SPOKE AT OPENING—Due to an error in copy the speech delivered by Hon. John A. MacDonald at the opening of the Exhibition on Monday night did not appear under his name. Hon. Mr. MacDonald as a speaker from King's County after congratulating the board of directors of the Fair on the excellence of the exhibits and the promised success of the venture, stated that it would pay Prince Edward Island farmers to put on the markets of the world articles of the standard set at the Exhibition. He cited the case of Island potatoes which always commanded the highest price on any market. The exhibition was valuable in the raising of the standard of grading. There need be no waste in produce which went below the standard, as such produce could be utilized in the form of feeds.

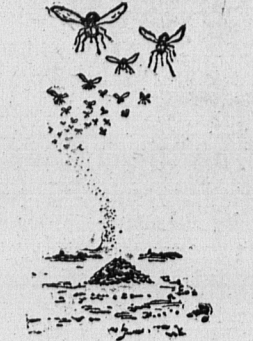

THE BAPTIST CHURCH—Large congregations were in attendance morning and evening, hearing two ably prepared and presented sermons by the Rev. A. K. Herman, of Highfield Street Baptist Church, Moncton, N. B. The subject of the morning sermon was "The Second Coming", setting forth this, one of the cardinal doctrines of the Church in a closely reasoned and carefully documented address. The music of the morning included two fine selections by the Summerside Male Quartette, who made their initial appearance in Charlottetown on this occasion. Their harmonious and well blended voices gave excellent expression to "Remember me, O Mighty One" and "Tell someone about Jesus." Mrs. W. E. Fletcher, formerly of this City and always an appreciated visitor to the Baptist Choir, sang in fine voice "He wipes the tear from every eye." The evening sermon on "Another Chance" was much appreciated by the large congregation. Music again was assisted by the Summerside Male Quartette, with Mr. George Bonness as soloist. The morning service was broadcast by station C. H. C. K. and thus made available to a great audience on the air through the Province and in many portions of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

FOR FILM UPLIFT
YORK, England, Aug. 22.—(C. P.)—To inform the public about films which should be seen to circulate a "white list" not a "black list"—is aimed at by a new organization called the National Film Institute. The idea is to ensure a more important place being given to cultural and educational subjects in the cinema, but it is stated not to be the intention to foster improvement or uplift upon anybody.

The Archbishop of York, Dr. William Temple, who presided at the formation of the Institute, said it must be recognized that society was much happier and better from the existence of films. Apart from any changes they might hope to bring about, the films were, in the main, definitely a beneficial influence. It would be an entirely false move to try to secure that all films should be instructional rather than entertaining. He was sure the public was ready for more intelligent material than was commonly provided. Such films were only offered because they achieved quicker returns and that was why the public should support those who were making an attempt at a genuine public service which would be far-reaching.

The Late Blight Tomato Disease

(Experimental Farms Note)
During the late summer of 1932 late blight of tomatoes, which had never before been considered of great importance in the Maritime Provinces, was particularly troublesome along the Atlantic seaboard. It is the same disease which causes the destruction of potato plants and tubers.

All parts of the tomato plant are attacked by the late blight disease, infected plants developing large, dark, water-soaked spots on the leaves and canker-like lesions on the stems. Under favourable conditions (cool, moist, weather) these injuries spread, causing the plants to turn black and die. The tomato fruits are also attacked by this disease, appearing as a firm brownish-green rather blotchy decay, most commonly originating at the stem-end and spreading to involve the entire fruit which eventually rots.

Late blight is caused by the fungus, Phytophthora infestans. It grows inside the affected plant and spreads in the field by means of spores which may be seen in vast numbers on the lower surface of the diseased leaves.

Prevention of this disease is made possible by early and thorough spraying with ordinary Bordeaux mixture, using the 4-4-40 formula. Tomatoes gathered from infested areas should be held in a dry shed for several days when all infected tomatoes will be easily detected and discarded.—R. R. Hurst, Dominion Field Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Charlottetown, P.E.I.

Canadian Business Steadily Increasing

(Special to the Guardian)
MONCTON, N. B., Aug. 21.—Returning from a business trip which took him to the Canadian West, F. J. Cornell, Traffic Manager of the Halifax Harbor Commission, stated he was strongly convinced from his observations that there has been a steady improvement in business throughout Canada when interviewed while passing through Moncton today on the Ocean Limited of the Canadian National Railways, en route to Halifax.

There will be, undoubtedly a short wheat crop this year in the west, Mr. Cornell said, but this should be beneficial in way of price in view of shortages elsewhere and the fairly large carry-over from last year's Canadian crop.

Mr. Cornell looks forward to a busy winter season for the port of Halifax based upon the improved economic outlook.

To Erect Cairn

INSCRIPTION FOR TABLE ON CAIRN TO BE ERECTED ON ROADSIDE NEAR OLD SALAMANCA CEMETERY, FREDERICTON, NEW BRUNSWICK.

"That ye may tell it to the generations following."
To commemorate the loyalty, faith, courage, sacrifices and achievements of early settlers who established this City of Fredericton, a grateful posterity has erected this cairn.

It was unveiled on October 8, 1933, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the arrival in this community of a company of United Empire Loyalists, some of whom are buried in the nearby cemetery, having died from the effects of cold and privation suffered during their first winter here.

Sea Gulls Save Crop of Farmer

MITCHELLTOWN, Sask., Aug. 22.—When the early Mormon settlers in Utah faced starvation from destruction of their crops by crickets and grasshoppers in 1848, gulls from Salt Lake came and saved them by eating the insects. The Mormons erected a now-famous statue to the seagull. This year, 10,000 sea gulls from Lake Johnstown, in Southern Saskatchewan, performed the same service for a farmer here.

The Indians also ate the grasshoppers, according to the record of one of the Mormon elders. He writes: "The first company of savages who visited the pioneer camp emptied out of their sacks bushels of dried grasshoppers on which they made their supper."

The speaker was engaged in that easy task of attacking the government, when a heckler cried out: "You're wrong, sir!"

A little nettled, the speaker continued. Presently, in answer to another strong assertion, came again the shout: "You're wrong, sir!"

When the persistent interrupter spoke out for the fourth time, the speaker shouted back: "Look here, I could tell you something about the Government that would make your hair stand on end!"

"You're wrong again, sir!" came from the critic, as amid roars of laughter he took off his hat and displayed a shiny pate.
