St. Pierre, Miquelon Worry Of Canada & U. S.

OTTAWA, June 17 (CP) - The standard of St. Pierre and Miquelon, French possessions lying off the south coast of Newfoundland, will probably be the subject of discussions between Canada and the United States when France makes peace with Germany, it was believed here today.
In the case of Greenland, a Danish possession, both Canada and the United States appointed consuls to the island after Germany overran Denmark. Canada sent a ship to Greenland which carried supplies to the inhabitants.
The French islands have a population of 5,000, mostly fishermen, and are governed by an administrator appointed by the French colonial service. They have also a council for purely local affairs.
(At a press conference in Washington today the Secretary of State, Cordell Hull said the future of St. Pierre and Miquelon in the western hemisphere was under study.)

MR. GEORGE VICKERSON
The unexpected death of George Vickerson, 53 Upper Hillsborough Street, May 29th, was learned with shock and regret by his many friends in the City and elsewhere. HOME DEFENCE IS IMPORTANT

"Although the times are full of danger, we have been faced with the dangerous times before. As a member of the Canadian Expeditionary Force in the last war I can say we were up against a formidable enemy and pressed back several times and even when the time was blackest and General Haig said we are fighting with our backs to the wall we never for a moment doubted that we would eventually triumph.
The men now on service look to us who are home to back them up. During the last war the soldiers often spoke of the people at home and how they were standing behind us. Nothing can ever break the morale of the Canadian soldiers as long as they have your unqualified support behind them."
With these stirring and cheering words Captain N. W. Lowther, President of the Canadian Legion, concluded his address at the Rotary luncheon yesterday.
The Captain first told of the recent London convention at Montreal when three resolutions were passed dealing with:
1. Canada's war effort
2. Internal security
3. 5th column activities.
The first resolution known as the conscription resolution asked the government to conscript Canada's man power, the wealth, industrial resources and business and industrial institutions etc., in order that the war might be waged with the full vigor of the nation.
A bill is now before Parliament dealing with the conscription of everything save men.
The Legion pledged themselves to make every sacrifice necessary and to place the whole resource of their organization behind the government in order that there be a maximum production of everything required for the Allies with a surplus for home defence.
The need of establishing a local auxiliary defence force, and the speeding up of the Commonwealth Air Training scheme were also stressed and the matter taken up with the late Hon. Norman Macdonnell, Minister of National Defence, who assured that the Government was prepared to do everything possible towards carrying out these suggestions.
With regard to the guard Capt. Lowther said that he understood the company had been offered to Major Duvar and it may go outside the province. In addition there would be the auxiliary voluntary home service and reserve corps, the latter under the local militia, composed of ex-service men, who would be trained and available for any emergency.
The auxiliary force would be an entirely civilian body.
This matter was taken up before the National Service Committee recently and the principle approved. This would apply to all parts of the country.
Capt. Lowther spoke of the need of a civilian organization in Charlottetown and such bodies as the city firemen might be utilized and these supplied with machine guns, ammunition and instructed in the care and use of arms.
He asked that the citizens and the Rotary Club should be behind this movement.
Authorization was asked first of the Government of National Defence and a reply should be given in a few days.
At the close of his address it was moved by Rotarian W. W. Turner and second by Rotarian W. A. Stewart that the Rotary endorse the stand taken by the Canadian Legion and other organizations and place themselves at the disposal of King and Country in any capacity considered necessary.
Rotarian Mack MacPherson was elected in chair and the guests were then entertained by the Canadian Rotarians J. C. McLeod, Lester Stone, N. H. Jack Demie, Toronto and Rev. John J. Butler of Pratt, Kansas.

Manion Urges Conscription For Home Defence

OTTAWA, June 17 (CP) - Mon. R. J. Manion, former leader of the Conservative Party who resigned following his personal defeat in Fort William in the Dominion election, said in a statement tonight that "everyone should be for conscription for home defence" and he urged that Canadian preparedness be accelerated.
"Stop talking," his statement said. "For we face the worst danger the Empire and the world have ever faced.
"Instigate universal military training of all men of military age. It takes months to make soldiers. Let us start today, or we may be in the position of poor France. A couple of hours training four days a week for the employed, and regular training for the unemployed will benefit all of them morally and physically - and most of them need it."
"Get our industrial plants at work at once on anti-aircraft guns, planes, tanks, artillery and ammunition. We have none now. That is why France fell and Britain is in terrible danger. Men cannot fight machines except with machines and training.
"Canada and the United States carried out these suggestions Hitler will not attack. He understands force only. In Heaven's name let us awake before it is too late."
"Conscription, some will say. So it is for Canadian defence of her own shores. The only conscription that has been considered or discussed was for service overseas. Everyone should be for conscription for home defence."
