Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—(CP)—Moderate weakness dominated the stock market today and both mining groups and the industrials were down at the close, the golds leading the decline with an index loss of 42. Western oils finished the day with a slight margin on the upside. Turnover at 178,000 shares was the heaviest in a week. Selling on Slave Lake featured the cheaper 5,000 shares and closing unchanged at 3.10. Kerr-Addison closed 10 cents down at 4. Dome weakened 1-4 to 16 and Braleone gained 25 cents to 9.25. Three of the senior base metals, Nickel, Hudson Bay and Noranda, closed narrowly higher and Smelters posted a minor decline. Industrials were dull and 30 down in the index at the close. A few issues, including Canada Foundry "A", Canada Packers, Canada Permanent, Honey Dew and Langley's pfd, weakened a point or more. The Canadian Breweries issues, Canadian C. Consolidated Bakeries, C.P.R. Dominion Steel B. Ford A and National Sewer Pipe netted fractional gains. Home Oil recorded a gain of 5 cents to 2.50 and British-Dominion was active on a gain of 3-8 to 2.10. Calgary and Edmonton closed a cent down at 1.75 and fractions were lost by Vermilata and Davies.

Aussies still Concerned over Air weakness

MELBOURNE, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Although valuable air reinforcements have reached Malaya, the Australian Government remains concerned over continued Japanese air superiority. Important messages received from the British Government in the last 48 hours are believed to contain assurances that more reinforcements are being arranged and will be dispatched as soon as possible. The new air units put into operation in the last few days represent only the preliminary instalments of the reinforcements needed to establish air parity. Federal circles have expressed satisfaction that the British Government will supply the necessary equipment as rapidly as difficulties of production and transport are overcome. It is felt confidently that co-operation between the army and air forces will improve as more planes are made available.

War Debate

The Prime Minister was hoarse and suffering from a cold. When he entered the chamber he was greeted by a wave of cheering. There was little suggestion of the political tension which developed in his absence. Many benches were vacant, the diplomatic galleries were empty, and it was obvious he would have little difficulty in persuading the House that the debate should be postponed. The attempt of Edgar Granville, Liberal National, to precipitate a statement on the Far East fell flat. The House listened silently while he sought to justify the claim of an urgent emergency. After the speaker, Capt. E. A. Fitzroy, overruled him, Mr. Grenville sat down and Mr. Churchill turned to a tribute to the late Duke of Connaught.

Expect Vigorous Debate

However, the Prime Minister's war review is expected to provoke vigorous debate and a vote of confidence possibly will be called. Some sources expect that critics of the government may introduce amendments seeking a minister of production, reorganization of the government, and establishment of an empire advisory council to include representatives of Canada, Australia and India. The question of India may also be raised as some members feel a government pronouncement in the direction of Dominion status for India would have a great effect on the general situation. The Prime Minister told a questioner that he would make a reply to an appeal by a group of Indian leaders, but added he was not sure that the "raising of far-reaching constitutional issues at this time, when the enemy is so near the gates of India, would be advantageous to the war effort."

Malayan Situation

In the House of Lords there was a discussion of some length on the Malayan situation. Lord Addison—who had called Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, the now relieved Singapore commander, a "nimble-pony"—explained that he had spoken deliberately because he was "terribly impressed with the danger that we are too complacent with inefficiency."

Breaking precedent, the Prime Minister suggested that his forthcoming war review, and other future statements, be recorded with a view to subsequent broadcasting. The government is understood to be planning to table a short motion embodying this proposal, and the House will decide the issue immediately.

There is strong feeling about the matter in Parliament, however. Many members argue that it would be unfair to broadcast a Churchill statement perhaps containing criticism of members' without also broadcasting members' retorts.

The ferry Fairview remained on the Charlottetown-Rocky Point schedule two days longer this winter than in 1941. Several teams are reported to have crossed the ice between the city and Rocky Point already.

point was seized by the Axis. The captured Italian generals were Fedele De Giorgis and Francisco Buttafuoco. War booty seized at Halafaya was being conveyed for use against the Axis troops in the continuing campaign at the desert approaches to Tripolitania. Bad weather has limited operations for several days in the El Asghelia area where Gen. Rommel's troops have dug in and have possibly been reinforced. Military observers said, however, that a short lull was to be expected while the British command brought up substantial reinforcements and supplies over the long land and sea routes before undertaking a full force assault on Rommel's position. The belief was expressed that Rommel, estimated to have some 80,000 troops still in his disposal, probably had received some tanks and reinforcements brought up at night along the coast by small boats from Tripoli. If he is dislodged from his present position, these sources said, he will have to move back across nearly 300 more miles of desert before reaching another suitable position.

14,000 Axis Prisoners taken in campaign By Edward Kennedy Associated Press Staff Writer CAIRO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—British authorities disclosed tonight that more than one third of the besieged Axis troops which surrendered at Halafaya last Saturday were Germans and listed among the prisoners two more Italian generals, a German major and a battalion of the crack Nazi 10th motorized infantry. The cleanup at Halafaya boosted to approximately 14,000 the number of Axis troops captured in the Siliam-Bardia pocket on the Egyptian-Libyan frontier 300 miles east of the El Asghelia battlefield where British Imperials are hitting at Lt.-Gen. Erwin Rommel's present stand. At Halafaya alone the roundup of prisoners included 2,784 Italian soldiers and 173 officers, and 1,770 German soldiers and 48 officers, a communique declared. It noted that the count was not yet complete. MONTREAL EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Jan. 20.—(CP)—Industrialists caught the flicker of anxiety of buyers today on the stock exchange and a small group worked higher a little. The remainder of stocks boarded were unchanged or narrowly irregular. Finer industrials were Desso "B", Canadian Car, Cocksfoot Plov, Dominion Bridge and Dominion Tar. Electrolux slipped out in the rally and was missed out and Howard Smith slipped a point in paper. Power Corporation got a lift in utilities but Canada Steamship preferred was easier in carriers. Metals were wobbly. Noranda regained its balance after an early loss and International Nickel edging a gain. Imperial was up in oils and McColl-Fronenac preferred. Distillers-Seagram preferred was top winner for the session with a three-point gain. Oshive Flour dropped an early advance and Associated Brewers lost a major fraction. Total sales: 11,800 shares; Industrials, 7,300; Mines, 4,500.

Pvt. James E. Hughes, of Rochester, N. Y., hustled out to LaGuardia Field to catch the only passenger plane which could get him back to Camp Stewart, Ga. under the A. W. O. L. deadline. He missed out, and appeared out of luck until he noticed a Coast Guard plane warming up. He begged a ride from the official passenger—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau—and got it. Above, the Secretary, left, and his aerial hitch-hiker are pictured as they arrived in Washington, D.C.
