HEAVY ICE.—Ice conditions in the Northumberland Straits, off Little Sands and Pictou Island, is considered very serious for the fishermen. Many of the fishermen set lines some days ago when the Gulf was clear of ice. The East wind, however, drove in the ice, and it is feared a large number of the lines have been carried off by the ice.

A BRILLIANT STUDENT. —The fifty-sixth annual convention of the Presbyterian College, Montreal, was recently held. Among the prize-winners was Mr. Duncan Livingstone, of High Bank, P.E.I., a second year divinity student. Mr. Livingstone carried off two prizes: Religious Education ($25); Elocution ($25.)

WAITING IDENTIFICATION. — Mr. Joseph Brown, a fisherman of Bay Fortune, King's Co., when out in his dory one day last week, and rowing close in, had his attention attracted by some unfamiliar object, cast up by the waves on the ice, near the shore. At first sight this resembled somewhat a block of marble or gray stone, but on taking it in his hands, Mr. Brown found it to be too light for either of these, and on closer inspection proved to be a lump of some soft fatty matter, weighing about 20 or 25 pounds. Mr. Brown transferred the mass to his dory and brought it home, where it excited considerable interest, and the opinions of those who viewed it were diverse, and many ranging all the way from tallow, seal fat and blubber to that rare and very valuable substance known as embergris, a tumor or cancerous growth found on the intestines of the speme whale, and used as the basis of many of our choice and favorite perfumes. As none of the residents of Bay Fortune or vicinity ever had the fortunate privilege of seeing ambergris, local authority was consequently unobtainable, but all cyclopedia information available in regard to the outward appearance of the mass corresponded in mostly all features, excepting the pleasant odor, which distinctly marks this valuable vomit of a sick whale. As before stated the find has the appearance of rock or gray stone of uneven formation and rough corrugated exterior surface, soft to the impress, cuts easily like cheese, and slightly grained or marbled; inflammable and melts freely to a yellowish brown liquid or oil, and at present writing remains unidentified. Will anyone say what it is? At all events, and whatever this Flotsam of the restless deep may eventually reveal itself to be, whether the priceless ambergris or only humble hog fat, Mr. Brown has relieved the monotony of a quiet neighborhood; and for the time being has in a measure divested our minds from a cold and very backward spring, from harbors filled and coasts yet bound with ice, and by his find has aroused no little curiosity and interested conjecture. —A. G.

FAREWELL PRESENTATION.—Mr. C. H. McGuigan, Accountant at the Royal Bank of Canada, Hunter River, for the past year, who has recently been transferred to Amherst, N.S., branch, was waited upon by the Manager and Staff previous to going, and presented with an address and suitable remembrance.

LETTER OF SYMPATHY.

The following letter of sympathy has been received by Mr. A. D. McLeod, 938 Washington St., Canton, Mass., on the death of his brother, Angus McLeod, of Eldon, Belfast, from one of Charlottetown's leading business men, and is duly appreciated by Mr. McLeod:

Charlottetown, P. E. I.,
April 24, 1923.

Dear Mr. McLeod.

It is with feelings of extreme regret and deep sadness that I am writing this letter to you to extend to your our sincere sympathy on the irreparable loss which you have sustained in the death of your loved brother Angus. I had heard of his illness but I was terribly shocked when I heard that he had suddenly passed away. I little thought when visiting his place last August that when I would again return the one we loved through life, the kindest of neighbors, one whom our dear parents revered all their lives, his noble presence and pleasant countenance would no more be seen. But, dear Mr. McLeod, such is life. Only a short time from childhood to the grave. There are few men in our dear old home that will be missed more than Angus. In my youth, nothing pleased me better than to visit your dear old home. Everybody was welcome, even the little chaps holding on by their mothers' hands, remember the kind words that ever fell from his lips. The late Angus McLeod was a splendid type of a true Christian man; nobody ever left his door, cold, hungry, wet or thirsty. His Christian charity knew no bounds. His conversation was ideal of a true gentleman, and I never yet heard him utter an expression that could not be repeated in the presence of any family. I had a talk with sister Bessie when she came home, and from her I learned that you were coming home shortly.

Again tendering to you our sincere sympathy, I remain,

FAREWELL ADDRESS

On April 28th, a very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Miss Ruth Holland, Tryon, who intends leaving in a few days to take up a nursing course at the Charlottetown Hospital.

The following is the address presented.

Dear Friend,—Having heard with regret that you were going away, we could not let you depart from our midst without some small token of recognition on our part. There is always a sadness about the breaking up of old associations and the severing of home ties. And much as we regret your going we believe you are taking a step in the right direction.

Your sunny disposition and unfailing courtesy will stand you in good stead, and fit you for the high and noble calling you are about to enter. You will be missed in the home where you have always been cheerful, obedient and industrious. We will miss you in our social circle, your happy manner and pleasant smile and your respect for the opinion of others has endeared you to all with whom you have come in contact, and as you look into the future with all its problems and possibilities and go out into the wider sphere of life's activities. No matter where our lots may be cast or what life has in store for us, you can rest assured that the hope and prayer of your friends gathered here tonight is that a great and over ruling Providence that heedeth the sparrow, that is shaping and molding our destinies will be your guide and comforter and smile on all your undertakings. We ask you to accept this small gift, not for any value it has in itself, but as a token of the esteem with which you are held by your many friends. We will watch your career with pride, your success will be our success and we your friends, as the year go by will cherish in our hearts many happy thoughts of our early associations.

FAREWELL RECEPTION

On the evening of Thursday, April 26th a number of the friends of Mrs. William Court assembled at her home in Dunstaffnage for the purpose of bidding farewell to her and her son Herbert, before their departure for Portland, Maine.

The earlier part of the evening was pleasantly spent in games and music. Later the meeting was called to order, and Mr. A. C. Foster was appointed chairman. After having stated the purpose of the gathering Mr. W. E. Vessey was called upon to read the following address:

Dear Mrs. Court,—It is with feelings of deep regret intermingled with joy that we have assembled here this evening to bid you farewell.

A short time ago we heard you were about to leave Dunstaffnage, but we felt we could not allow you to go without in some way trying to let you know how much you will be missed. Your place will be hard to fill in both Church and Sunday School.

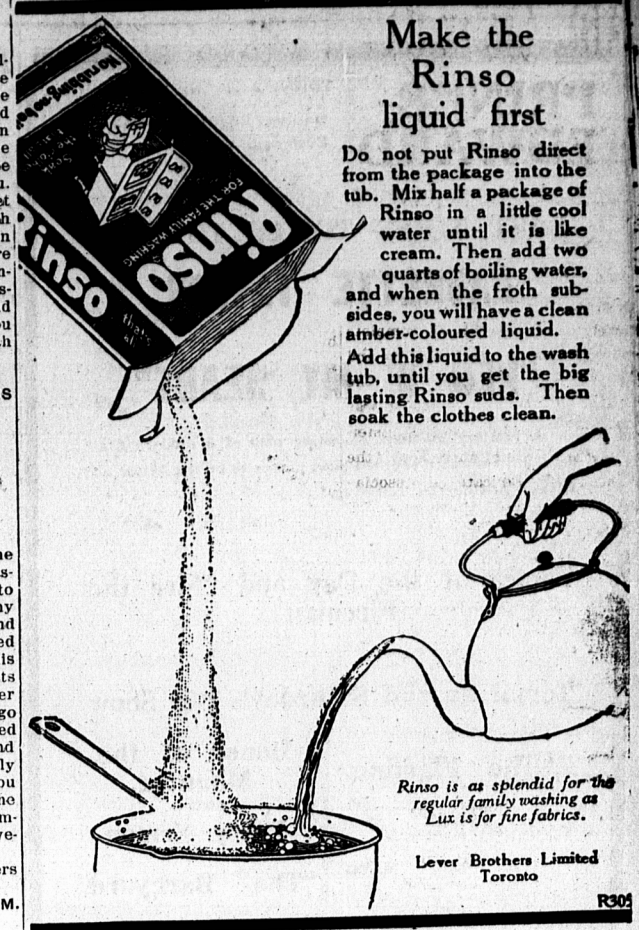
We could wish that you would remain with us, but since you have deemed it wise to make your home in another land, we can only abide by your decision and bid you God speed. Before saying farewell to you we would ask you to kindly accept this small gift as a slight token of our esteem. Kindly remember that our good wishes will ever follow you and your son and may happiness and good fortune be your constant attendants upon life, and should it be in the near or far future, you should decide to come back to your Island home, kindly bear in mind that a hearty welcome will be found awaiting you.

Signed on behalf of your Dunstaffnage Friends.

During the reading of the address Miss Lucy Lane presented Mrs. Court with a suitable gift. Mrs. Court in a few well chosen words thanked the many friends for having so kindly remembered her.

During the evening refreshments were served by the ladies.

The gathering was brought to a close by singing For she is a Jolly Good Fellow and God be with you till we meet again.



Make the Rinso liquid first

Do not put Rinso direct from the package into the tub. Mix half a package of Rinso in a little cool water until it is like cream. Then add two quarts of boiling water, and when the froth subsides, you will have a clean amber-coloured liquid. Add this liquid to the wash tub, until you get the big lasting Rinso suds. Then soak the clothes clean.

Rinso is as splendid for the regular family washing as Lux is for fine fabrics.
