LARGE MOTH CAPTURED. Last evening a very fine specimen of moth, variety yet unknown, was captured by a Guardian reporter. The moth had a wing spread of six inches, and resembled, when flying, a large bat. The basic color of the wings was brown and black tinted with red and gray.

INVESTIGATION AT KELLY'S CROSS—Acting on information received by the Attorney General and following preliminary investigation by Chief of Police Birtwistle, Coronor Dr. J. C. Houston last evening ordered the exhumation of the body of an infant in the cemetery at Kelly's Cross. An inquest into the cause of death was held immediately afterwards. The evidence of several witnesses was taken. The mother of the child, unmarried, testified that it was born on May 13 at Truro. She had tried unsuccessfully to get it admitted into an orphanage at Halifax. On June 3rd she started to return home with the baby, but it died on the car ferry steamer before reaching Borden. She carried it on her knee for some time on the train and later placed the body in her suitcase. On the following evening after her arrival home, with the assistance of her sister she interred the body in the family plot in the cemetery at Kelly's Cross. The evidence of a brakeman on the Borden train was to the effect that he had seen mother and child on the train between Borden and Albany and that he had heard the child cry when the train was between Albany and Kinkora. Later he passed through the car, saw the woman alone and asked what had become of the baby, she told him it was in her suitcase. He asked her if it would not smother there. She said she did not think so. She then took the baby out and held it on her knee. The woman left the train at Bradabane, carrying the baby, witness helping her with the suitcase into the waiting room of the station. While he was positive that the baby was alive after the train left Borden, witness could not swear it was living when the woman got off the train. It might have died in her arms. She was travelling alone in the railway carriage at the time. The inquest was adjourned until this evening. A post mortem on the body of the infant will be made this morning in Charlottetown. Assisting Coroner Houston at the exhumation and subsequent investigation were Dr. Murchison, Clyde River, Chief of Police Birtwistle, Police Officer Biggar, Mr. Silver DesRoche, acting Attorney General, and Undertaker Frank Hennessey.

CANADIANS IN CALIFORNIA

(In the Oakland Maple Leaf)
Heber Balderson, a son of the Hon. John Balderson, speaker of the Lower House, in Charlottetown, P. E. I., is among the elite in Los Angeles. He is a native of North Wilshire, P. E. I. His brother, A. B. Balderson and the latter's wife were guests of Heber Balderson a year ago.

I was pleasantly entertained when I called on Mrs. John Aeneas MacDonald of Oakland, who is a trained nurse by profession. She is a graduate of Providence Hospital in Oakland. Her husband is a native of Rocka Barra, P. E. I. Mrs. MacDonald shuns publicity, but she invited me to a cup of tea, and the honor and the pleasure are worthy of mention. She makes most excellent tea, and I enjoyed the company of a talented woman.

A woman of fine personality I met in Oakland is Mrs. Sarah MacDonald who hails from Charlottetown, P. E. I. Her maiden name was Sarah Jane Stewart. She went to live in Boston when she was in her teens, and was married there. She is a widow of 38 years. Her only daughter, who lives with her in Oakland, is Mrs. E. E. Kelley. They are nine years in California and live with every modern comfort. Mrs. MacDonald has a youthful appearance for her years.

A popular resident of Fernley, Nevada, is D. H. Bruce, who hails from Picton, N. S.

Rev. Fred Bradshaw, a native of Summerside, P. E. I., and Mrs. Bradshaw have just returned from Chengtu, West China, where they were engaged in missionary work the past 50 years. Mrs. Bradshaw is a native of Halifax Co., N. S., and a graduate of Dalhousie Medical College. Her maiden name was Martha Phelps. She was a medical missionary in China.

I had a pleasant visit when I called on Mrs. Lida M. Miller, who hails from Charlottetown, P. E. I. She is a daughter of the well known Wallace Scantlebury, who was for many years the agent in Charlottetown of the Island Railroad. Her mother was the late Lida Metherell, who immigrated to Vancouver, B. C., thirty years ago. Although Mrs. Miller was but eleven years of age when she left the Island, one is impressed with her affableness and hospitality. One sees in her the absence of formalities or stiffness, and a caller is made to feel at home at once. Mrs. Miller and two of her children visited the Island 16 years ago. Sydney B. Miller, her husband, is a native of Toronto, and is one of a family of six boys. Two of his brothers were overseas during the war. Mr. and Mrs. Miller were married in Vancouver, B. C. Her three children, two sons and a daughter, were born in Toronto. They are Marjorie, Jim and Dick. They are a most happy family. The Millers own a splendid modern home among the elite of Oakland. Sydney B. Miller is connected with the American Thread Co. Mrs. Miller was for years secretary of the Maple Leaf Society in Oakland.

Has Attractions For The Tourist

MONTREAL, June 24.—British Guiana is convinced that it offers a great deal to the tourist and we are increasing efforts to make ourselves known, said Andrew Grant, chief mechanical engineer of the Colonial Transport Department of the colony, who is now in Montreal. We are greatly encouraged by the fact that the three beautiful Canadian steamers, the Lady Drake, the Lady Nelson and the Lady Hawkins pay regular visits to Georgetown. They link us with Canada and we are very anxious to cultivate the connection. Mr. Grant spoke of the tours organized by his department of the government for the benefit of visitors to British Guiana. They included trips through sugar plantations and rice fields to Bracticks, the mining town on the Essequibo, the jumping off place for the diamond fields, to the old Dutch seat of government, Fort Island, to the Indian camps of the Arrawak and the Akawois and to such scenic spots as the Barra Barra waterfall. With the exception of two short lines, which carry timber and bauxite ore for private enterprises and transport diamonds and gold-seekers in some districts the railways of the colony, Mr. Grant explained, are owned by the government which also operates a fleet of ten steamers. British Guiana possesses the first railway constructed on the South American continent. The country comprises 90,000 square miles and has enormous undeveloped wealth in timber, bauxite, diamonds, gold and other precious metals while large areas are eminently suitable for cattle rearing, Mr. Grant added.

CANADIANS INVITED TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

TORONTO, Ont., June 24.—(By The Canadian Press)—While Canada is coming into the forefront among the nations, women who definitely represent their country are too often conspicuously absent from large international and semi-international gatherings, says Bride Broder in The Mail and Empire. The great rural women's conference last year was a rather unfortunate example of this sort of mistake. True, there were Canadians there but they happened to be women who were traveling in the Old Country and were asked to name themselves as the official Canadian delegation. That they were not spokeswomen for the rural woman's point of view at the conference, because they were not rural women, and that they did not bring back to our rural women, a direct message to our rural women, made the representation a mere form, a mere farce. Now there comes a request from Mrs. F. M. Swanzey, chairman of the second Pan-Pacific women's conference, asking that a delegation of 26 Canadian women be brought together to attend the conference, which is to take place in Honolulu, in August. Each country is asked to send a similar number, and these are to be divided into five groups—education, government, health, women in industry and the professions, and social service. Canada was not represented at the first conference, though New Zealand and Australia, as well as China and Japan, Samoa and Fiji sent delegates. The Pan-Pacific Union, under whose auspices the conference is being held, will be hostesses to the delegates for the fortnight of the sessions. It seems to us that the Dominion Government, never backward in allocating expense money, if its own ends are to be served, might consider our country's representation at such a conference of enough value to warrant an appropriation.

LOYALISTS HONOURED IN MARITIME GUIDE

FREDERICTON, N. B., June 24.—(By The Canadian Press)—Dedicated to "the memory of the pioneer explorers, traders and adventurers who made this province known and to the Loyalist settlers who developed it," a new Historical Guide published by the New Brunswick Government traces the Maritime tradition as far back as the French colony of Acadia, three hundred and fifty years ago. The new book deals with the Indian period, the French period, and the English period. The last is divided into three sections, including the province as part of Nova Scotia, the coming of the Loyalists, and the establishment of New Brunswick as a separate province in 1784. Today the chief interest of the story and the illustrations is for the tourist who finds himself at a point of historic importance almost anywhere in the province. Pictures of the Champlain monument at Saint John, and the old Government House at Fredericton, adorn the cover with a freeze depicting the landing of the Loyalists in bright colours, while typical antiquities, such as those much sought after by tourists, are in decorative drawings made from original articles which show them in authentic form. Among the new pictures of interest is a full-page illustration showing Fort Beauséjour—now a National Park—and another is the new form of memorial erected at the site of Fort Jersey by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada during the past year. Another new illustration shows the old willow tree at Nicholas Don's habitation, and the grave at Ferguson's Point, Bathurst Harbour. The University of New Brunswick, Fredericton, is shown as it appeared when it was King's College in 1829. An illustration of special interest to American tourists gives the Royal Coat of Arms of the British Hanoverian Dynasty, which before Revolutionary days occupied a place in the City Council Chamber of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay. It is believed to date back to early in the reign of King George I, the first Hanoverian, who became King in 1714. Many strangers at Saint John make a point of visiting Trinity Church to see this historic Coat of Arms. The new book also shows the old graveyard at Fort Moncton, and a map of the Eagle's Nest on the Saint John River, a short distance above Bollois Bay, and a picture of Fort Howe, Saint John in 1781, from a sketch by Benjamin Morston. The Coat of Arms of the Province of New Brunswick which appears in this Guide is certified to be correct in every detail. Other illustrations depict Champlain's plan of the settlement on the Isle de Sainte Croix, historical maps of the vicinity of Fredericton, and of Restigouche, sketches showing the site of Fort Jersey and Fort La Tour and the location of the old Hazen House at Saint John, old Fort Meductic, the site of Gyles Spring, mapped to the old French Solomeries, Champlain's map of the Saint John River, and pictures of figures who have played a leading part in the history of the province.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 23.—The Nova Scotian, the New Canadian National Railways hotel at Halifax was opened to visitors today and will be opened for guests tomorrow. The first public function in the magnificent hotel will be held under the auspices of the John Stewart and Evangeline chapter I. O. O. E. on June 24th when bridge starting at three o'clock in the afternoon will be followed by a dinner dance. Opening to late opening the Canadian National Railways are anxious to get down to business and accommodate some of the hundreds of tourists who have been applying for service at the new hotel. Therefore no formal opening will be held. Those who have not been expecting a formal opening will not be disappointed, however, said Walter Pratt, general manager of the Hotels Department, Canadian National Railways, as he stood off and viewed the buildings with evident satisfaction. We promise them a bargy up celebration at Christmas and New Years. Details of that will be announced later. In the meantime the bridge and dinner dance on Tuesday promise to be pleasant functions. Mr. Pratt who was in Halifax for several days last week with A. S. MacLean, Superintendent of Canadian National Railways Hotels has left for Montreal. He is to meet Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways at Jasper Park Lodge. Accompanied by other officials they will proceed to Vancouver where another fine hotel is to be added to their chain this summer. THE MARKETS

OTTAWA, Ont., June 24.—No changes of any importance are reported from any Canadian egg markets today. Toronto—Egg receipts on this market are declining and trading is still dull. Prices are unchanged. Montreal—Egg receipts here yesterday were 2,503 cases as compared to 3,015 cases on the corresponding day last year. The market is unchanged at extras 27 to 30, firsts is quiet with demand slow. Quotations to country shippers remain unchanged at extras 27 to 30, firsts 23 to 26, seconds 19 to 20. Shipments of live fowl and broilers are increasing. Broilers return producers 16 to 20 cents per pound live weight and fowl 15 to 18 cents. Halifax—Local receipts are falling off and as there were no arrivals from outside points over the week end an early advance in jobbing prices is possible. The poultry market is quiet with a few broilers coming forward. There is very little demand for these and receipts so far are being placed into storage. Dealers are paying 16 to 18 cents per pound live weight for broilers but the market is low due to the heavy carry over from the last season. There is a fair demand for fowl with dealers paying 16 to 18 cents per pound live weight delivered. Chic ago spot unchanged, November 27%.
