DeCoste-Martell Wedding

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the St. James Catholic Church, Georgetown, P. E. I., on August 1 at 6 a.m. when Gertrude Teresa Martell, daughter of Mrs. Michael Burke and the late Patrick Martell of Georgetown, became the bride of William Rupert DeCoste, son of Mr. and Mrs. William V. DeCoste of Charlottetown.

Rev. Father Owen Kiggins officiated.

The bride was attended by her friend, Miss Veronica Prosper as bridesmaid. Mr. Ralph DeCoste, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride looked charming in a street-length dress of turquoise blue crepe and her hat was a halo of white roses and forget-me-nots. Her accessories were white and she carried an ivory prayer book. The bridesmaid was attired in a pink Jersey dress with white accessories.

After the Nuptial Mass a wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home, attended by immediate relatives.

After a short honeymoon the young couple will reside in Charlottetown where the groom is an employee of the Post Office Department.

Their numerous friends wish them every happiness in their wedded life.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

POWDER FIGHTS INSECT BATTLE

Flies! Moths! Mosquitoes! They're all pesky nuisances. Thank goodness we now have powerful new insecticides to help rid us of all three! Helping to fight this battle of the bug is Johns-Manville Celite, an important part of new insecticides. A light, fluffy powder, Celite's finely divided particles improve the dispersion of the poison. It makes the same amount of poison go further and kill more pests.

Johns-Manville research has made Celite a really valuable product. You'll find it in automobile and silver polishes, DDT and writing paper. It's used to filter sugar, wine, beer, fruit juices and other beverages. For complete details on Celite and how it can be used in your industry, write Johns - Manville, Sun Life Bldg., Montreal.

Morell Junior Group Holds Poultry Pool

The first poultry pool in the Province this season was held yesterday morning when the boys and girls of the Morell Junior Poultry Club held a co-operative pool and marketed the majority of their early chickens. The chickens were bought by the Swift Canadian Co. of Charlottetown.

Poultry were first marketed this way in the Province last year when the Rustico Boys and Girls Club held a poultry pool. There was only one such event in the Province last year, but it is expected that several poultry clubs will market their fowl in a similar manner this season.

Messrs. C. S. Scranton, Poultry Fieldman of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, and Hugh MacLean, Agricultural Representative of the Provincial Department of Agriculture took active parts in helping to organize the pool.

The Morell boys and girls have developed one of the most outstanding clubs on the Island since their organization on January 25. They have a membership of 25, headed by Robert Webster as president, Gerard MacCarthy as vice-president, and Miss Irene Hooper as secretary.

They held a field day on July 7th and the members along with several adults visited Swift's Hatchery, Charlottetown, Preston Wood's poultry farm at Southport and the R. O. P. farm and chick hatchery at Wilfred MacDonald & Sons, Covehead. On their way home they made a tour of the National Park at Stanhope and Dalvay.

A range shelter was built by the boys in June and used as a model for 10 days. It was later sold by auction with the profits going to the Club funds. A number of shelters have been patterned off this one.

Members are looking forward to two months of active Club work to study the art of culling and judging poultry. An achievement day will be held in September when the members will exhibit a cockerel and a pullet. They will also enter the judging competition to determine a team to represent the Club at the Provincial Competition to be held later at Charlottetown.

Find Bullet-Riddled Body Near Toronto

TORONTO, Aug. 2—(CP)— The body of an unidentified man with three bullet wounds—one in the head—was discovered today in a vacant tree-covered lot in suburban North York Township.

Police said they were investigating the possibility he might be the slayer of Alfred E. Layng, 25, who died Saturday while attempting to halt an armed robber escaping from a Toronto grocery store.

Description of the body answers that of the wanted killer in several respects, police said.

Dosco Urges Central Agency To Fix Freight Rates For Dominion

By John LeBlanc

MONTREAL, Aug. 2 —(CP) — A central Canadian agency for the fixing of all transportation rates was urged by Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation today before the Royal Commission on Transportation.

Dosco proposed the agency be set up either through a constitutional amendment or by agreement between the Provinces, which control trucking, and the Dominion, which has jurisdiction over other forms of transport.

The corporation, in a brief and in testimony submitted to the commission as it continued a country-wide tour of inquiry into transportation problems, also declared.

1. The powers of the Board of Transport Commissioners, the regulatory body of the railways, should be widened to enable it to set freight rates in such a way that trade patterns would not be disrupted.

2. Last year's 21-per-cent general freight-rate increase awarded the railways by the board had seriously affected the position of Dosco's Maritime-produced steel products in competitive markets and knocked out advantages conferred on the seaboard Provinces' shippers by the Maritime Freight Rates Act of 1927.

3. Freight-rate increases on steel products should be limited to dollars-and-cents amounts on similar products going to the same markets in order to preserve competitive relationships.

4. Alternatively, Canada should use the United States formula of holding down rate increases on steel to a maximum 80 cents per ton. Dosco said the increases on some of its hauls were as high as $2.69 a ton, compared to considerably less than that for competitors nearer the markets.

A second submission before the commissioners today was from Seraphin Ouimet, Montreal civil engineer and surveyor, who called for re-financing of the railways through a government-appointed custodian, to cut down their debt interest.

The steel corporation, in a formal brief and in oral evidence given by executive vice-president L. A. Forsyth of Montreal, declared the proposed central tribunal for fixing rates was the only way to assure justice to shippers and to all forms of carrier services.

At present, the brief said, low-rate trucking competition in Ontario had given competitors an advantage over Dosco in that market. This was in conflict with the principle that rate structures should keep in balance the basic rights of shippers.

During the session, Mr. Forsyth became involved in a series of bouts with Ian Sinclair, Canadian Pacific Railway counsel, who wanted Dosco to produce figures on its costs of hauling raw materials to its Nova Scotia plants since it was asking "special privileges."

Mr. Forsyth warmly denied that the company wanted any special privilege, declaring all it asked was that it should not have to pay higher rate increases on its products than competitors located closer to markets.

Mr. Sinclair contended that Dosco had an advantage over competitors in that it got its raw materials for the plant at Sydney, N. S., more cheaply than those in Upper Canada, since it had its own coal mines near the plant and got iron ore and other materials by a cheap water haul.

These factors had to be taken into account, he said, as well as the longer haul to market on the finished product.

The commission reserved decision on whether the company would have to produce all information on costs.

C.B.C. GOVERNORS

In making the recommendation the board said:

"Only a limited number of air channels are available. There are not nearly enough channels to accommodate all organizations or groups of different viewpoints or interests which might wish to have stations of their own.

"If some groups had licenses they would be in partial monopoly positions and channels would not be available for licences to other groups.

"It has not therefore been the policy of the board, and is not, to recommend granting licences for commercial broadcasting stations to non-commercial organizations connected with different social, economic, religious or political points of view, beliefs or interests."

A similar reason was given by the board in recommending denial of requests made by the Wesley Church Radio Board, operator of station VOWR in St. John's, Nfld.

The church board sought permission to transfer its licence to the Pioneer Broadcasting Association of Newfoundland; to operate on a commercial basis from 10 a. m. to midnight and to increase its power from 500 to 1,000 watts.

The board deferred action on two other applications from the new Province. One was from station VOCM, St. John's, which sought permission to increase power from 250 to 1,000-watts. The other was from G. Stirling and Don Jamieson, both of St. John's, for permission to establish a new station in the Island's Capital.

The deferments were recommended to provide "opportunity for observation and study by the board of broadcasting matters and conditions affecting broadcasting questions in Newfoundland."

Many of the other applications dealt with requests for transfers of shares in companies owning radio stations. All were recommended for approval as they did not affect the control of the companies.

They included transfers sought by stations, CHNS, New Carlisle, Que.; and CJFX, Antigonish, N.S.

Brilliant Piano Recital Given By Miss Morris

A musical event of outstanding importance took place last night in St. Paul's Hall where Miss Marian Morris was heard in recital under the sponsorship of the Phalanx Club of the Y. M. C. A.

The programme was as follows:

Prelude and Fugue in A Minor—Bach-Liszt.

Air from Orfeo—Gluck-Freidman.

Sonata in C Major—Mozart.

General Levine, Eccentric—Debussey.

Les Terrasse des Audiences du Clair de Lune—Debussey.

Impromptu in A Flat—Faure.

Etude in C Minor, Op. 25—Chopin.

Etude in F Major, Op. 25—Chopin.

Berceuse—Chopin.

Waltz in A Flat—Chopin.

Scherzo in C Sharp Minor—Chopin.

In addition, in response to most hearty and prolonged applause, Miss Morris played the following numbers:

Dance of the Shepherds—Haeffter.

Two part invention—Fred Morris.

Etude in A Flat—Chopin.

Charlottetown music lovers are already familiar with Miss Morris's splendid piano playing, as she has given many fine recitals in the past. She is with us for the summer but has been pursuing her musical studies in Baltimore under the guidance of Mr. Munz, and her interpretations — very fine before — have gained notably in breadth and depth, while her technique is now quite faultless.

Thus in the programme before us, the first piece she played (and one of the most heartily applauded) was the Bach-Liszt Prelude and Fugue in A Minor. This listener has a fine recording of this, played by Miss Eileen Joyce, which he has always enjoyed hearing, but he definitely prefers the reading given by Miss Morris. Dare one here suggest that at her next recital in Charlottetown — may it be soon!—she play to us some more Bach. Such, for instance, as the Chromatic Fantasie and Fugue, the Toccata in C Major, or the Fantasie and Fugue in G Minor.

As she is her father's daughter, she gave her Chopin pieces a splendid reading. Particularly brilliant and stirring was her rendering of the Scherzo in C Sharp Minor. This writer remembers how, many years ago, he listened entranced in the very room where this newspaper is composed, to a magnificent recital by Mr. Fred Morris, consisting mainly of compositions by Chopin. Indeed, the musicianship of Mr. Morris is evident in the fact that, as one of her encore numbers, Miss Morris played a lovely two part invention which he composed.

At the close of the programme the recitalist was presented with a lovely bouquet of roses by Miss Shirley Heiatt on behalf of the Phalanx Club.

SECOND MOVE

Anglo-Canadian Air Lines were limited to "fourth-freedom" traffic. They could fly passengers between the two countries, but did not have the right to stop off at intermediate countries to pick up or drop off passengers.

The new pact specifies that Trans-Canada Air Lines will be able to stop in Iceland, Ireland and the Azores to do air business en route to the U. K. and back to Canada. British Overseas Airways Corporation, the U. K. air line, will enjoy the same privilege.

Replacing existing Anglo-Canadian contracts negotiated in 1945, 1947 and 1948, the new pact gives Canada these specific rights:

1. To do air business at Hong Kong on a route to be established by Canadian Pacific Air Lines from Vancouver through Alaska and the Aleutians to the Orient.

2. Use of the Fiji Islands airport on a route by the same company from Vancouver to Honolulu and Australia.

(Canada obtained full traffic rights in Honolulu under the Canada-U. S. bilateral air agreement signed in Ottawa last June.)

Mr. Chevrier said Canada also wanted additional air business rights in the Caribbean area for T. C. A. The U. K. government are taking this up with colonial governments in Bermuda and British colonies in the Caribbean for clearance.

The U. K. obtained for British Overseas Airways Corporation these Canadian air business concessions:

1. Rights to Gander, similar to those obtained by the U. S. These do not give B. O. A. C. the right to pick up or drop off passengers on its Gander-Montreal route. This right is reserved for T. C. A.

2. Full use of an air port at either Churchill or The Pas, Man., when the U. K. decides to establish a line to the Orient via Goose Bay, Labrador and Alaska. This route is not expected to come into operation for several years.

Mr. Chevrier said at a press conference that Canada "got everything we came for." The agreement was initialled for the U.K. by G. S. Lindgren, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Civil Aviation.

And This Is How It Happened

This snow-making machine created the snowfall shown above. The contraption belongs to a Cleveland, O., ice and fuel company whose officials thought up a real brainstorm on how to save lawns during heat waves. They put chemical fertilizer in 300-pound ice cakes, haul them to the lawn, grind the ice into snow and blow it onto the grass. The snow melts to give the grass a good soaking and make it greener. The snow machine also blows pure ground ice on perishable produce in freight cars. It also can be used to make a good backdrop for a sleigh-ride-in-July picture.

Charge Vatican, U. S. Plot In Czechoslovakia

By Richard Kasischke

PRAGUE, Aug. 2 — (AP) —The Communist press claimed today a Joint Vatican-American plot to provoke civil war in Czechoslovakia over the church-state controversy had been foiled.

The charge was made by the Communist party organ, Rude Pravo, which claimed an "Organization X", allegedly under a United States high command, was working to "organize espionage, sabotage and diversion in countries that have abandoned the capitalist system."

In a long article entitled "The Vatican Fifth Column," Rude Pravo's foreign commentator, Andre Simone, named Allen Dulles, brother of Senator John Foster Dulles, as chief of "Organization X".

Simone also listed Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, whom he described as "The Pope's Hjalmar Schacht", as one of the organization's numbers.

(In New York, Dulles said he knew nothing about the report.)

"The Vatican spy service led by a general of the Jesuit Order, Janson, and under the direct control of the State Secretary of the Vatican, Montini, co-operates directly with Organization X in its endeavor to cause chaos in the peoples' democracies," the Communist writer said.

(The Vatican today identified a Father John Baptist Janssens as general of the Society of Jesus.)

The Rude Pravo article said: "Only thanks to the eternal watchfulness of the peoples' democratic governments have the attempts of Organizaztion X been foiled."

SURVEY SHOWS

In the Maritimes the average family contained four persons; Ontario 3.4; the Prairies 3.7, and British Columbia 3.3.

An indication that family allowances are not producing the expected effect is that fewer children were born in Canada last year despite the fact there were more people in the country.

In 1947 with the population standing at 12,582,000 there were 29,942 babies born each month. Last year with the average population up to 12,883,000 the monthly average of births was down to 25,807.

The drop was consistent for each of the nine Provinces which made up Canada at the time.

Newfoundland, where mothers began to receive cheques in April of this year, has received $2,250,000 in family allowances in the three months. The cheques are going to 49,334 mothers on behalf of 132,678 children in the new Province.

In May of this year 148,663 cheques were issued on behalf of 282,282 children. The ratio of cheques and children is roughly 1-to-2, indicating that while there are many more families, the average number of children of baby bonus age hasn't changed in four years.

The same situation is generally true of all Provinces except Prince Edward Island where there has been a slight increase in the average number of children per family receiving allowances.

In July, 1945, P. E. I. mailed 11,702 cheques for 29,207 children. In May this year 12,950 cheques were mailed for 32,744 children.

Quebec mailed 354,881 cheques for 1,029,246 children in July, 1945, compared with 491,629 cheques to 1,309,883 children in May this year.

In Ontario the increase in the number of cheques from 1945 to 1949 was 194,596 and the increase in the number of children was 350,045.

New Brunswick had 16,928 more cheques and 39,908 more children; Nova Scotia 25,139 more cheques and 53,102 more children.

Up to the end of May this year $1,002,682,746 in family allowances had been paid in Canada and cheques during June were expected to have added another $25,000,000.

As of last March, Canadian mothers receive $5 for each child under six years of age. The allowance increases to $6 for a child between six and 10, and to $7 between 10 and 13. From 13 to 16 the allowance is $8. Payments stop at 16.
