is a very important personage in the factory where teas are blended and packed. He brews the beverage with great exactness, and directs the experiments for new blends from his judgment of the taste. The taster who was responsible for our "Matchless" blend of Ceylon tea has had his good taste endorsed by many housekeepers, which is the true test of a tea's taste. 55c lb., 5 lbs. or more, 50c.

The committee says that these reports prove that the name has on the decline.

Not So Many Marys As In Former Times

LONDON, Feb. 17.—Mary as a Christian name is not so popular as it was a few years ago, according to the committee which is raising a fund for a wedding gift to Princess Mary from all the Marys in the Empire. Reports from the different districts of the British Isles and in the Dominion show that in many cases the name Mary is absent even in large households, which always used to have at least one. Among school children the average was found to be only eight Marys out of every 100 girls. The committee says that these reports prove that the name has on the decline.

The Dalton Sanatorium Under Discussion

have always a great deal of trouble in finding water and though they have all the appliances for storing it, yet they have never been able to get water satisfactorily. And I think water supply connected with it had better begin by moving it—abandoning the site altogether. Dr. Garrison: That would be the first problem. Whether it can be solved or not I don't know. It is a question.

Dr. Wodehouse: The Federal people never got water, they got it. Dr. Garrison: They got it for a while, but when the dry season came it petered out. They have a well there about 300 feet deep and the pipe, according to my best knowledge, was not put down over 100 feet. As to whether there would be a constant supply at 250 feet, nobody knows. They did not case it to the bottom and things were in sort of an uncertain condition. They were considering abandoning it anyway, and when they lowered the pipe they had that in mind.

Dr. Wodehouse: Has it been proved that there was not sufficient water?

Dr. Garrison: No. What message will I take back?

Mr. McCarey: The active workers who are fighting the white plague in this province feel that they are entitled to some recognition from the Federal Government in return for the Sanatorium if it was before the war.

Premier Bell: If that is done the location will have to be moved. Mr. McCarey: That is understood.

Premier Bell: I think in two or three provinces they have similar demands and I think they have been recognized.

Dr. Wodehouse: They have never got anything like that. The Federal Government is whining very considerably about the contracts they have made in New Brunswick and Quebec.

Premier Bell: But are there not cases where the government have been operating these institutions and where they have closed them, and some compensation has been made between the local government and the federal government?

Dr. Wodehouse: Not to my knowledge, sir. I don't know a case.

Mayor Jenkins: In regard to that matter of civic assistance, this will have to be brought before the city council in the regular way. I will be pleased to have you submit any resolutions.

Premier Bell: We will be glad to give every consideration to your proposal. We will certainly give it our sympathy, and if we can give it our practical support.

Dr. Wodehouse: Dr. Cook of Regina was insistent on me getting down to Charlottetown to know exactly what your attitude was, and what you wanted done, and to see what we could do to assist you.

Premier Bell: May I ask, what persons do you represent?

Dr. Wodehouse: I am the executive officer of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis.

Premier Bell: In what relation do you stand to the government, if any?

Dr. Wodehouse: The Federal department of health does not maintain a department for tuberculosis and up to the present we have been in very close relations with that office. We get our grant and we are intending to ask for a very considerable increase and we want to be in a position to show where it can be properly used in advance.

We are under government control but under government support. We are desirous of fostering the establishment of municipal chest diagnosis, clinics and the encouragement of sanitariums to encourage field extension work. It is very detrimental to the cause to have a place like the Dalton Sanatorium closed.

MAY GRANT WOMEN RIGHT TO PREACH

LONDON, February 16.—The Lower House of Convocation of the province of Canterbury, today debated a resolution permitting qualified and approved women to speak and pray in meetings in consecrated buildings, except at regular church services.

The resolution, which is identical to the Bishop of Ely's motion presented in the Upper House in 1919, provoked vehement opposition. Speakers urged that if women are allowed to preach to mixed congregations it will be impossible to exclude them from the priesthood. They predicted that the church would be rent in twain and that they would be a great accession to the Roman community.

Supporters of the motion contended that if women were not admitted to the church as speakers, that Methodists and Baptists would do it themselves.

The Dean of Ely, amid laughter, said it was impossible to silence women. They already were addressing meetings. What the Upper House desired, he said, was a concerted policy.

The Lower House concurred in the resolution by a vote of 60 to 58.

France Agrees to Appointment of Expert Advisers

LONDON, Feb. 16.—France has agreed to the appointment of Anglo-French experts as a team to make a preliminary examination of the agenda of the Genoa economic conference. Reuters says it has learned. She says, however, the inclusion of the little entente countries (Lithuania, Czechoslovakia, and Rumania), together with Poland, in these conversations.

Described, constructed and engineered by W. A. Mackenzie & Co., Limited, of the Lloyd Sabado of Genoa. The Conte Rosso is said to be the finest combined freight and passenger steamer built since 1911 in any country. Money has been spent on the ship without stint. The decorations alone cost $400,000.

The vessel is of the shelter deck type, and has accommodations for nearly 2,000 persons, all first-class. The public rooms have been decorated by artists from Florence. The main entrance hall is in the style of the Italian Renaissance in oak and mahogany. Elaborate hand carvings, inlaid work, tapestry, stained glass, and all paintings play a part in the general scheme. The large music room is in Pompeian style. From the centre of the crystal chandelier, shedding subdued light from a thousand electric lamps. But the gem of the state rooms is the library, a spacious room in the style of Tuscan Renaissance. A finely carved and inlaid frieze runs round the sides and will there appear about 50 sets and hand scape paintings, embodied in the scheme. After the trip to New York the Conte Rosso will sail on a regular service between Genoa and South American ports.

Experts to Start Work

PARIS, Feb. 16.—Former Minister of Commerce Clementel, president of the French National Commission, will cooperate with the French experts in preparing the ground for discussions at the Genoa economic conference. It was announced today. The experts of France will comprise representatives of mining and manufacturing interests, with members from all the various ministries. Their work will be begun tomorrow and will proceed pending a settlement with the Allies on the question of an inter-Allied meeting of experts to consider the Genoa agenda.

France is insisting that the little entente nations ought to be present at this inter-Allied meeting. Great Britain, however, is declared to be still of the opinion that the representation should be confined to the principal Allies.

Unless the London government agrees with France on a more representative meeting than it now favors, opinion here points to the probability of the Genoa conference itself being split up into three groups—the Allies and the little entente nations would arrange their plans separately, while a third group would be formed by the Russians and the Germans.

At a recent meeting the International Chamber's executive committee decided to recommend to its members in each country, the advisability of the best business men of each country being consulted in organizing the delegations for the proposed conference. The national committees met and offered their services individually, but the international chamber as a whole is not partaking in the preliminary discussions in any country.

Dr. Eduard Benes, Premier of Czechoslovakia, conferred with Premier Poincare an afternoon Millerand this afternoon regarding the plans for the reconstruction of central Europe, and the participation of the Little Entente nations in the Genoa conference. Dr. Benes will leave for London tomorrow to consult with Prime Minister Lloyd George on the same subject.

FOR OPERATION AT

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 16.—Finding the streets of Buenos Aires too well polished for daylight hold-ups, a pair of robbers recently succeeded in using police headquarters for one of their operations. A middle-aged gentleman of prosperous appearance they slowed him down, they showed him their badges and announced that they would accompany them to headquarters and there explain how he came by the gold watch and other valuables he carried. To avoid a scene the man accompanied them. Police headquarters has some unshod men, into one of them the pair produced the "malefactor" and took from him everything of value. Then, indicating the door of a room where his protests of innocence would be attended to, they vanished.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

PARIS, Feb. 16.—In a revolutionary address delivered before the Academy of Science, Professor Chas. Richet, the celebrated physiologist, warned his fellow academicians that science no longer could afford to ignore occult forces. The announcement of the publication of a treatise on metaphysics, to which he has devoted many years of effort.

He believes with all faith that science no longer can permit to pass in silence or idle sarcasm the innumerable facts accumulated by such masters as Sir William Crookes, Sir Oliver Lodge and other savants of England, America and France. The famous scientist declared, "Certainly there is to be found in these facts the unusual and unexpected, but nothing illogical or contradictory. Soviets cannot disregard them a priori. I know that I will be criticized. I ask only that I be taken up again and that I be heard before being judged."

Professor Richet was heartily applauded at the conclusion of his address.

CANNOT IGNORE SPOOKS

PARIS, Feb. 16.—The creation of the Irish Free State seems likely to result in the loss of that country as a source of emigrants for Canada. Only 47 Irish emigrants sailed for the Dominion in the month following the conclusion of the peace agreement with Britain. This is the lowest number on record and by far the lowest month in a year during which emigrants received only 1,400 Irishmen. The South is known to be opposed to emigration and the northern Parliament will probably not welcome any diminution of its constituents. A stronger influence, however, appears in the desire of the people themselves to try their fortunes under the new self-government. Emigration even to the United States in the month following the peace agreement was only ten per cent. of the normal figure.
