British Boxer To Get Chance At U.S. Light-heavy And Middle-weight Crowns

As Others View The Ice Circus

The Le Maire Family, Real Artists

"Roman Candles" with Francois Le Maire, brilliant and spectacular artist on the blades, and "Bavarian Spinnaker Dances" in which Maude Reynolds co-starred, were sensational and beautiful numbers.

The Ice Carnival

"Halifax was treated to a distinctly novel event last night and one which won deserved praise, namely, the ice carnival. Oddly enough affairs of this kind are rare in this city though they were popular many years back.

Real Opportunity

"Hotels in Halifax were ready to hang out the 'standing room only' sign last night. To the city had come hundreds, drawn here to view the spectacle of the Masonic Ice Carnival.

U.S. Olympic Participation At Stake

By Eddie Briels, Associated Press Sports Writer

(By Guardian's Special Wire) NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Boom times are ahead for Jock McAvoy, hailed by some as the best British boxer to cross the Atlantic since the halcyon days of Ted "Kid" Lewis.

If the London laddie is half as good as he looked in his debut here last week against French Canadian Al McCoy, he may be wearing both the United States middle and light-heavyweight crowns when he returns to merry England.

Madison Square Garden plans to give McAvoy title shots against both Henry Lewis and Babe Rasko, the light-heavy and middleweight standard bearers.

He is booked to meet Rasko in an over-weight scrap Dec. 20. If he continues to show the class he did against McCoy, one of the best of the North American contenders, he'll get another chance at the Syracuse boy, with the title at stake.

A championship bout with Lewis is a virtual certainty for January. The negro is pledged to make his first title defence for the Garden and with his manager, Al Greenlee, will come to New York next week to discuss terms.

Herr Max Schmeling arrives tomorrow to talk business with the Garden and Mike Jacobs' 20th Century Sporting Club.

Jacobs hopes to sign the German for a bout with Joe Louis next summer and then try to match the winner with champion Jimmy Braddock in the fall.

Personally, Schmeling would prefer to fight Braddock and be done with it. Maxie hasn't shown the slightest inclination to get any nearer Louis than he is now.

The rub is, nobody knows better than Maxie that a Louis fight will outdraw one with Braddock more than two to one, and after all Max is coming over here for money, not the boat ride.

Meanwhile, Senor Paulino Uzcudun and Louis are whaling away at sparring mates in their respective training camps, tuning up for their Dec. 13 engagement in the Garden. Paulino puts his famous chin and offers to bet Louis will not knock him off his feet. No man has done that yet.

Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion, will return to the boxing ring early in January when he'll meet the survivor of a tournament in which Frankie Klicik, Lou Ambers, Bobby Pachio, Leo Rodak and others will compete.

Protest Canada's Participation In Olympic Games

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) MONTREAL, Dec. 4.—Protest against participation of Canada in the 1936 Olympic Games in Germany has been made by the Young Men's Hebrew Association here, it was announced today.

Officials of the Association said they had forwarded a letter of protest to the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada in Halifax last month but the letter was not read to the meeting.

In a letter received from W. A. Fry, of Dunville, Ont., President of the A. A. U. of C., officials of the Y. M. H. A. were told the letter was not read to the resolutions committee to be considered. Mr. Fry said a number of similar protests were also received.

Bubar Not Included In Invitation Extended To Three Former Wolverines

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

HALIFAX, Dec. 4.—Three members of the former Halifax Wolverines, 1935 Allan Cup winners, were invited today by President E. A. Gilroy of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to accompany Port Arthur Bears as Canadian hockey representatives to the Olympic Games in Germany this winter.

Whether or not Captain Ernie Mosher, Chumlie Lawlor and Vince Ferguson would accept the hockey chief's invitation, which asked them to report at Port Arthur not later than Dec. 19, was a matter of conjecture tonight, however.

Ferguson said he would not know until tomorrow night, whether he could make the trip.

President Gilroy's telegram was addressed to Manager J. H. Conn, of the Wolverines. The three players invited were all forwards. No mention was made of goalie Duddy Bubar, only other member of the champion team remaining in Nova Scotia.

Beaton Still Starring As Hawks Continue To Set Pace In English League

Ex-boxing Star Takes Final Count

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) MONTREAL, Dec. 4.—George Rivet, battle-scarred veteran who made a name for himself in the welterweight ranks two decades ago when prize fighting was "semi-legal" in his part of the country, has gone down for the last time.

Georges was game to the last but the odds were too great and he took the final count yesterday from an illness that had wracked his big frame, so familiar to Montrealers in the vicinity of Bonaventure station. It was there he directed traffic for years as a member of Montreal police force which he joined after his active fighting days.

Montreal winters were hard on the genial cop but until his final illness he was always at his corner, just as he was in the days when he faced such opponents as Ted "Kid" Lewis and Jake Ahearn at the height of their careers.

Stories of Rivet's courage that long will outlast him tell how Lewis grew weak and lost power of his arms from attempting to make the big Frenchman remain on the canvas. But Rivet himself led little of his prowess as a fighter in the days of "Gene" Rousseau, Benny Cohen and Amos Russell, Canadians who long have left the ring.

Scene All Set For Olympiads In Snowy Alps

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Dec. 4.—(C. P.)—After two and a half years of activity, these two villages are merged into one town and everything is ready now for the Winter Olympics, Feb. 6-16, at which 29 nations, including Canada, will compete.

"For the first time, the uninterrupted progress of the winter games is guaranteed even when the worst possible weather conditions are taken into account." Dr. Karl Ritter von Halt, president of the committee for the Winter Olympics, said when he announced completion of preparations.

Despite an abundance of lakes nearby, all ideally suited for skating events, an ice stadium which will be the scene for figure skating built in the centre of the Olympic winter resort in the German Alps.

Modern apparatus for manufacture of artificial ice makes the layout "absolutely weather-proof." The rink's surface will be crackless and steady. Neither sun nor rain, tryouts proved, can influence the quality of the ice. The stadium can be illuminated and has seating accommodations for 10,000 spectators. Speed skating competition is scheduled to take place on nearby Riesser Lake.

The Slalom, downhill—and combined run and jump courses, with one small and one big ski jump, are united into a tremendous ski stadium on the Gudi mountain where 30,000 spectators can observe the start as well as the finish of the events. The ski jumps are beside each other with a 90-foot steel tower between. On this tower the Olympic fire will burn during the games. The steep wooden structure of the larger jump is 129 feet high. It is predicted that only "skidders" who jump 240 to 270 feet will have a chance to finish in front. The record is 252 feet.

If a sudden rise in temperature should make progress of the ski competition impossible, the events will take place in the higher mountain region. Some Reichswehr regiments will be held in readiness in case an unexpected change of weather should necessitate new preparations for the jumping competition.

A few years ago the German championships were successfully finished here on a small stretch of snow when the sun suddenly changed winter into spring and the surrounding pastures were covered with flowers. The former footpath has been converted into a first class bob-sled course.

The start is about 920 metres above sea level. The course, which has 15 curves to the left and right, is 1,600 metres long. Several dangerous turns were smoothed out after a few four-seater bobs plunged off the course and nearly into the spectators, but some hair-pin curves, which are upholstered with ice from nearby Riesser lake, may prove dangerous even to expert bobs.

The 11-day program comprises 97 different performances. Garmisch-Partenkirchen, a town of 15,000 inhabitants, expects to be host to 100,000 visitors. Since not more than 9,000 rooms are available in town and only a few thousand more in the nearby villages of Oberammergau and Mittenfelf, the majority of visitors will find shelter in Munich, about 60 miles distant. The railway between Munich and Garmisch-Partenkirchen has been double-tracked and stations have been enlarged to permit the arrival and departure of one train every seven minutes.

A new automobile highway which crosses swamps and runs through tunnels often 100 metres long, is another connection between the "Nazi party's capital" and the winter resort.

Beaton's Wonderful Goal
Two minutes from the start of the second period Stinchcombe finished off a great rush with a fine goal for Streatham.

Ten minutes later Joe Beaton intercepted near his own goal, swerved brilliantly through the whole Streatham team and again brought the scores level—a wonderful goal.

Early in the third period Campbell put Richmond ahead. Streatham, with five forwards, however, made a desperate effort, and four minutes from the end Stapleford snatched the match from the fire while Richmond were a man short.

Campbell, pulled leg muscle. Meland, struggling against the playing handicap of a rib in plaster, and Beaton, a sprained wrist, are to be X-rayed today.

After five minutes' fast play Currie, the other injured man, scored for Richmond, but immediately afterwards Stapleford equalized.

Richmond Hawks put up a wonderful performance in drawing 3-3 with Streatham, the champions, at Richmond last night in one of the most exciting games seen this season.

They were suffering from the strain of five matches in six days. Four of their men played with injuries, and accounted for all the goals!

Can Go Into First Place By Victory

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

MONTREAL MAROONS' string of victories has reached three and if they make it four with a win over New York Americans tonight they will take over leadership of the National Hockey League's Canadian section from the idle Toronto Maple Leafs.

Maroons climbed to within one point of the section-leading Leafs by winning 3-2 from Canadiens Tuesday night and they still have two games on hand to overcome that margin including tonight's game. Unless Americans come out of their scoring slump Maroons should have a margin at the finish.

Two of the lowest scoring teams in the American section meet in the tilt at Detroit where Bruins can make progress by beating the third-place Red Wings, something no other team in the league has accomplished in Detroit this season.

Russ Blinco will be back in the Maroons lineup tonight after a siege of gripe and Happy Emms, Americans' utility man will be in the lineup after a lay-off with knee injury. Americans can tie Canadiens for third place in the division by winning.

BRISBANE, Australia.—(C. P.)—R. O. Cummings, well-known Australian lawn tennis player, has turned professional, with most of his time to be devoted to coaching. He hopes, however, to meet Henri Cochet during the latter's announced tour of Australia.

LONDON.—(C. P.)—Tom Thorne, chairman of Millwall Football Club and a member of the Football Association Council has been elected to succeed the late Claude Kirby as chairman of the professional division of the London Football Association.

GLASGOW.—(C. P.)—The retirement of Ian Young, Scottish sprinter who set up the 100-yard sprint record of his country at 9 4-5 seconds last June, is a big loss to British athletics. Business claims are reported to have caused his definite break with the track.

Lineups:—

May Play For Canadiens
MONTREAL, Dec. 4.—Archie Wilcox, burly defenceman who appeared with Boston Bruins last year and started formerly on Montreal Maroon rearguards, may play with Montreal Canadiens during the rest of the season.
Wiloos, who retired at the end of last season to give his full time to his profitable Carriage business here, donned skates at the National Hockey League club's practice today. Canadiens are short of defencemen as both Irvin Frew and Art Lesieur are out, the former with a broken collarbone and the latter with two broken ribs.
Blinco Out To Practice
MONTREAL, Dec. 4.—Russ Blinco, brilliant centre of the "blue line" of Montreal Maroons, turned out at practice today after missing last night's game with Montreal Canadiens.
Blinco, who has been confined to bed with an attack of the gripe, is expected to see action here tomorrow night in the regular National Hockey League schedule game with New York Americans.
