The entertainment given in Market Hall Friday evening last under the auspices of the Presbyterian Choir was one of the most enjoyable events of the kind ever given at Summerside. In addition to unusually strong local attractions the part taken by Mrs. Jess Southwick, was a white entertainment in itself. Her rendition of her program was splendid. A mixed quartette consisting Mrs. W. S. Bearisto, Miss Inez Schurman, Miss Irene Duncan, and Miss Eva Harris; W. S. Bearisto, Vernon Ramsay, Bruce Howatt, and Fred McSwen gave two splendid selections, accompanied by Miss Irene Schurman, organist of the Presbyterian choir. Miss Jessie Sharpe sang a delightful solo, and responded to an encore with a very pretty ballad. She was accompanied by Prof. Whitney. Fred McSwen always a favorite sang in excellent voice and expression "The way of the Cross." He also was recalled when he sang "The Songs My Mother Used to Sing." There was a large audience, and all thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment.

A sad case of destitution came to the notice of the police and a number of citizens Thursday evening when a woman formerly a resident of Summerside, together with her four young children applied at the Summerside police for shelter. The youngest child was about six months old, the eldest about four years. The story was one of destitution, the husband having left his wife and children before the youngest was born. She had not heard from him since and had had twice made up her mind to send the three eldest children to the Orphan's Home so that, with only the baby to care for she might be able to earn a living. Twice her heart failed her. She could not part with them. She finally decided that it was the only hope and left with them on Thursday. She was kindly cared for at the police station. Officer Steele succeeded in finding a home for her and the children for the night. A citizen afterwards kindly offered one of the children a home and it is hoped that some way may yet be found by which the dreaded separation may be averted, or at least lightened. (Pioneer)
