First Mass In New Church At Hunter River

Rev. J. C. Eitre celebrated the first Mass in the new Catholic Church at Hunter River when he conducted Mass service in the vestry of the church on Sunday, June 12. Over 100 persons were present in the small chapel and hall-way.

Work on the main part of the church which was begun around Father 1 last year has not been completed but the altar and small chapel in the vestry have been finished. The laying of the foundation of the church actually began in 1947, but construction of the church did not commence until last year.

Proposes Schools Of Oceanography

HALIFAX, June 14 — The National Confederation of Canadian Universities is going to follow up a proposal that two Canadian schools of Oceanography be established on the east and west coast. The conference held its opening session at Dalhousie's University yesterday.

The proposal was submitted by an investigating committee, that stated such schools, if established, would be of tremendous value to Canada, particularly in the study of marine biology. The schools would be erected at Vancouver and Halifax.

It was suggested that the University of British Columbia and Dalhousie University should explore the possibilities, and the recommendation of the Conference will be forwarded to Ottawa.
