Letter From Dr. Florence Murray Medica Missionary

The following letter has been received by Rev. Robert Murray of Hillsboro, Nova Scotia, from his daughter, Dr. Florence Murray, who has been engaged in mission work in China for a number of years.

Nurses' Home, Peking Union Medical College, Peiping, China

Dear Father:—By the time this letter reaches you it will be your birthday time and so I wish you a very happy day. I am longing for home mail but it has gone to Hamkeung no doubt but should reach me soon, with news of you all.

Last week at Pitalcho was a very pleasant one. The weather was not too warm for comfort as long as one did not exert one's self much.

One evening we had a picnic supper out on the rocks at a place they call the Grotto where there is a large opening through some rocks like a door in a wall. Another day we took a walk through the Lotus Hills whence we had a fine view of the whole bay with the settlement stretching along the beach. Another evening there were illuminations and fire works on the hills and we walked over and enjoyed the Roman candles and rockets and the long rows of red paper lanterns along the roads winding among the trees.

The trip to the great wall of China was the biggest day we had. We started at 8.15 a. m. by train to Shanhai-Kwan (Shan Hai Kwan) about an hour's ride distant. There were six of us. Mr. and Mrs. Flemming, Mr. and Mrs. Matheson, Jean Sommerville, all the Honan mission, and myself. Arrived at the station we were at once in the midst of a shouting seething mob. The men left us in the station while they went forth to hire donkeys for the five mile ride to the mountain where it is crossed by the wall. In a short time they returned with a bundle of raw hide whips in their hands and gave us each one, the reason for which I was soon to discover. Once outside among the donkeys we were in a second pandemonium, every mother's son of them insisting that we ride his donkey. Now the owners of the whips, identifying their property, claimed the bearer thereof as his passenger. A stirrup was held out to me, I mounded as best I might, the reins were thrust into my hands and with their brief and brief instructions I found myself having my first ride on donkey back.

Off we went pell mell through the wet, rough and dirty streets crowded with people. How to stay on was the problem—I slipped backwards, that didn't seem right. I slipped forwards, that was worse. How did one sit in a saddle anyway? And how did one drive a Chinese donkey? When he walked I got behind the rest. When he trotted it was so jiggly I felt like the cream in the churn. When he galloped I was sure I was going over the side. At last Mr. Matheson saw my plight and exchanged donkeys with me. His donkey had a cloth instead of a leather saddle and it wasn't nearly as slippery so I got on fine.

The donkeys boys came along too of course and urged on their steeds with loud and vigorous shouts and cracks of the whip at unexpected moments for which one had to be constantly prepared or take the consequences. I learned how to say "Giddap" in Chinese. It sounds fine but can't be expressed in English letters. Finally we arrived at the mountain and after some climbing, at one of the gates in the wall, then on up to a temple at the top. The temple is in a huge cave about thirty feet high and there is a subterranean passage through the rocks to another temple on the summit. We had our lunch at the temple and after a rest went down on the opposite side and followed the river for about four miles. Sometimes there was a path but more often we leaped from rock to rock in the bed of the river and I suppose we crossed it thirty or forty times. The rock rose sheer on both sides sometimes two hundred feet high. It was amazing to see the large shrubs and even trees growing out of crevices in the rock where one would think there could be neither soil nor moisture. In many places beautiful vines hung from the sides of the rocky canyon.

Finally we had a dip in a deep place in the river and it certainly was refreshing after the heat of the day and the travelling. Then we climbed the hill once more to another temple where we got hot water and made tea and ate the remains of the lunch.

One more descent and we climbed on the donkeys again and made for the railway station where we had to wait three hours for the train. It was a strenuous day but it was worth it. I came on here on Friday, had company all the way, am comfortably settled at the Nurses' Home and Dr. Margaret Foster of Honan is taking the course with me.

Sunday we went to Anglican service at the British Legation Chapel and to the Union Church and yesterday (this is now the 27th) the classes began. There are not many taking the course and so everyone has a good chance to see at operations and demonstrations. One Korean doctor has come and she is a timid little thing so I have to be her guide as she is afraid to go about alone for fear of getting lost. She can't speak Chinese of course.

The Miss McCully's are also in the ancient capital for a few days of sight seeing. People are coming back from Paitalcho and starting in for Honan so we have been at the station three times meeting or seeing folks off.

It is not so very hot here now, neither is there much rain which is a good thing as many miles of country are under water here in the north and in Honan they say the only way to get to the mission compound is by boat and the boats can go up the side of the Church the flood water is so deep.

There were six inches of rain fell in six hours in Tientain a couple of weeks ago. The water got in the mission warehouse there and many of our missionaries had all they had left from the looting stored away there. Many books had the backs soaked off them and Mrs. Ralston had all her trousseau wet in her trunk. The colors ran and she had to have everything dyed. It is the worst flood since 1917.

Love to you both FLORENCE

NEW DRUG EXTOLLED TO TREAT INFLUENZA

LONDON, Oct. 16—A new drug was termed last night by the well known British Medical Journal "the most valuable agent discovered" for the treatment of influenza. It quoted investigations made by Dr. Raymond Peace of Halifax, Yorkshire, as giving striking proofs of its efficiency. The average duration of fever was 1.4 days in treated patients against 2.8 in untreated; headache persisted for 1 day as against 2.1 days; muscular pain was relieved in 1.3 days against 2.4; days absent were reduced from 5.7 to 2.8; and days absent from work were reduced from 16 to 6.9. It was claimed that an early initial dose completely prevented attacks.

DEVELOPING THE MARITIMES

(Canadian Press) TORONTO, Oct. 16—The Maritimes need industries that will provide employment for the young people at home, declared Mr. R. W. E. Burnaby, trade commissioner, for the Maritime Provinces Association, here last night. The future of the Maritimes is closely linked with the implementing of the Duncan commission report he stated. If this is done there is a great future for the Maritimes. He urged the greater development of the winter ports at Halifax and St. John, and expressed the hope that Maritime coal would be found throughout Ontario markets in the near future.

Two very prim old-fashioned ladies were discussing the modern generation. "Yes," said one, "I don't know what the world is coming to—women masquerading as men—" "Yes," chimed in the other, "and everybody is suspected, too. Why, only yesterday I received a letter addressed to 'Dear sir or madam!'"

Mistress: "Who was the gentleman who called just now, Mary?" Mary: "That wasn't a gentleman, ma'am. It was the master come back for his coat."
