Technicolor Drama Opens

CAPITOL HAS 'VALLEY OF THE GIANTS'

Wayne Morris and Claire Trevor heard the cast of "Valley of the Giants," the Technicolor picture based on the famous Peter B. Kyne novel of the same name, which opens today at the Capitol Theatre.

It is the story of the successful fight waged to prevent the utter despoliation of California's famous redwood forests by ruthless eastern lumber interests (represented by Charles Bickford) around the turn of the century.

While it is concerned with one local aspect of this fight, telling in highly exciting manner of the clash between one such despoiler and an altruistic young local lumberman, it is typical of the situation throughout the redwood country at that time.

Graft and corruption, legalistic trickery and physical violence all have their part in the story, but it is the last mentioned method that gives the new picture its most thrilling moments.

The picture has two of the most hair-raising sequences ever filmed. One depicts the rescue of the heroine from a runaway freight car, just a moment before it reaches a trestle which, with supports deliberately cut away by the villain's henchmen, collapses under the weight of four lumber-laden flat cars. The other shows a terrific battle between villain and hero atop a dam and the dynamiting of the dam.

Supporting the two stars is one of the most notable casts ever assembled for such a production, including Charles Bickford, Frank McHugh, Alan Hale, Jack La Rue, Donald Crisp, John Litel and Dick Purcell.

In Memoriam

MRS. MARY E. WALSH

There passed peacefully away at her home in Hope, River, early Monday morning, May 1st, Mary E. Walsh, at the age of 76 years. She was the widow of the late Moses Walsh who predeceased her some years ago.

Over 5 years ago she was stricken with paralysis which left her bedfast and unable to care for herself in any way; but she patiently bore her trials and afflictions for the love of God who was tenderly cared for by her relatives and friends who did all in their power to alleviate her sufferings.

She had a pleasing disposition, which won many friends for her in her own and adjoining districts, and was always ready and willing to lend a helping hand to anyone sick or in trouble.

During her illness she was visited frequently by her pastor, Rev. Earl Dalton, and also by her former pastor Rev. W. V. MacDonald.

She has left to mourn one daughter, Mamie Trainor of Charlottetown; two sons, John of East Royalty, and Louis at home; also one brother, John T. Trainor of Hope River.

The funeral took place the following Wednesday and was largely attended, considering the condition of the roads. The High Requiem Mass was sung by Rev. Father Dalton who also officiated at the grave. The pallbearers were Messrs. Clement Trainor, Alex. Murphy, John and Alfred Parsons, Thomas Bolger and Thomas Reid, R.I.P.
