BANDITS REFUSE TO TAKE SUM

Automobile Thieves Would Not Take Alcohol Before Death.

PARIS, Aril 24 (Special)—None of the three automobile bandits who were guillotined would take the big glass of rum offered, as is usual, to men about to be beheaded.

Callemin and Goudy signified their refusal by a nod, while Monier said, "I will not alcoholize myself."

Without the definite knowledge that Monday was to be the day of their death the three condemned men played cards on Sunday afternoon in jail. Suddenly, while the game was going on, Callemin rose and said:—"I have a presentiment that this is my last day. Tomorrow I shall see Deibler the executioner." Monday when he was told "Your time has come," he said. "Then this is the day without a tomorrow."

MARRIED, OF COURSE.

"She disturbed my peace of mind."
"How?"
"By giving me a piece of hers."

ARTESIAN WELLS

Waterfilled Strata of Sandstone or Other Porous Rock

Artesian basins, or the underground water supply which furnishes artesian wells with their constantly flowing streams, sometimes spouting to a considerable height above the surface, are often popularly referred to as "subterranean rivers," which are believed to "flow" at great depths, eventually finding their way to the surface to feed some visible stream. Or they are thought to exist as great caverns or reservoirs, deep down in the earth, which is tapped by the drill furnish the tremendous flows of water which characterize some of our largest artesian wells—several hundred thousand, and even in some cases half a million gallons a day. It is true that artesian waters are stored up in underground reservoirs, but they are not of this character. Most artesian water supplies consist simply of water-filled strata of sandstone or other porous rock material, through which the water very slowly percolates, confined from above and below by other strata of impervious rock or clay. Through this inclosed layer of porous rock the water works its way with infinite slowness, following the dip or slant of the rock, and where tapped coming to the surface, if the surface at this point be below the source of the supply. Coarse sandstone is capable of, holding a great quantity of water, as much as 6 quarts per cubic foot; but the rate of its movement through this rock is so slow as to be almost inappreciable. To illustrate how slowly the water travels the "Scientific American" mentions that many artesian, or flowing wells are found along the Potomac River at Colonial Beach and other points in Virginia, about 60 miles south of Washington. This water is obtained by drilling into a sandstone foormation which extends along the Potomac Valley and into Maryland and outcrops near Frederick, Maryland, some 50 miles north of Washington. It takes about 100 years for the water of the "subterranean river" to flow that distance; that is, the rains falling upon the exposed portions of the porous rocks near Frederick sink in and move southward at the rate of about 1 mile a year. The water issuing from the wells at Colonial Beach to-day fell as rain on the uplands and mountains of Maryland around about the time that Washington was President.

CROSS FEVERISH OR HALF SICK CHILDREN

Mean their bowels are waste-clogged; liver sluggish and stomach sour.

Your child isn't naturally cross, irritable and peevish, Mother! Examine the tongue; if coated, it means the little ones' stomach is disordered, liver inactive and its thirty feet of bowels clogged with foul, decaying waste.

Every mother realizes, after giving delicious "Syrup of Figs" that this is the ideal laxative and physic for children. Nothing else regulates the little one's tender stomach, liver and bowels so effectually, besides they dearly love its delightful fig taste.

For constipated bowels, sluggish liver, biliousness, or sour, disordered stomach, feverishness, diarrhoea, sore throat, bad breath or to break a cold, give one-half to a teaspoonful of 'Syrup of Figs", and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, sour bile, undigested food and constipated matter will gently move on and out of the system without griping or nausea, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, else offered.
