DISASTROUS FIRE—Another disastrous fire occurred at French Bay on Wednesday night, July 20th, when the large and up-to-date barn of Edgar Gillespie was burned to the ground. When the fire was first noticed, the whole barn was a burning mass and nothing could be done. Mr. Gillespie's loss is a heavy one, as the barn was built only 12 years ago and was 75 feet long by 23 feet wide, with a central underground stable. It was built at the time that all the cows and horses were in the field, but the harness, forks, shovels, an International engine, a crusher, a platform set of scales, the Farm Institute Graders, all his feed and a quantity of hen feed and 25 hens and a litter of little pigs went with the fire. How the fire started is another mystery of the night. What makes it harder for Gillespie is at the time, his wife was lying dangerously ill. —Patriot press copy.

The steering gear of the car broke as the driver was crossing the track and he lost control. After striking Mr. Clow the car hit a telephone pole which was lying in front of James Morrison's warehouse. Mr. Enzor Bowness, who was passing with his ambulance, drove the injured man to the hospital. Mr. Clow is not thought to be seriously injured, but he is suffering from shock.
