Dominion-Provincial Relations Discussed By Finance Minister

OTTAWA, Ont., April 29 —(CP)—Following is the text of Finance Minister Abbott's statement on the new tax agreement in his Budget speech tonight:

"I believe the House is in general familiar with the main aspects of our negotiations with provincial governments during the past year, but perhaps I should not let this occasion pass without a few comments about this important problem of Dominion-Provincial relations.

The offer made by the Dominion in the budget of last June was promptly accepted as a basis for negotiation by three Provinces and later by several others. In the course of discussions with these Provinces, which extended over several months, the original terms were subject to a number of modifications and the details of agreements embodying the necessary provisions to safeguard the interest of all parties were hammered out and agreed upon.

The modified formulae for determining the amount of the annual payments to be made to the various Provinces were the product of a most intensive study of the whole problem and represent, I believe, the most successful attempt yet made to achieve equitable treatment of all Provinces.

Claims "Fair Compromise"

They maintain intact the existing pattern of statutory subsidies which are the product of a long historical evolution and in the additional payments they represent a fair compromise between the two alternative methods of allocation, namely, fixed and a taxability or tax potential—a fair compromise between the school of thought which believes in equal per capita payments and that which would base payments on the relative ability of the various Provinces to raise revenues from the tax source in the future.

The stability of revenues assured by the guaranteed minimum payments represents one of the chief advantages of the plan to the adhering Provinces. Their revenues will rise as their population and the gross national product rise but the assurance that, regardless of fluctuations in the National Income, payments will be made the next few years bring a recession.

With this assurance of stable and rising revenues, they are for the first time in a position to plan with courage and confidence and a sense of real independence, programs and the efficient discharge of their constitutional responsibilities.

The Government of Canada looks forward to the day when the agreement of all or substantially all Provinces will make possible the achievement of the great national purposes which impelled the Dominion to make its comprehensive proposals of August 1945.

These include not only the elimination all across Canada of the evils of duplication and conflict in the fields of direct progressive taxation which have such important economic effects, but also the development of an efficient and flexible tax system designed to promote the expansion of employment and incomes, as well as a comprehensive program for the co-operation of Dominion and Provincial Governments in the field of public investments and social security.

Nevertheless, we do not ask any province to accept a tax agreement unless it believes such agreement to be in its own interest as well as that of the country as a whole.

We did our best to share the offer of last June in such a way as to make it possible and satisfactory for any Province to remain out of the agreement if it wished to do so, and we would far prefer to have a Province remain out indefinitely than to endeavor to persuade it to come in against its own judgment of where its true interests lie.

Miss Smellie who "leaves 25 years of monumental work in the service of this country."

In her farewell address Miss Smellie recalled the early years of the V.O.N., with which she first became associated in 1921. She traced the developments of the service and the nursing problems in Canada 20 years ago.

Last year 832,873 visits were made by the 475 V.O.N. nurses in Canada, an increase of approximately 96,000 visits from the previous year.

Succeeding Miss Smellie as chief superintendent is Maude Helen Hall of Preston, Ont. Miss Hall, who has been assistant V.O.N. superintendent since 1930, was acting chief superintendent for four years during the last war when Miss Smellie was on loan to the R.C.A.M.C.

Pay Two Million To Settle Claims Of Eldorado Co.

OTTAWA, April 29 —(CP)—Without throwing any new light on its secrets, the construction Minister Howe informed the Commons today that the state-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., vital source of atomic materials, has received more than $2,000,000 in an out-of-court settlement of a civil action against two men and two companies.

A $2,000,000 action was initiated last fall in the Supreme Court of New York State against Boron Products of New York, Carl B. French of Toronto, Canadian Radium and Uranium Corporation and International Rare Metals Refinery Inc.

The criminal charges alleged conspiracy to defraud the company prior to 1943 when the Government took over the Northwest Territories site because of its vital bearing on atomic developments.

Mr. Howe, rising to answer a series of Progressive Conservative questions, said the Government considered the matter closed.

So secret were documents connected with the case that a Toronto magistrate once ordered the criminal proceedings to be held in camera. When the defendants carried the case to a higher court, the charges were dropped because Mr. Robbette recommended that "in my opinion it would be practically impossible to secure a conviction."

He advised too that if there was any "wrongdoing by the defendants it was civil rather than criminal in character."

Mr. Howe last March declined to table evidence taken in the Toronto hearing because "it contains information which is of a secret character affecting other Governments."

The Minister said today that exact terms of the financial settlement could not be given because other Governments were involved. Some of the $2,000,000 would be paid in cash, the rest in "money's worth."

Henry Ford II Tells Industry Its Responsibility

WASHINGTON, April 29 —(AP)—Henry Ford II tonight told industry that it has a responsibility for the privilege of free enterprise, it must take leadership in solving "problems like depressions and unstable employment."

Sole speaker at a dinner session of the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce, young Ford told his fellow businessmen that they have a responsibility to "achieve a better sense of partnership with the American people."

Ford, first leading industrialist to respond to President Truman's appeal for voluntary price reductions to avert an inflationary boom-and-bust, told the Chamber audience that their "right as businessmen" may depend on their ability to meet the challenge of economic guidance.

"And in trying to point the way, we face our most unyielding fact: it is work, and not theories of social responsibility, which is basic to the success of all of us."

"Programs which merely drain off the accumulated savings of earlier and more vigorous times without paying their way serve only to sap our country's strength."

"The real objective is to keep adding to the capital of mankind by increased production and distribution."

He added:

"But key responsibility is ours — an obligation of American business management. The American people expect us to manage. They look to us for leadership. They are more interested in the results we achieve than in the details of our business and in the difficulties we have to overcome."

"I have little doubt that if our free American industry devotes its traditional enterprise and energy to meeting this obligation, the

Eternal rest be thine!
Though lonely hearts do yearning sigh
For thy dear presence
Oh, help them to be brave; to bow
In love to God's decree
He knoweth best.

Mrs. Wall was stricken with a severe ailment which medical skill and tender nursing proved of no avail, for God will otherwise and her gentle spirit softly winged its way Heavenward.

She will be sorely missed by her family who cherish her as a loving mother, also by friends and neighbors whom her memory will recall acts of kindness and thought. Unless charity or propriety urged her to leave, she preferred to remain at home where she was always happy to receive the many callers who came to visit her and enjoy true hospitality and kindness.

VICTORIA THE VILLAGE BY THE SEA

His friends regret to learn that Mr. John A. MacDougall, Argyle Shore, has had to enter the Prince Edward Island Hospital for treatment.

The many friends in Victoria of Mr. Percy Delaney, North Trvon, are pleased to learn that he is able to be about his work again after five weeks illness, during which time he was confined to his home.

Mrs. S. J. Dunsford, wife of the manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Victoria, has returned home after spending the past two months very pleasantly visiting with relatives and friends in Montreal and other Canadian cities.

Friends in Victoria are sorry to learn that Mr. Clayton Morrison and Mr. Roy Moore Hampton, as patients still in the F. E. Island Hospital, Charlottetown, after having been there for a number of weeks already. Their friends wish them both an early return to health.

The Victoria fishermen report herring catches rather poor as yet, but with the advent of warmer weather it is hoped they may be better rewarded for their labors. However, as it was some very nice "frys" of this delectable fresh fish were had, all thanks being due the generous-hearted fishermen. The humble herring is gradually coming into its own as health-giving food, being found to contain many precious elements all so necessary in body building purposes.

Miss Mary L. Farrow, Royston Beach, Vancouver Island, B. C., who accompanied her brother Mr. Herbert Farrow, from Royston where he was taken suddenly ill, to hospital in Halifax, his old home town, coming over to Prince Edward Island to visit relatives in Hampton and other parts, was a recent visitor to Victoria, guest of her friend Miss Florence Inman. She also visited with other relatives and friends while here. Miss Farrow, who for a number of years was stewardess on the Car Ferry plying between Borden and Cape Tormentine, has spent the past four years on Vancouver Island and is much taken up with its beautiful climate and many kinds of beautiful flowers and greenery, there being a great profusion of spring blossoms when she left there about two weeks ago. She is engaged in the tourist business there, being one of the proprietors of Royston Beach Auto Court, a summer resort situated on a beautiful lake and where the season opens in a couple of weeks' time, and expectations are for a very busy season. Miss Farrow intends leaving for the coast shortly, travelling by way of Boston and New York, in which cities she will visit with relatives and friends.

Quebec Stowaway Tells Experiences

PARIS, April 29 — (Reuters) — William Devane, 24, of Montmorency, Que., who threw a makeshift lifeboat overboard from the United States freighter Benjamin Hill three days ago, dived after it and attempted to paddle 25 miles through the English Channel.

"There's a girl waiting for me in England all right but even so I was determined to reach England because I want to work there. I am fed up with Canada," he said.

Devane was lifted unconscious from his raft Monday by French fishermen near the coast of Brittany.

When rescued, he was suffering from sunburn, exhaustion and shock. His clothes had been ripped to shreds by the waves. A small package of his clothes and his savings of the last 18 months had been washed away.

"I was working in an east end garage in Montreal but got browned off with the job and everything else in Canada and figured I would like to live and work in England much more. And besides, there was my girl friend in Leeds," Devane explained.

"I rode down to Halifax where I got to know a couple of crew members of the Benjamin Hill and through them managed to stow away."

"We pulled out of Halifax around the middle of March, went to Antwerp and then Le Havre. From Le Havre I thought we were going to Liverpool but when we got out in the Channel I learned we were heading back for the States."

"So all things considered, I decided I'd make a raft and try to paddle my way to England."

NEW YORK, April 29 —(AP)—Jacques Ferrand, executive secretary of the One World Award Committee, announced today that Arturo Toscanini, conductor of the NBC Symphony Orchestra, had been selected as the 1947 One World Award winner for music.

In citing Toscanini the committee said: "All over the world Maestro Toscanini is a symbol of the refusal to compromise with the evil which threatened to engulf all culture and of the use of cultural means to fight this evil."

Other One World Award winners this year are former Mayor F. H. La Guardia and motion picture actor Frederic March. They will receive their awards in presentation ceremonies May 27 at Carnegie Hall.

The One World Award committee is an outgrowth of the American Nobel anniversary committee.

highly skilled, and more fully employed than ever before. Our competitive position in world trade has been greatly improved as a result of our increased efficiency and the degree of control we have been able to exercise over inflationary rise in prices.

"Since the beginning of the war we have reduced our net international indebtedness by about 35 per cent, and this in spite of supplying huge quantities of goods to our allies on a gift or mutual aid basis. In 1946 we have a favorable balance in our current transactions with the world as a whole greater than that achieved in any previous year."

Mr. Abbott reviewed the effects of the government trade policies on employment, mentioned that inflationary forces were less powerful than in the past, and made a statement on the negotiations for new taxation agreements with the provinces.
