ELECTRIC WELDING at PROUDE & MORESIDE'S

Established 26 years ago and still doing business at 223 Great George Street PROUDE & MORESIDE are still giving efficient, satisfactory service to their large number of patrons.

It was back in 1920 that the firm started out on a general blacksmithing and horseshoeing scale. Around 1928 acetylene welding was introduced, and, keeping trend with the times, in 1938 electric welding equipment was installed with Mr. Carl Burk as manager of this phase of the work.

With the outbreak of hostilities in 1939 Mr. More-side, a veteran of the First Great War again re-enlisted serving until 1944. Shortly after his return, Mr. Proude up until that time the senior partner, resigned, Mr. Burk being taken into the firm as a partner, after fifteen years' service there.

This well known firm now specializes in electric welding and have capable employees well qualified to look after all your wants. In addition to the work they complete on their business premises they also have on hand a portable welder that will look after all outside work that may come their way.

But the blacksmithing and horseshoeing business is not being neglected by any means. Now looking after this part of the business is Mr. Peter Gallant, another veteran of the First Great War and also a member of the Veterans' Guard in the Second Great War. Mr. Gallant is a well qualified workman in his line of business and today this well-known firm is going stronger than when it first came into being 26 years ago.

Outstanding Line Of Fur Coats to be Found at Betts Fur Salon

On next Monday, November 25th, Betts' Fur Salon will mark their eighth anniversary and the eight years they have been dealing with the public have been years of steady progress.

Sole owner and proprietor is Mrs. Florence Betts and her name has become a by-word in fur circles owing to the satisfaction she has given the public both in the quality and price of the fur coats she has been dealing with over the past eight years.

This Salon has the reputation of having the largest stock of fur coats in the City. Her stock is also considered the best quality for less money. Many satisfied customers will testify to this statement.

Situated in the Peardon Building, 168 Gt. George Street, opposite Ed's Taxi, this firm has been enjoying increased business every year, and with the increase in patronage Mrs. Betts has been making improvements to the Salon that will allow her to give even better service to her growing clientele.

Just completed is a new show room, finished in modernistic design which adds greatly to the convenience and beauty of the entire business premises. With this striking array of fur coats now on display one could not help but choose a garment of worth and striking style—a fur coat is a necessity to every well-dressed woman and business girl.
