The developments galvanized official sources into expectancy of an imminent war-like declaration by Italy.

First, it was disclosed Premier Mussolini held his first long-distance telephone conversation with High Commissioner de Bono of Eritrea and Italian Somaliland on Saturday night—immediately following the departure of 8,000 Blackshirts, including Il Duce's two sons.

British And Canadian Air Pictures Shown At S'side

Some very fine pictures demonstrating the activities of the Imperial Airways of Great Britain were shown at the Capitol Theatre on Sunday evening.

These pictures and the motion picture "Contact" which was also shown gave a splendid idea of the growth of air travel in the last twenty-five years.

The pictures were brought to Summerside through the efforts of the Prince Edward Island Aero Club. They have been assembled by the Imperial Airways of Great Britain and the Times of London and were brought to Canada by the National Council of Education.

They were augmented by Canadian air pictures. Mr. B. W. Robinson very capably presided and introduced Mr. Walter Fowler, who gave a short description of the progress of air travel in Canada and Prince Edward Island.

Mr. A. R. Brennan, President of the Prince Edward Island Aero Club described each scene as it was flashed on the screen.

Mayor Lidstone and Dr. E. T. Tanton were on the platform and spoke briefly on the advantage of air travel.

Mr. Robinson at the close expressed the appreciation of the Aero Club to Mr. Gaudet, proprietor of the Theatre for placing the theatre, the staff and equipment at their disposal absolutely free.

Mr. Fowler outlined the activities of the Canadian Airways, stressing particularly the usefulness of air craft to reach points in the extreme northern parts of Canada.

The aeroplane plays no small part in carrying the mails, speeding up transportation in times of illness and shortening hours of travel between far flung points. It also assists in fisheries control and in survey work.

He also referred to the great strides made in air transportation on Prince Edward Island since 1919 when the first aeroplane landed at Point Prim.

Now there are two licensed airports with an all round service for passengers and mails. The pictures shown were most interesting particularly those of the Croyden aerodrome near London, England, which controls the airships of the Imperial Airways as they fly to all parts of the British Empire.

Besides the pictures shown at the theatre, a beautiful collection of pictures are on display all this week in Holman's Picture Gallery. This exhibit has been on display in all the large cities of Canada and is of great educational value; and has brought many favourable comments. Everyone should make an effort to see the pictures.—S

The press gave itself over almost entirely to a description of the military manoeuvres at Bolzano, recalling that several divisions destined for East African service were in the "front" of the hostilities.

The steamship Nazaria Sauro sailing for East Africa from Naples, bearing 1,145 Blackshirts and 80 officers. The steamship Itria, bought recently by the Italian government to carry airplanes to its colonies, was equipped with loading machines of the latest type for an early departure.

Costanzo Ciano, son-in-law of Count Ciano, Mussolini's father-in-law, dispatched a telegram to Il Duce asking that he be recalled for service with the Italian fleet, of which he is an auxiliary admiral.

Ciano, former minister of communications and president of the Chamber of Deputies, was joined in his appeal by Luigi Rizzi, noted Italian author, and Genaro Pagano, who bears the gold medal of the kingdom for his part under fire. The three men said they wished to be restored to active posts.

Balbo in Paris
PARIS, Aug. 26.—(C. P. Havas)—The unannounced arrival of Marshal Italo Balbo, Italy's leading aviation expert and colonial governor, tonight transferred rumors in Paris that important diplomatic moves may be under way among the powers in a last effort to stave off an Italo-Ethiopian war.

French government quarters denied any significance to Marshal Balbo's sudden arrival from Rome. Balbo himself stated simply that he was here to return the visit made to Italy recently by Gen. Victor Denain, French Air Minister.

Balbo maintained his journey was "strictly private." He said he would return to Rome tomorrow. He said he would see no one officially while in Paris.

But rumors persisted that Balbo, who as governor of Libya is a colonial authority as well as being an air expert, might be here as Premier Benito Mussolini's emissary.

The League of Nations special arbitration commission which is investigating the origins of the Usual border dispute transferred its activities from Bern to this city today. The Italian and Ethiopian inquiries into the Usual border dispute were pursued independently. Formal deliberations of the commission as a whole will be resumed tomorrow. An informed observer said no progress toward determining which was the aggressor in the Usual clash had been made at Bern.

It appeared probable that the body would be forced to call upon the services of Nicolas Politis, fifth and neutral arbitrator, if it was to reach a decision prior to convocation of the League Council in Geneva a week from Wednesday.

League Delegates Meet
OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—(C.P.)—Cabinet council met today to talk over League of Nations affairs preparatory to instructing the delegation which will represent the Dominion at the League council opening in Geneva early next month.

J. H. Woods, Calgary editor and business man who will head the Canadian delegation, was in Ottawa today and will confer with Prime Minister Bennett tomorrow. Miss Winnifred Kydd, Dean of Women at Queen's University, Kingston, who will accompany Mr. Woods to Geneva, was also in Ottawa, and Professor Edouard Montpetit, of the University of Montreal, third member of the delegation, was expected here tomorrow.

INTERESTING FIELD DAY AT NEW LONDON

The beautiful farm of Wm. E. Johnson, New London was the scene of an interesting field day on Monday, with a very large attendance.

The field day was in charge of Mr. R. C. Parent, Supervisor.

The most outstanding feature of the day was the horse demonstration by Dr. J. A. Sinclair, one of the outstanding judges of horses in the Dominion of Canada.

Dr. Sinclair gave a very interesting talk on the most important points to look for when selecting a mare for breeding. He stressed soundness and good conformation as the most important. He said, there was good demand for draft horses, but not too heavy. Breed horses, not any breed, but breed their good.

Mr. Walter Shaw, Deputy Minister of Agriculture also addressed the gathering and spoke chiefly on soil cultivation, to get the best results and biggest crops.

Looking over this beautiful 170 acre farm with its splendid crops of his crops by proper fertilizers, depression or such a thing as poor farms, but there are and it is the aim of the Department to help the poor farmer. The most important thing the farmer must do is to get right down to fundamentals on the land and increase the value of his crops by proper fertilizers. Lime is very essential to many crops, clover, alfalfa and other feeds.

The farmer should investigate new crops so that he can be in a better position to feed his livestock at less cost. New crops being tried are peas, oats and vetches. Building up the soil is the most necessary thing to produce the crops. The development of the Island's farming industry is bound up in livestock and to have good livestock you must have good crops. In these things are long after any good breeding followed the general improvement of the farm must naturally follow.

Mr. Lecheur, Dominion Seed Inspector, from Sackville, N. B., gave an interesting talk on the growing of clover and timothy for seed. Seed this year would be good price and it would be well for farmers to let their second crop grow to seed. Canadian farmers have been encouraged to grow more Timothy seed since a duty had been placed on American seed. He said the Island farmers had very good samples of Timothy.

There was a splendid demonstration of forage crops, which were described by Mr. D. C. Schurman of the Experimental Farm. The experiment in Soy Beans appears to create the most interest. The forage crops were all new varieties which are proving successful for green and winter feed.

Mr. Bruce MacLaren gave a demonstration on treating seed for smut.

Another experiment was that of brown heart in turnips. In this experiment various chemicals, chitin Borax, are tried out.

Mr. Parent spoke on the raising of young chicks by the brooder method.

Mr. Derrick, oat specialist C. E. F., Ottawa gave an interesting demonstration on oats, using samples grown from seed collected from the city sun farmers in the vicinity of the station.

Mr. Derrick pointed out the differences between the main varieties and stressed the need of greater care in the control of smut.

Many compliments were passed on Mr. Johnston's "Buerney" herd, which was viewed in a nearby paddock. Mr. Johnston has recently acquired the junior champion of the English and Roderick M'Neil, of the power Czechoslovakian.

Allison and Van Ryn were steadiest persons in the game. Budge and Mary, who had to play almost impossible tennis to square the match after dropping the first two sets. Both teams elected to wage an aggressive attack from the net, and it was not until the fifth set that the youngsters were forced to retreat under a barrage of baffling lobs and savage cross-court fire.

Although Aberhart has been turning the province for several months, preaching his doctrine of social credit, many details have not been worked out. His basic dividends will be paid to bona fide residents of Alberta but he has not decided how long a man must live here before he would become eligible. He expects it will be months before he can present any detailed plan on his many-sided scheme which involves not only the dividends and their recovery but automatic price control.

One of the men who will advise Aberhart on details of his scheme will be Major C. H. Douglas, the Scottish engineer who evolved the basic theories of social credit.

Several months ago he was appointed financial adviser to the Alberta government and, while now in England, is expected to return here in a few weeks.

The Aberhart system of social credit is not orthodox Douglas but it is founded on the same philosophy—that every citizen should share in the national wealth created by himself and his neighbors. And also that credit has become dried up under the present financial system and must be released in the form of purchasing power or dividends.

IN MEMORIAM

OLIVE ADA SWAN
The home of James and Etta Swan was saddened on Friday, Aug. 16 when the Angel of Death entered and claimed as his own their dearly beloved daughter Olive Ada at the early age of 19 years and three months.

Ada had been in ill health for the past six months, during that time two operations had been performed in the P.E.I. Hospital with the hope that it would restore her to health.

She rallied from the operations and after some time was able to return home and hopes for her recovery was ascertained by her parents and friends, but the nature of the malady was such that recovery was impossible and despite all medical skill her gentle spirit winged its flight to her Lord and Creator. There are left to mourn a heart-broken mother and father, two sisters and two brothers, Charles, Pearl, Mrs. George Dalziel and James.

The funeral took place on Sunday, Aug. 18, from her parents residence and was very largely attended. The house and grave were conducted by Rev. Mr. Barber of Trinity United Church. Miss Marguerite Cudmore sang very softly "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." The spiritual and floral offerings were as follows:

Veterans Upset Dope To Win Doubles Title
(A.P. by Guardian's Special Wire)
BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 26.—(A.P.)—The thousands of unofficial members of the State Cup selections committee, who had decided Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn were a bit too old for international play, were pulled up short today when these veterans gained their second national doubles championship by defeating the youngsters generally favored as the successors.

For the second time since the Davis Cup disaster before England's brigade, Allison and Van Ryn engaged their young team-mates from California, Don Budge and Gene Mako, and for the second time the oldsters gained a five-set victory by scores of 6-4, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4, 6-1. The internationalists blasted away at each other for almost two hours.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline combined with Enrique Maier of Spain for a 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 mixed doubles victory over Kay Stammers of England and Roderick M'Neil, of the power Czechoslovakian.

Allison and Van Ryn were steadier persons in the game. Budge and Mary, who had to play almost impossible tennis to square the match after dropping the first two sets. Both teams elected to wage an aggressive attack from the net, and it was not until the fifth set that the youngsters were forced to retreat under a barrage of baffling lobs and savage cross-court fire.

OUTLINE UNITED BAPTIST SCHEME TO CONVENTION END POVERTY IS OPENED

"If they do not adopt social credit in other provinces, they will be forced to repudiate their debts, they have no other alternative."

Made Study
Three years ago, Aberhart knew no more about social credit than an Eskimo. In that short space of time, he had studied the subject deeply, added theories of his own, found time to organize a party and engaged to a change in outlook. He must not wait till the hand begins to play and then join the song. She must be there moulding the music. The changeless God remains. Men are asking, "what is God?" Jesus is recognized as a longed for Messiah and a talking of Him as never before. We need a great religious experience. That alone will fit us to meet the problems about us. The value of the human soul has not changed. The power in those who stand as the expression of Christ in the life of our age. Christian fellowship abides. The home, though threatened, abides.

Speaking of "the Eternal Christ," Rev. Frank Simons, James, N.B., said, "the Christ of Peter Thiel and the Christ, the Son of the Living God, has grown to have a larger and fuller meaning through the centuries as men have come to have experience with Christ. The Eternal Christ creates in those who accept Him a longing for righteousness and for likeness to Him. He is eternal in the midst of time. He has spoken to men, in creation, in prophecy, in the Incarnate Jesus, and in history. He gives men power to live as He lived. It is for the church to renew her loyalty to Christ."

The basic of the Aberhart scheme is a monthly dividend payment of $25 to every man and woman in Alberta. It will not be in cash but in the form of credit, non-negotiable certificates. Every man will present a pass book to the provincial clearing house every month and he will be credited with the payment. He then could pay his grocer, butcher or landlord who, in turn, would be credited with the amount in his own account in the clearing house in the same way as a bank handles cheques. The grocer or the butcher could issue a non-negotiable certificate of his own, paying his debts, thus circulating the credit.

If the internal credit of Alberta was pumped up to the extent of $10,000,000 monthly without some form of a brake, prices would run sky-high and the whole system collapse. So Aberhart proposes to apply a levy to remove the credit in the same proportion as he issues it and to control prices through a board of experts.

The credit will be withdrawn through a tax which Aberhart calls an unearned increment levy but which, in reality, is the turnover tax. It will be his aim to narrow price spreads through the medium of his levy and to speed up the wheels of industry by increased turnover through the increased purchasing power of the province.

Cites Illustration
To illustrate how the levy will work, a fair price for wheat has been set at 60 cents a bushel. The farmer will receive 55 cents and the government, five cents. The wheat is sold to the miller who nets 40 cents, the government taking 10 cents. The flour then goes to the baker who sells bread at seven cents a loaf, processing 50 loaves, the government taking a cent a loaf. Thus from a bushel of wheat, processed into bread, the government levy would be 65 cents. The same general principle would apply to all products processed or marketed in Alberta.

In his deep-pitched voice, Aberhart today advised eastern manufacturers they had nothing to fear from his financial scheme. They will not be paid in credit certificates but in exactly the same medium as they are today. He will appeal to the federal government to license his clearing houses to sell postage money orders. The debtor would pay for the money order with a credit certificate. When it was cashed, the eastern manufacturer would be credited with the amount and the debt would be transferred to the government, becoming a part of its actual balance of trade.

Under the Aberhart scheme, eastern manufacturers will have another boom. He proposes to make production loans to farmers without interest which he believes will enable them to buy necessary machinery and parts. He then will negotiate with outside manufacturers to lower prices because of the security offered and the extra chances of the farmers paying their debts when not saddled with interest charges.

Details Eskimo
Although Aberhart has been turning the province for several months, preaching his doctrine of social credit, many details have not been worked out. His basic dividends will be paid to bona fide residents of Alberta but he has not decided how long a man must live here before he would become eligible. He expects it will be months before he can present any detailed plan on his many-sided scheme which involves not only the dividends and their recovery but automatic price control.
