WET FALL IS PROSPECT—Prince Edward Islanders can get out their raincoats and rubber boots and prepare for a "wet fall" judging from the amount of rainfall in this Province to date this year. Records at the Charlottetown Experimental Station reveal the total precipitation to date to be 23.70 inches, slightly below last year which in turn was a below average year for the first eight months. The average precipitation for the Province for a year is slightly in excess of 40 inches. Last year an unusually wet October saw more than eight inches of rain fall and by the time the year ended the amount was normal. Weather observers predict a wet autumn as nature balances the rainfall sheet for the year. The temperature remains fairly low in this Province, and continues to retard the development of certain crops, especially potatoes. Average temperature for the month is 68 degrees. This year to date it has been 65 degrees.

ISLANDERS ABROAD—Among the many tourists who have this summer visited Prince Edward Island are Mr. Geoffrey King of Newport, R. I., and Mr. Peter King of Brockton, Mass., who for the past week have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alex T. MacDonald of Souris East. The Messrs. King are brothers of Mrs. MacDonald and their home was formerly at Souris West. It is 42 years since Mr. Geoffrey King left the island and 32 years since his brother Peter left to make his home in U. S. A. Both men were loud in their praise of the island of their birth and greatly enjoyed their visit here, hoping to return again next year. Geoffrey King for some years before leaving P. E. I. worked with the Portland Packing Co. at Sea Cow Pond near Tignish and has many friends in the western part of the Province. He is now engaged in real estate and insurance business at Newport, while Peter King, who is a World War veteran, having served two years in France, has retired from business. Their friends are always happy to welcome successful Islanders from abroad and look forward to meeting these men on their next visit here.

All of their nine children with their husbands, wives and children met with them, thus making a complete family party. The beautiful August afternoon passed much too quickly for all the enjoyments and many happy group pictures were taken as souvenirs of the occasion. Late in the afternoon a bountiful chicken supper was served on the lawn and after Mr. and Mrs. Newson looked around at their family they saw the fulfillment of the Psalmist's words: "Yes, thou shalt see thy children and thy children's children." As the evening shadows darkened into night, the different members of the family departed with the wish that all might be spared to meet again next year in a happy, peaceful world.

Carry On News And Views

While it is true that in modern warfare with its terrific weapons of destruction, with every conceivable device for annihilating the armies that the mind of man, and the devilish ingenuity of scientists can conceive, that the man-power of a nation can be quickly and ruthlessly reduced, it is equally true that the great humanitarianism of the world have been keenly alert to the discovery and application of scientific means for the preservation of life.

When Florence Nightingale, whom the soldiers lovingly called "The Lady with the Lamp," threw her lovely body and gracious personality into the labor of nursing the troops during the Crimean War of 1854 she found a heart-breaking condition. No sanitary appliances with which to work, no hospitals as we know them today, nothing but crude instruments, inefficient and untrained nurses. The result was that thousands of lives which had been saved, were lost. Florence Nightingale appealed to the nations of the world for a humane treatment of the wounded. So energetic and insistent was she that at the Geneva Convention of 1863, the first International Red Cross Society was formed. In all wars since that time it has made an incalculable contribution to the well being of the fighting forces.

Urges Voluntary Registration For All Women

The following appeal was made last night by Mrs. Augustine MacDonald on behalf of the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women: It is difficult for us in this peaceful time to realize that our country is at war, and the grave seriousness of the situation that today confronts our Empire. Every available resource must be utilized and with this idea in view, the Voluntary Registration of our Canadian women was organized.

The name, the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women, is a true description of the organization and its objects. In drafting the forms access was had to the various registration blanks, which had been used by the British women, those used by men and women in Canada in 1918, and those used in Australia for both the Compulsory Registration and the Women's Voluntary Registration.

It is perhaps worthy of note that more than fourteen months ago the committee visualized such a situation as today prevails in Great Britain. They discussed and provided for the possibility of a German invasion of Great Britain and the desirability, in such an event, of bringing British children to this country. Through this discussion and questionnaire, 160,000 suitable Canadian homes were immediately made available for refugee children. This service alone, which the voluntary Registration of Canadian Women has accomplished, is a valuable contribution to Canada's war effort, but it is only one field of endeavor. The Voluntary Registration goes deep into the activities of Canadian women, and reveals amazing resources that will be of great value to our country if and when we may be called upon to defend it.

Every one has something to give, and let no one think it is too humble to offer. Miss Hyndman, in addressing our women a short time ago, told of a woman in Toronto who offered to take three refugee children. Apparently her qualifications were just those of ordinary house-keeping until, at the very bottom of the registration sheet, they discovered that she was a blood donor of the rarest and most valuable type known to medical science. What that woman had to give, no money could buy. It was precious. With this in mind, may I urge you to come to the Registration Centre on September 2nd and 3rd. Give your services whole-heartedly in a mighty effort to ease the evil that is overshadowing us.

Young and old, big and small, rich and poor, let us unite in a spirit of patriotism that will be as a mighty Cross ambulance to make our brave boys more comfortable. It will make you feel better.
