DE HAVILAND COAST TEAM WINS AIR RACE WINS TITLE

(Canadian Press Cable)
LONDON, July 9.—Captain Geoffrey De Haviland, celebrated designer and builder of aeroplanes, tonight held a distinction he prizes more than the many honors he has won in the aeronautical world—victory in the classic King's Cup air race.

Captain De Haviland, who has been flying for a quarter of a century, won the King's Cup Saturday in a Leopard Moth machine of his own design, finishing the last of four 200-mile circuits at a speed of nearly 140 miles an hour to cross the finishing line just 30 feet ahead of Flight-Lieut. E. C. T. Edwards, A. J. Stryan was third.

The conditions for the race, now the greatest open air-race in the United Kingdom, were radically changed from former years. Saturday's renewal was flown in four laps, and on each of these the knockout elimination system was used for competitors failing to achieve a certain average.

This provision was responsible for the elimination of the great speed pilot, Flight-Lieut. Stainforth, famous Schneider Cup racer, whose Swift failed to qualify in the second circuit though he averaged 160 1-2 miles an hour.

Of the two women in the race, won some years ago by Winifred Spooner, Mrs. A. S. Butler finished sixth in the final circuit and Lady Bailey, famous aviatrix, was eliminated in the third round.

Only five competitors were forced out during the race, either through engine or plane trouble or lack of fuel, but of these only one person received injuries, P. R. Walker being slightly hurt when his machine was forced down near Northampton.

SHAUGHNESSY HEIGHTS GOLF CLUB, Vancouver, July 9—Canada's inter-provincial golf championship and the Willingdon Challenge Cup rested tonight on the Pacific slope for the first time. Inspired by the brilliance of 20-year-old Ken Black of Vancouver, British Columbia's team of four youthful linksmen returned a record score of 597 over this beautiful course Saturday to complete the 36 holes of medal play with a three-stroke margin over Ontario, champions of two years standing.

Quebec, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, who finished behind the leaders in that order, were left far behind in a blazing second round that produced the most spectacular finish in the history of the competition. After leading the British Columbians by one stroke at the 27-hole mark, the quartette of Ontarians were powerless to cope with the barrage of pars and birdies manufactured by the coast players.

SUCCESSFUL SALAD RULES

You, of course, know how to make good salads, but here are some suggestions that you may want to adopt as your salad code:

- (1) All greens should be washed thoroughly.
- (2) All ingredients should be fresh and well chilled.
- (3) Separate the lettuce leaves very carefully. They will come apart quite easily if a cone-shaped piece is removed from the heart of the lettuce and cold water is allowed to run through it with force.
- (4) Save the outer leaves of lettuce, shred them and use as the foundation for fruit and vegetable salads.
- (5) Before using salad greens free them from excess moisture by patting gently with a clean, dry food cloth. If the leaves are wet the dressing cannot cling to them, and nothing is more unappetizing than a salad resting in a pool of water which has drained from it.
- (6) Never put a salad dressing on lettuce or other salad greens until just before serving, as it makes the greens limp and wilted.
- (7) Marinate in French dressing for at least an hour all vegetables (other than green ones) and all meat and fish to be used in salads.
- (8) Cut salad ingredients carefully in fair-sized pieces. Do not chop. Meat for salads should be shaved in thin slices or cut in cubes; fish for salads should be flaked from the bones with a silver fork, and all fat removed.
- (9) Shred or cut vegetables into attractive forms.
- (10) Drain all fruits before combining the salad.
- (11) Prevent the darkening of fruits by covering them with French dressing as soon as you prepare.
- (12) Make your salad attractive to look at as well as to eat. Never have been our teacher. Please accept this small token of our appreciation of your work, and with a prayer that God may assist and bless you in all your efforts and laudable undertakings, we the pupils of Union Road School, bid you farewell.

Signed by the pupils of Union Road School.

The presentation of the gift was made by Glydon Maund. The teacher thanked the pupils for their thoughtfulness and was tendered a vote of appreciation for his services, moved by Mrs. Lamont and seconded by Mrs. Mellett. The meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

BALDWIN'S ROAD W. I.

The June meeting of the Baldwin's Road W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Peter Carter, with seven members and many visitors attending. After the roll call, the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. The President presided. It was moved and seconded that the Institute pay for having the school whitewashed. An interesting feature of this meeting was the weighing party. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Joseph Cullen invited the members to her home for the next meeting on Tuesday, July 11th, roll call to be answered by preserving hints. Meeting closed with the National Anthem.

The Prince's Nurse.

Laughingly Miss Hughes recalled that the Prince of Wales was anything but a patient sitter as a child. "There was one occasion," she said, "when he could not keep still. The Queen could do nothing with him and finally went up to my father's studio, leaving him with his nurse.

"The nurse adopted a very firm line. Taking the Prince by the shoulders, she said to him, 'Now, Prince David, you have got to be good'—and he was.

"On another occasion I made a personal appeal to him. "Prince Edward," I asked, "you are going to help me this time?" He said, 'Yes, I will,' and was as good as his word, but unfortunately the result was such that the Queen and everyone else said it was too 'saintlike' and not a bit like the Prince.

An extra porter had been taken on at the seaside station to cope with the sudden rush of holiday-makers.

The stationmaster was outlining his duties.

"First of all," he commenced, "you'll start on number one platform. Sweep out the waiting-room and the porters' room. Then go over the bridge to platform number two and sweep out the booking-office, my room, and the general waiting-room. Make sure that all the fire buckets are well filled, and give the whole platform a good sweeping. After that come over the bridge and—

"Sweep the snow off number one platform," put in the porter.

"But there isn't any snow on number one platform," said the stationmaster.

"There will be by the time I've finished these other jobs," replied the porter with feeling.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. JOHN T. NICOLE

Mrs. John T. Nicole peacefully passed on to her Eternal rest at her home in Gladstone, Murray Harbour, P. E. I. on June 21st, 1933, at the comparatively early age of 61 years and 21 days. She was in delicate health for some years back, but she never lost her wonderfully bright and cheerful disposition, and sanctified shrewd good humour, which she often indulged in to the delight of those who heard her. Mrs. Nicole was a remarkable woman in many ways. Humanly speaking her brave spirit prolonged her life. But when the messenger came at last, she clearly recognized it, and with her wonted and wonderful gallantry she bravely welcomed him saying my heavenly Father Thy will be done. For me to live is Christ but to die is gain. Though greatly wrapped up in her husband, children, grand children and her church, yet when she felt that the hour of her departure was come, committing them all to the great shepherd, she set her heart and her face entirely towards her heavenly Home, pleading with them not to weep for her, testifying to them that she knew whom she believed etc.; that she was going to the house of many mansions—an house not made with hands, Eternal in the heavens. So she urged "Don't weep or mourn for me."

The pallbearers were: Harvey Nicole, her own and only beloved son, Ernest Beck, a fine young grandson raised by her from infancy and whose good qualities she ever highly prized, Chester Cooper, Lovell Lumsden, Waldo Beck and Stamford McKay. George Cooper drove the hearse. Mrs. Nicole is survived by her sorrowing husband, whose loss is great indeed, and by Mrs. Lulu Lumsden, Trenton, N. S., Mrs. Margaret Cooper, Murray Harbour, Mrs. Peter McKenzie, Dover, Miss Lottie Nicole, who exhibited the many beautiful qualities of her great good mother in her devotion to her mother to the end, and one son, Mr. Harry Nicole, C. N. R., Charlottetown. The largely attended funeral service conducted in magnificent weather at the home and grave by her minister Rev. Allister Murray of Caledonia and Murray Harbour, testified to the respect and honour in which Mrs. Nicole was held. The interment was in Murray Harbour cemetery.

In the removal of Mrs. John Nicole the Presbyterian Church of Murray Harbour sustained a severe blow, and loses one of its most devoted and faithful members. We shall miss her sorely for many a day. To her bereaved husband and family who rise and call her blessed, we extend our heartfelt sympathies. May the God of all grace comfort them.

UNION ROAD SCHOOL CLOSING

The closing exercises of Union Road School were held in the school room on Friday, June 30, beginning at 1:30 p. m. The annual examination was conducted by the teacher Edison MacDonald. There were recitations by the following pupils: Dauphine Clark, Alva Esery, Marie Henderson, Joyce Henderson, Marjorie Lamont, Thelma Lamont, Erma Mellett, Glydon Maund, Alton Newman, Norma Yeo, Stirling Yeo. There was also an exercise, "I'd Like to Be" by Alton Newman, Stirling Yeo and Glydon Maund. When the program was completed, candy was passed around to both visitors and children. This was followed by the reading of the following address by Erma Mellett:

Dear Teacher—We wish to thank you for your painstaking work and your tolerance with us in our studies, while you have been our teacher. We will always remember and look back with pleasure in the years to come, to the two years you
