Germany Faces "Heavy Crisis"

BERNE, Aug. 9—(AP)—A German press declaration that Germany now faces "a heavy crisis" in the war was coupled today with a Rome dispatch speculating that Italy is staying in the conflict partly in anticipation of receiving a windfall through new European developments of an unspecified nature.

(The Berlin correspondent of the Madrid newspaper Informaciones reported that an announcement would be forthcoming that Italy will "continue in the war" with "still more active military help from Germany than ever before." Moreover, the correspondent said, the battle on the eastern front "may change from one moment to another.")

COMMENDS LOCAL BOARDS —"By decentralizing the rationing program, the Local Ration Boards are doing a real war job and are of valuable service to the people in the territories served by them," declared Mr. G. T. Williams, director of Local Ration Boards for the Ration Administration, Montreal, when interviewed during a visit to Charlottetown yesterday. Mr. Williams will be in the province several days and during that time will visit the five Local Ration Boards at Charlottetown, Summerside, Alberton, Souris and Montague. He will be accompanied by the Superintendent of Rationing for the Province, Mr. M. F. Graves. For the 604 Local Ration Boards scattered across the Dominion, Mr. Williams had the highest praise. The 5,800 members, including chairman and secretaries, have done a splendid wartime job particularly in the last ration book distribution campaign, he said. By handling the distribution of Ration Book No. 2, these Boards saved the country several hundreds of thousands of dollars in the cost of mailing alone. STARTLINGLY MODERN EFFECTS USED TO BUILD SUSPENSE IN THE WEIRD CIRCLE SERIES

PEGGY MAYER

Peggy Mayer is the talented scripter who adapts for radio the mystery classics by the master storytellers heard in THE WEIRD CIRCLE series over Station CFCY every Tuesday at 8.30 p.m., commencing August 17th.

Miss Mayer has a fresh and original approach to problems of radio script and production. "I am a great admirer of the methods movie director Alfred Hitchcock used to build and sustain suspense," says Peggy, "and in my radio scripts I strive to attain some of the same startlingly modern effects."

In this new series of mystery and horror stories, titled THE WEIRD CIRCLE, Miss Mayer realizes an ambition of long standing—"to bring to radio the work of those masters of literature who have long been recognized for their unusual plots and fine artistry."

A different and complete story by a famous master of fiction is dramatized each week in THE WEIRD CIRCLE series over Station CFCY.

Steinbeck Answers Air Fighters Anxious Over Post-War World

Asked by Veteran of 14 Missions What U.S. Means to Do About Enforcing Peace, He Says Men in Service Can Force Action by Their Votes

(Special to the Herald Tribune and The Charlottetown Guardian, Copyright, 1943, New York Tribune, Inc.)

LONDON.—This letter was received from a man who has fourteen missions over enemy territory. He writes as follows:

"Lately the papers have been full of Allied successes all over the world. Our President informs us that final victory is to be expected this year or next year. This is wonderful news to all the peace-loving peoples of the world.

"With prospects of peace in sight it startles us in the armed forces for one reason: Our government has not committed itself to a peace plan that will be just to conquered countries and at the same time eliminate the possibility of future wars.

"As we have to fight hard to win the war so must we fight even harder to preserve the peace that is to follow. Those of us who fly over occupied Europe almost every day see the horrors of war. We face our enemy realistically. So must the causes of war and the desire for peace be faced realistically.

Calls for Peace Program

"The papers say that certain things are being done to absorb the service men into industry when they come back. We believe this to be true and we also believe that other things are being done to absorb the shock of changing from a war economy to a peace-time economy. However, we feel that this is not enough. We would like to know what our government is doing about a peace plan. The papers say nothing about the Allied countries getting together to formulate a world policy of international trade, co-operation and friendship. Is there to be a federation of countries that will set up a police force that will police the world and preserve peace? Will the world disarm completely or will the victorious remain armed?

"It is true that certain obstacles must be met and overcome because of political differences among the Allied nations, but it is also true that certain obstacles were overcome so that the Allied countries could fight side by side.

"We must formulate a peace policy now so that all peoples of the world will know what we are fighting for and fight even harder for the victory that is near.

"Should peace come with the whole world mobilized it is difficult to say what might happen if the mistakes of Versailles were duplicated at the peace table. We who are fighting do not have time to think of this, but as yet there has been no answer to the question which is larger than the war itself, for we hope to live permanently in a world at peace, and up to now—war has been temporary. Sincerely,

"DONALD F. VAN BRUNT,
"First Lieutenant, U. S. A. A. C."

Questions Stronger Than Foe

Dear Lieutenant Van Brunt:

This writer has become convinced after seeing many soldiers that your questions, and they are being asked everywhere in the Army, are stronger than the enemy. I know to a small extent what you and many others are going through in your raids over Germany and occupied Europe. And I know that to come home to worry about the future is asking a little too much of a fighting man.

And yet this second war or, as some are calling it, the forerunner of peace is your problem and is going to be. You and the other 10,000,000 young men are going to have to fight that one too. If your government and your representatives have a plan for peace they have not brought it out. There are vague references to plans. You know as well as I do that the four freedoms are not a plan but a statement of an ideal as yet without mechanics for carrying them out. They are the golden rule of our generation and we can only hope that they will be applied a little more generally than that other earlier one.

I have tried to find out about plans for peace, only to discover that the peace plans are military secrets.

Recently one of our Senators made the unoriginal statement that nothing would be too good for the returning soldiers. On being asked if he cared to be a little more specific, he replied the plans were being made. On being pressed as to the nature of those plans, he said that they were in process of being worked out, and to every question you get the same answer.

Governments Like Individuals

Governments are rather like individuals. They don't like to work unless they are pressed. You and 10,000,000 other people in the Army have available the one thing our government responds to. Why don't you get out a sheet of paper and write your questions? Why don't you say: "What are you doing, not in terms of golden oratory but in exact terms of money and treaty and organization and personnel?"

Why don't you say: "We are coming home and we are much more than heros. Oh, much more important—we are voters." Then why don't you slip that letter into an envelope and write "Free" across the stamping place and send it to your Congressman or your Senator. If enough of you do that you will get action and information, because while, perish the thought, a Congressman sometimes forgets heroes, he very rarely forgets votes. If he can go along without going on record he is better, but he will go on record for votes or the threat of their withholding.

I know that when the flak comes up and when the fighters bob up at you, you find it hard to convene men and groups of men who could use this thing to their own ends. But there are such men and such groups and all of us must face them as realistically as you face your enemy.

Don't be afraid to throw your weight around. You are defending something. Insist on it being what you thought it was. You are fighting to be at peace. If our Constitution is not just words, you are the government and, cynical as some of our politicians may be, when you really throw your weight you are the government, and you can make the peace you want if you know your power and you never relax. Sincerely yours, and Good Hunting.

"SURE there will be changes after the war . . . some are overdue. But I'm no robot. Whatever our post-war plans, I still want to see hard work rewarded and dividends paid on brains and initiative. I want the privilege of going into business for myself if I choose. That's why I am building a nest egg now at The Royal Bank of Canada."

Canada has grown to rich nationhood through the courage, resourcefulness and initiative of individual citizens. These qualities must be preserved in the challenging days ahead.

What is PRIVATE ENTERPRISE? It is the natural desire to make your own way, as far as your ability will take you; an instinct that has brought to this continent the highest standard of life enjoyed by any people on earth. It is the spirit of democracy on the march . . .
