

Philadelphia, Pa.—Described by the Federal Bureau of Investigation agents as "the slickest bank swindlers in the country," Charles B. Cooks (alias Darcy), 40, of Chicago, Ill.; Anthony Bonnell, 39, of Chicago, Ill.; and Peter Green, 50, of New York City, (shown above, left to right), were arrested in what was explained as a check-passing operation already successfully worked in other U. S. cities to the tune of $250,000. The three, is a legend came to Philadelphia to take its banks for $25,000 during the pre-holiday season rush. Bail was set at $50,000 each.

CORSETS FOR THE FUTURE they are wearing now all this year and into the beginning of next. The corsets that came after that probably won't look too different either save that they will be shorn of any and all "frills." What is different is that they'll be made of rubber, with the needed "give" provided by woven sections that have a certain amount of stretch such as tricot. But because it will no longer be possible to stretch a foundation to fit, it will take not only the best of designing work on the part of the manufacturer but the best of fitting when you buy a corset. The two co-operating, however, and women can be assured of their future figures. They'll be controlled, and far more comfortably than you would think.

Allied Aerial Offensive Deals Blow At Rouen

LONDON, Dec. 13 (P)—The rolling and widespread Allied Aerial offensive dealt a blow Saturday with American heavy bombers and Allied escort squadrons, including four Canadian squadrons, to German industries and transport at Rouen, France, with the resultant destruction of 18 enemy fighter planes in bitter aerial combat. The Canadians damaged at least one Nazi fighter. Two bombers and four Allied fighters were reported missing but the pilot of one fighter was declared safe. All Canadian planes are safe.

Pilot-officer Stanley Cosburn of Calgary, Alta., a member of a Spitfire unit, commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. Keith Hodson of London, Ont., was credited with damaging a Junker 190. The previous day he shot down a similar plane during an engagement with four Nazi machines over the English Channel. He also shot down a German plane making for the French coast and Cosburn dived to 10,000 feet. After a burst of cannon and machine-gun fire, he observed the enemy aircraft obscured his windshield forcing him to break off.

Pt. Lt. Dick Ellis of Montreal and PO George Keith of Tabor, Alta., each got a burst on a Nazi plane but were unable to observe results.

In all, the Allies shot down 20 enemy fighters in battles close to British home bases. R.A.F. offensive patrols scored for two without loss to themselves in attacks on an airfield and canal barges in Holland, but one plane was lost from other patrols during the day.

Three hundred R.A.F. fighter planes co-operated with a "large force" of United States heavy bombers in the smash at Rouen, a quick daylight follow-up to the third attack in a week last night on Turin, Italian industrial city.

"E" on tank means it has been completely "exterminated" and contains no explosives to act as "booby trap" for unwary Allied soldiers.

In Memoriam
MRS HANNAH COLLINS INMAN
Hannah Collins Inman, 92, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. V. E. Backus, Tillman Avenue, at 9 a.m. Monday, Nov. 30, after a short illness.

Mrs. Inman was born on Oct. 28, 1849 at Hampton, P.E.I., Canada. She was married to James O. Inman on Dec. 31, 1873, and leaves two daughters, Mrs. Backus and Mrs. Emily French, Mt. Pleasant, Michigan.

Since the death of her husband, Mrs. Inman has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Backus first coming to Lake Wales in 1924 and very few friends have enjoyed such a wide circle of friends as she has here.

Active until just a few weeks before her final illness she was the embodiment of good health and vitality.

We cannot think of anything that brings her age more vividly to mind than recalling that she was born the year of the great California gold rush, almost a century ago. Certainly, she had a great gift of life and she filled it to overflowing with deeds of kindness, love and kindness. She worked things for soldiers in this war. She did the same things for soldiers in World War No. 1. She could have done the same for soldiers even in the Civil War, as she was eleven years old when it started and was a young lady when it closed.

Until two weeks ago Mrs. Inman retained all her faculties, and up to two months ago read newspapers and books. She was a member of the Methodist Church at Victoria, P.E.I., and while she never held her membership, she was always active in church, missionary and temperance work as well as sewing and knitting for servicemen, up until a short time before death took her away so peacefully as though she had fallen asleep.

Mrs. Inman was a member of three missionary societies in Lake Wales and always took an active part in all programs, and always attended church at one of the churches when able.

Every year until two years ago Mrs. Inman made the trip alone back to her old home in P.E.I., her health and energy being unusual for one of such an ripe old age.

Funeral services were held from the Methodist Church at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and interment made in the local cemetery. Rev. F. J. Patterson, Rev. R. T. Nelson, Rev. J. L. Drake and Rev. A. A. Kestline of Barlow were in charge of the service and high tribute was paid to this fine Christian character who had so long been identified with the activities of this community.

The above is taken from a Lake Wales, Florida paper.

Mrs. Inman was born at Hampton, P.E.I., a daughter of the late Donald McQuarrie and his wife Anne Farquharson, Mermaid, and was affectionately known as "Aunt Hannah." Of her immediate family, her youngest brother William A. survives and resides on the old homestead at Hampton. A nephew, E. L. Inman, of Victoria, P.E.I., where she resided for many years until the death of her husband in 1911. Until two years ago she was able each summer to visit her native land and indeed during her last illness, she often expressed the wish to "go home" to her beloved island.

A lover of flowers in her lifetime, a profusion of beautiful flowers adorned her grave. Included among these were eight large wreaths from Societies she was affiliated with and more than thirty tokens of affection and admiration and esteem from loving friends and relatives.
