Our Name on Bottom of Each Chocolate

To make it easy for particular people to avoid deception and to procure, with certainty, the finest flavored, smoothest coated, richest of all chocolate bonbons, we engrave the name MOIR'S on the bottom of each chocolate. None genuine without the name.

Each box is a series of continual surprises—so widely varied are the delightful flavors. He who brings Moir's is assured "her" sweetest smile.

DAVID SPARES SAUL'S LIFE.

T. David's adventures in Nob and Gath. 1 Sam. 21.
W. David's adventures in Adullam and Mizpeh. 1 Sam. 22:1-8.

F. David and Jonathan renew their covenant. 1 Sam. 23.
E. David spares Saul's life at Engedi. 1 Sam. 24.
Su. David, Nabal, and Abigail. 1 Sam. 25.
Time—10:00 P. M.
Place.—The Hill of Achiloh.
EXPOSITION:
I. David reasons with Saul (vs. 17-20). Saul is in David's power and completely at David's mercy a second time (vs. 1-12; cf. 23:1-8). And a second time David shows the greatness of his character. He will not strike forth his hand against the Lord's anointed (v. 11). Abigail was right in judging that God had delivered David's enemy into his hand (v. 6; cf. v. 23; ch. 24:18, 19; Josh. 21:44; Judges 1:4), but he was wrong in his judgment of what David should do with his enemy whom God had delivered into his hand. God gives our enemies into our hands that we may save them, not that we may destroy them. David's real magnanimity comes but in that he not only refused to slay Saul himself, but also would not permit another (v. 9). The death of Saul would mean the end of his own trials and his accession to the throne, but he will not accept deliverance and glory by questionable means. David was truly a man of faith. If his conscience had been less keen, he could easily have satisfied it by saying, "I did not kill him." But David's conscience was not of that sort. Saul had been rejected by Jehovah, nevertheless the fact stood that he was the Lord's anointed (v. 9), and the anointed of the Lord was sacred in David's sight. No one can snatch forth his hands against the Lord's anointed and he guiltless (Ps. 105:16). It is well to remember in the application of this principle that in the present dispensation all Christ's are the Lord's anointed (1 John 2:20-27, R.V.). David's respect for the anointed of Jehovah, even though that anointed one was his personal enemy, was deep and abiding (ch. 24:6, 7; 2 Sam. 1:14-16).
II. Saul's Brief Repentance and Blinded though he was by envy, was forced to see the generosity of David. He says the very thing that every sinner needs to say, "I have sinned." But there is no real and permanent turning from sin (cf. ch. 15:24, 20; Luke 24:17; Ex. 9:27; Num. 23:24; Matt. 27:4). There is no saving power in conviction of sin if one goes right on sinning. (Prov. 28:13). Saul promises that he will never more do David harm because his eyes have been precious in David's eyes. He never had another opportunity to do David harm. Saul's description of his own conduct was both true and expressive. He had "played the fool and erred exceedingly." That is precisely what every sinner and everyone who fights against God is doing.
