 39 of the Agricultural Report and you will see a report from the Supervisor of Women's Institutes. That shows what we are doing along that line. Since December the branches have increased by six, and three more are to be organized this month. I wish every hon. member could have been present, as were the Premier and myself, at the College on Friday last, to see the closing of the Short Course conducted there by the Women's Institute. There were 24 young girls in the class, and that was the third class this season. The demonstration was in the way of samples showing the progress made in cooking, millinery and dress-making, and in the short time at their disposal it was certainly very much to the credit not only of the pupils but to the teachers as well.

The Best Cure For Tuberculosis

What is the best cure for tuberculosis? Undoubtedly the one that has actually proved itself to be such. Of course there is no cure for tuberculosis in its advanced stage. But the Farador has proved itself to be the master of this disease in its early stages. Here is one example.

A few years ago a young man living in Charlottetown had been pronounced by medical experts to be in the early stages of consumption. Several members of his family had died of it, but he decided to try the Farador. Some laughed when they heard this. One of his best friends said: "All the Faradors in creation wouldn't cure him." But he laughs best who laughs last. Soon after he began its use health returned to him. He is now the picture of health and a fine specimen of manly vigor. His name will be given to anyone for the asking.

A word to the wise is sufficient It is suicidal folly for anyone in poor health to turn a deaf ear to the Farador when it so clearly points the way to health.

About co-operative marketing of wool, if you will turn to page 37 of the Agricultural Report you will find, Mr. Speaker, that where hitherto the co-operative marketing of wool was conducted in more or less of a haphazard manner, we are now getting right after the producers, to send in their wool. It used to be: "Bring in your wool if you like, and we will market it. If not, sell it where you like; it is your own look-out." But the Department of Agriculture last year wrote to 4000 sheep breeders on the Island to send in their wool. Possibly the Leader of the Opposition does not even know that there are 4,000 sheep-breeds in the Province.

MR. SAUNDERS: It is hard for me to know anything when you know it all!

HON. MR. MYERS: If you would come down to the Department of Agriculture I would help you to know some of these things; you would be very welcome to any information along that line. But when the hon. gentleman comes before the House and attempts to "put over" something that somebody told him, then I am going to check him up, and check him hard. (Loud applause.)

Stock Market

MONTREAL, May 4.—Dominion live stock report cattle receipts 965 with a heavier offering of cattle prices were from 15 to 25 cents lower on the medium and good grades of steers and heifers. The best lots of steers offered averaged 1235 pounds and sold for $8.35, other lots of good steers were sold for $7.75, $8.00 and $8.25, medium brought from $6.75 to $7.40 but one or two common ones were included at the lower figure, most of the common steers were unsold at time of writing. A few very light ones brought $5.00 good cows sold for $6.00 to $6.50 with the bulk nearer the $6.00 mark.

Medium cows sold from $4.50, $5.50, bulls were in better demand and prices ranged from $3.50 to $2.35, several bulls were sold on outside orders. Quotations, choice steers, good $7.75 to $8.35, medium $6.75 to $7.50 common $5.00 to $6.65 butcher heifers good $7.00 to $7.95, medium $6.00 to $3.75 common $4.00 to $5.00, butcher cows good $6.00 to $6.50, medium $3.50 to $5.25, canners $2.00 to $2.50, cutters $2.50 to $3.25, butchers good $5.25, common $3.50 to $4.50.

Calf Receipts 2,142. There was a fairly good demand for good quality calves and the best lots sold early from $6.00 to $7.00, with odd ones a shade higher, poor quality calves were slow and few sales made were around $5.00. Bids of $4.50 were made for pail fed calves and very light suckers. Quotations, good veal $7.55, medium $5.50 to $6.50, common $4.50 to $6.50. Sheep receipts $1.60, sheep sold from $5.00 to $7.50 per cwt., bulk close to $6.50, sheering lambs sold from $6.60 to $11.00 each. Quotations, ewes $5.50 to $7.00. Hog receipts $2,650. Hog prices were easier. Mixed lots of fair quality and fair weight sold from $12.50 to $12.75. With a few early sales to butchers at $13.00. Indications point to lower prices before the market is cleaned up. Sows $10.00 to $10.25.

The climate of Prince Edward Island is a particularly trying one for wall coatings. Alabastine has never been affected by the moist atmosphere of the Atlantic coast. Year after year it has withstood the dampness and proven itself sanitary, odor-less and permanent.

Other wall coatings claiming sanitation as a selling feature have been found to turn mouldy, smelly, non-permanent—wholly unsatisfactory when compared with the results obtained by using Alabastine.

Alabastine WILL NOT Rub off

Even after you feel well repaid by the service which Alabastine has given, it will continue to adhere permanently to the walls long after other materials have become mouldy or have peeled, chipped and cracked.

COLD OR NOT—IT MATTERS NOT

Alabastine mixed with hot water will give better results than any substitute. It can also be mixed in cold water with good results. This cannot be done with any competing article. The patent protected use of certain ingredients permits this.

The best decorators use Alabastine exclusively.
