Every day one comes face to face with new demands on his income—increased taxation, higher expenses... But in the face of all that, it still rests with the individual to provide for those dependent upon him.

The Great-West Life's new Graduated Premium Policy makes it easier to take out adequate life insurance now and still do one's share in other directions. The first year there is only half the regular premium to pay. For the next four years graduated premiums move through four easy stages to fit in with your earnings and expenses. Not for five years are the normal fixed premiums reached. All the premiums are low and can be brought down still lower by the annual dividends earned.

Musical Recital

Recital at St. James' Hall, Charlottetown, Sept. 30th, by the pupils of Miss Lena McLure, A.T.C.M. Miss McLure in opening said: "We wish to thank you for coming to our Recital tonight. It has always been our good fortune to have Mrs. Cosh preside at recitals in her inimitable style, but she is away from the Province at present. I shall read the brief program notes myself this evening. May I say that this is a first summer's study and first recital for every word and line of them breathes the love of her home province from this woman who has received honours from many countries. One of her favorite remarks is, "I like Ontario, but I love the Island."

The first solo number was from the youngest pupil, Anita Lynds. "The song of the Queen Elizabeth we have sung the Old English song which Camilla MacPherson then played.

An old folk song was sung by Margaret Coles.

Piano number "Ab Vous Dirai Je Maman" by Mozart played by Margaret Gales.

Piano number "Ensaissale" by Schubert played by Veina Andrew.

Recitation by Ernest Wood, "The Ballalatcher Cup" by Cusnog. This is a legend from the poetry of Josephine Kermode, the Marx poet. Most of her work is written in dialect verse, and shows the influence of the folk and fairy lore of her kindly heart. Her lyrics are sympathetic and full of delicate beauty. Magnus is one of the early priests and a man of great learning. The Icelandic shree is the Peace Parly.

Piano number "The Slumber Song" by Schubert, Roma Coles.

Piano number "The Folk Song," Leonard Wood.

Song "Variation" by Barry, Miss Mary Bradley.

Piano number "Romance in F" by Hayden, Miss Louise Andrew.

Piano number "Capriccio" by Hayden, Doris Clements.

Recitation, Paul Cudmore.

Piano number "Southern Nights" by Paul Duval, played by Mary Tal.

Piano number "Bocherines Minuet," Aldrey Coles.

Mrs. Davison read excerpts from Alfred Noyes poem, "The Outage of the Kindly Light." Alfred Noyes, one of our modern poets, was born in 1880. He gave the Lowell lectures in America on "The Sea in English Poetry" in 1912. He was appointed professor of English literature in Princeton University the year following.

"This outer world is but the picture-scroll
Of worlds within the soul;
A colored chart, a blazoned misal-book.
Whereon who rightly look
May spere the splendors with most mortal eyes.
And stier to Paradise."
A short intermission came during which there was a sale of

Personals

Miss Peggy Guthell and Miss Michael Couson of Brooklyn, N. Y., who are the guests of Miss Couson's aunt, Mrs. Scott McCorkell, 51 Richmond Street, are leaving on Thursday. They are having a delightful holiday visiting different points of interest.

candy, donated by the members of The Queen Mary Sewing Guild. The opening of the King's proceeds were given to The Guild for war work and our Orphanage.

Gratitude was expressed to Mr. A. E. Toombs who lent one of his excellent apartment size Willis pianos. The piano was given to Mr. Toombs was greatly appreciated by all.

Intermission

The opening number of the second part was a short scene called "The Law." The two boys' parts in the scene were played by two first cousins Leonard Wood and Ernest Wood.

Piano number, A Canadian Folk Tune, Mary Tal.

Piano number "Finding Flowers," by Reinke, played by Doris Clements.

"I'll take you Home Again Kathleen." This song was a great favorite of the late Thomas A. Edison. He requested it to be sung at his funeral. Miss Louise Andrew sang "I'll take you Home Again Kathleen."

Piano number, "Wood and Scenes" by Leon Aubry, Margaret Gales.

Recitation, Paul Cudmore.

Piano number, "The Song of the Rose" played by Margaret Coles. "Some One" by Walter de la Mare was recited by Anita Lynds. In this poem a little child hears the Fairies knocking.

"O, grown-ups cannot understand
And grown-ups neved will
How short's the way to fairyland
Across the purple hill:
Their eyes their smile is very blind,
And yet—at just a child's command—
The world's an Eden still."

Piano number "The Cat and the Fiddle" by David Dick
The vocal teacher at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, played by Veina Andrew.

Mrs. Davison then gave a reading. Alfred Coles played the Strains Blue Roses by Summer Foresaken. Again we are indebted to this quotation by Alfred Noyes "The Temple of the Smallest Flower."

For a happier world we need more and better music. This calls for better performers and composers and better musical understanding on the part of the public.

If you're the earning type, you'll find some new beauties this Fall appearing in large English silver filigree buttons with faceted plastic stones in the centre. Some show tiny bees or birds in gold and silver to match a set of "Wee Three", the new zodiac pins initiated by Gloria Swanson. Very fifty.
