had added the $24,000 twice then the balancing of the $334,000 was also wrong. Mr. LePage maintained that this was not so. If there was any mistake the Bank would be out about $20,000. The Conservatives, he claimed, know that they are not correct but they wish to confuse the people.

The Opposition leader, he claimed, had juggled the figures to suit himself. He should be ashamed to mention an outside audit. An outside audit Mr. LePage said had been made under the Conservatives without Mr. Anderson knowing it had taken place.

Opposition statements to the contrary, the Minister of Public Works was not extravagant. The speaker had tried to collect from him what he, Mr. LePage, considered to be honest debts and he could not get a cent out of Mr. McIntyre.

The Conservative government, he said, had built a pig-houset at Falconwood Hospital. That was all they had built that Mr. LePage had heard of. They had built only one mile of gravelled road as against 134 miles under the Liberals. The Liberals built every public building, including the jails, he said. Every progressive move had been made by a Liberal Government.

Now the public are demanding improved roads. The Government intends to hard-surface the roads in the most economical fashion. They did not intend to spend as much as they spent on the McIntyre Highway. If Mr. McIntyre spent a few thousand dollars extra on that road, he should not be questioned on it, because it was only an experiment.

The speaker understood from experts that a good hard surface road can be built here for from $8,000 to $10,000 a mile. We have the promise of Mr. Bennett that we will have improved highways. The local government is getting ready to accept the federal grant.

Mr. LePage thought it was too bad to deceive people on the subject of old age pensions. That was something that no party should do.

Dr. MacMillan: "Then you shouldn't have done it."

Now was the time, Mr. LePage believed, to press provincial claims. Under the Liberals we got the Canadian National Hotel and new wharves and warehouses; these were some of the claims that we realized in.

If it is correct as the Opposition leader said, that the Liberals got nothing when in line with Ottawa, then perhaps it would be better not to be in line.

However, the leader of the Opposition had got $125,000 from the Liberal Government at Ottawa and why should the Bennett Government penalize a provincial Liberal Government?

The Minister of Public Works had proved to be the right man in the right place. He was a man of vision. If there was anything he should get credit for, it was the buying of power machinery.

Mr. LePage referred to considerable length to roads and bridges in his own district. Two roads in this district, the Quinn Road and the Linwood Road, he said had been closed to traffic under the Conservatives.

Under the Liberals in his district there was built 57 miles of improved highway with heavy power machinery and 11-1/4 miles of gravelled road. The Conservatives, he said, only built 27 miles of road and had charged it to capital account. He cited also bridge work. The Conservatives, he thought, would have "some gall" to ask the electors to vote for them in that district. There had been more money spent in that district under the present Government on work of a permanent nature than had previously been spent in the last 20 years, he claimed.

The speaker launched into a lengthy discussion of federal politics, criticizing the Bennett Government for its tariff policy. He revamped the issues in the last federal contest, and said that what the country wanted was "statesmanship, not too much politics."

Going still further back into federal political history, Mr. LePage rehearsed the Reciprocity Issue of 1911.

Prohibition, he said, must always be a political question, but it should never have been brought into party politics.

The increased number of liquor searches and convictions under the Liberals was cited by the speaker as evidence that the Government's promises were being fulfilled. Of course, it may be correct that there are 53 people not convicted last year.

Dr. MacMillan: "It is correct."

Hon. Mr. LePage: "But I can assure you that they will go to jail and serve their sentences."

Mr. Sharp: "After the Ticket of Leave Act is passed?" (Mr. LePage did not answer).

It cannot be expected he said, to stop all the liquor. He gave Hon. Mr. Ryckman credit for a new regulation, namely that every fishing boat must be registered. The trouble was with the fishermen, Mr. LePage said: "They go out to fish and of course

Hay 80c to 90c; straw 45c; oats 40c to 45c; turnips 25c; potatoes 35c. There was a large quantity of fresh herring selling at 25c doz. Haddock were scarce and sold at 12c a lb.

LAD TO REST—The funeral of the late Carlyle Sillars MacLeod took place from the MacLean Funeral Home, privately on Sunday afternoon, services being conducted by the Rev. Moorehead Legate, music by St. James Church choir. The pallbearers were R. N. MacNeill, R. L. Cotton, Ernest Coffin, Bruce Hugan, Ross MacEwen, and J. A. MacMillan. Interment was made in the family plot in the People's Cemetery. Service at the grave was conducted by Mr. Legate.

STUDY CLUB FUNCTION—A most delightful and interesting event, arranged by the Study Lovers Club as a culmination of the season's activities, took place on Monday evening at "The Birches," the hospitable home of the Vice President, Mrs. H. R. Hillson. The guests were received by Mrs. Hillson, Mrs. Cecil Stewart and Miss Catherine McLeod, in the drawing room which was fragrant with pink sweet peas, tulips, and snapdragons. At half-past six dinner was served, the table decorations being spring blossoms—Snakesperian ladies, and others of the older times, as well as Courtiers made a lovely picture seated around the table, and flashes of appropriate wit could be heard on all sides. The delicious dinner was followed by toasts and clever Limericks, the latter composed by two gifted members of the club. Later literary contests and bridge was indulged in. Lovely prizes were won by Mrs. Wilkins, Mrs. Percy Turner, Mrs. R. H. Rogers, and Mrs. Wendell Tidmarsh. The annual function of this Reading Club is looked forward to by its members each year with much pleasure, as are all its meetings during the season.

they come back with some liquor." "This spring," he declared positively, "the Province is practically dry." (Laughter).

In his own district he did not know of any liquor there for six or eight months.

The Liberal party will stand behind Prohibition until the people demand a vote and vote against it; he said. They had amended the Act every time the temperance people asked for it. They had increased the inspectors. They gave one magistrate and appointed Mr. Martin for the city. They had reduced the doctor's scripts to 50. That was still too many; half of 50 would do; but the temperance people were satisfied. The Government had appointed a Commission not prejudiced against the Act. "We got a clear mandate to enforce the Prohibition Act," Mr. LePage continued, "and we intend to do so."

Dr. MacMillan: "Then why don't you?"

Of course, continued Mr. LePage, Prohibition was only one of the laws that must be enforced. He thought, if the situation were viewed fairly that "not too much liquor" would be found here. Fortunately this Province is so well off that it does not need revenue from Government Control.

As a solution to the unemployment question Mr. LePage believed that Premier Bennett should put total prohibition into effect throughout Canada. This Province is better able to drink than any other Province, yet if we drank our proportion it would be $1,400,000; and how could we afford to do that?

Mr. LePage resumed the debate on Friday morning, concluding with a lengthy discourse on the subject of Prohibition vs. Government Control.

Sheep sold for $5 to $6 and spring lambs brought $5 to $7 each. Hogs brought from $8.25 to $8.50.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. JOHN D. McDONALD

The death occurred at Glengarry, Lot 7, on April 9th, 1931, of Mrs. John D. McDonald, at the early age of 42 years. Although not in her usual robust health since the first of the winter, her friends did not consider her condition serious till the morning of April 6th, when she became unconscious and never fully regained consciousness till the end came.

During her illness she was frequently visited by her pastor, Rev. J. A. McDonald, St. Mark's, who administered the last sad rites of the Catholic Church, of which she was a most devoted member.

The late Mrs. McDonald was a woman of unusual Christian piety, resigning herself in all her trials to the will of her Creator. Her memory will long be cherished in the home, where her husband and small children remain, and also in the community, where she was respected by all. The many Mass Cards, Spiritual Bouquets and Messages of Sympathy received by the family, show the esteem in which the deceased was held by a wide circle of friends.

The funeral was held on April 11th to St. Mark's Church, Lot 7, the Requiem Mass being sung by the Pastor, Rev. J. A. McDonald, who also officiated at the grave. The pallbearers were three brothers-in-law of the deceased, David Stewart, Walter Stewart and Guy Murphy, also three of her friends, Chas. Gorman, Gerald Murphy and Peter O'Holloran.

The late Mrs. McDonald was born in Albany, P. E. I., being the eldest daughter of Thomas and the late Mrs. Trainor, of that place.

She leaves to mourn a sorrowing husband and four small children, also her father, Thos. Trainor, of Albany; four brothers, J. Leonard, of Halifax; G. William, of Albany; John T. DeTrot, Mich.; and Chas. St. Clair, Barrister, Charlottetown, and two sisters, Mrs. Walter Stewart, West Point and Mrs. Guy Murphy, Campbellton, Lot 4. May her soul rest in peace.

DEFENDS RECORD OF LEA GOVERNMENT

Speech By Hon. B. W. LePage In The Budget Debate.

Speaking in the budget debate on Wednesday evening, April 22, Hon. B. W. LePage, extended sympathy to Mr. Darby and Mr. Bruce upon the death of members of their families. He regretted the illness of the Hon. Mr. Scully and of the former Speaker, Hon. David MacDonald. He congratulated Premier Lea, "the first farmer Premier to rule in this Province." Never was there a clearer statement of the finances ever delivered than Premier Lea's budget speech. Mr. LePage believed. Why shouldn't the Premiership be given to a son of the soil? he asked. The Conservative Government, he claimed had not been composed of farmers. The man who takes the portfolio of agriculture should at least be a farmer.

Dr. MacMillan: "How about acting Premier?"

Mr. LePage thought the Premier had a right to defend himself against press criticism. He, Mr. LePage, as chairman of the Public Accounts committee, had been criticised by the Opposition leader. It was the duty of the Committee to look into the Public Accounts. "The committee was open to every member of the House to come in and set," he argued. Anyone can be called in and questioned.

Everyone was satisfied that the Accounts were correct; that was why the Opposition members did not attend the Committee meeting, Mr. LePage alleged. Mr. Anderson, the auditor, was a specially good man on finance. He audited the Accounts the same as in other years; he may not have put them down in exactly the same way. If three independent men are appointed to examine the Accounts and they find that the Government has not had a surplus as claimed, it will be time enough to deny that the Government has a surplus.

Mr. LePage read over the capital expenditures as listed in the Public Accounts. They were all "real capital expenditures." Let the Conservatives compare these with what they charged as capital expenditures in their time, and he did not think they would argue any more.

If the Guardian accountant would appear before the Public Accounts Committee he would be convinced that this was right.

Mr. LePage, reviewing past political history, said the Liberals had built Falconwood Hospital and annex, the Infirmary, Prince of Wales College, the Jails in Charlottetown and Summerside and other public works. He claimed for the Liberals at least two thirds of the steel bridges and culverts of the Province.

The purchase of the power machinery enabled roads to be built at a cost of $300 to $400, clear of culverts, and the cost has not been charged up to capital expenditure.

The balance of Mr. Massey's wages as accountant was not rightly chargeable to any department, as he was working in all of them, Mr. LePage explained in answer to a question previously asked by the Opposition leader.

Continuing the debate on Thursday night Mr. LePage congratulated the Speaker on his elevation to his responsible position. He then again commended the Provincial Auditor. It would be an insult, he thought, to question a man of his ability.

The Province had saved a great amount of money by the new accounting system whereby all the revenue goes through a cash register in one central office. Naturally when the Opposition find they are out-marshalled in business capacity they would try to muddle the accounts and leave the inference that something was wrong. If they are doubtful about the audit they have a safeguard in the Public Accounts Committee, made up of good capable business men. At a meeting of this committee, for some reason or another, the Opposition members on the committee absented themselves.

If one had a case of appendicitis he wouldn't go to a legal man, or to a doctor to make out a deed. If you want books properly audited you would naturally go to an auditor. At the next committee meeting other men could be called in. The Government's banker was quite satisfied that the Accounts were correct.

It has been said that last year the interest was only $74,000 and this year it was $148,000. That statement was partly correct by the Public Account statement, but on page 15 of the 1929 Accounts there were other interest items making in all a total of $136,000 of interest paid last year. This year all the amounts are put into the expenditure where they properly should have been last year.

The Stewart Government, Mr. LePage maintained, concealed $28,000 of interest in 1925. The interest account was "concealed" in the same way in 1929. If there had been any error however, the banks would not loan money. This year there was about $10,000 net increase in interest over last year.

Dealing with the revenue and expenditure statements in the Public Accounts Mr. LePage claimed a surplus of over $15,000 notwithstanding anything the Opposition might say. The total revenue was $1,176,138. A mistake probably was made by the printer or by "somebody" in not putting in the total capital expenditure. These expenditures, Mr. LePage maintained, were assets. Adding this to the ordinary expenditures made a total of $1,410,720, leaving a difference of $234,000 which was the total liabilities or increased debt.

The "assets" Mr. LePage said were: Rights of way, road machinery and trucks, creosote lumber and ferry boat at Montague.

There was a lower statement which had nothing to do with the upper statement in the Accounts. If they
