DARNLEY NOTES.—Once again the air tingles with the joyous breath of springtime, and the resources of both land and sea are called upon by the assiduous application of willing laborers. The fishermen in this locality report a plentiful catch of lobsters and some large catches are being made. The farmers also are again at work and though late in starting many are near completion.—Mr. Harry Crozier and Frank Campbell drove to the latter's home in Kelly's Cross last week where a very pleasant social evening was spent. The Messrs. Arthur and Melville Bryan, assisted by Gordon Peake and Frank Campbell performed a dental operation recently which would surprise some of our island dentists. They extracted two usks, each five inches long, from a ferocious male animal of the bocon type.—Mrs. George Proffitt and daughter Esther have returned to their home in Darnley after spending the winter in Boston. Captain James Breen is again amongst us after a four months' sojourn at his daughter's home in Boston. Though some years past he bore some mark his humorous and jovial nature has not deserted him and the usual devastation of time failed to leave its mark on his bright and efficient mentality. Great praise is due to the Women's Institute of Darnley for the painstaking way in which they have labored to keep our schools in a clean and healthful condition and the appearance both internally and externally, of this institution of learning is a credit to the district.—Mr. Russel Woodside, student of Dalhousie University has returned to Darnley to spend the holidays with his parents. Russel has proved himself to be a student of no mean ability, having passed successfully examinations in all of the numerous subjects which he studied. We have no news regarding Russel's future, as his past success gives us assurance that in the noble sphere he has chosen, his life will be a successful one. Such intelligence as, coupled with his faithful, patient application, cannot go unrewarded.—Miss Sadie Bryant, Spring Valley, is contemplating finishing her education in Darnley school, and intends starting next week.

AN ADVENTURE.—Three young ladies, romantic in thought and adventurous in spirit, one evening recently, were returning from a pleasant trip of visiting and sight-seeing, amid the delightfully diversified scenery of Irishtown, and were so completely entranced by the magic of the spell which the scene effected, that they lavished more time on the contemplation of the sublimest of nature than on the materially practical and much commonplace matter of the right way home. Permitting the mind to expand as the glories of the scenery multiplied and magnified, they became so enthralled that they unconsciously ascended the most lofty peaks to the eliminations of Irishtown. But so wild, climatic influences have little sympathy for sensitive human nature, so these unfortunates, permitting the romantic to predominate, became helplessly bewildered and were forced to enjoy an excess of contemplation of natural scenery, until kindly Father Sol reared his massive form in the gorgeous east and disclosed to the fair damsels the path to the valley had yet to be trod. But the thrilling experience and heroic endurance will furnish material for romantic composition for pupils. Y.

Popularity in Britain of 106-in. Wheelbase Car

Manchester, England, June 4.—The Overland model that is proving the most popular in the United Kingdom is the one with the 106-inch wheelbase. This is the same size as the Blue Bird model introduced by the Toronto factory of Willys-Overland. The making of Overlands with the extra wheelbase has given a further impetus to Willys-Overland business here.

GULPED CATERPILLAR TO SAVE FAMILY DINNER

DOCTOR COOK, The discredited Arctic explorer, whose wife has so recently secured a divorce from him, tells the following pet story. "Sacrifices," said he, "are always being made. Men, in order to succeed, sacrifice pleasure, their honor, their youth. These sacrifices excite no remarks. But any sacrifice of the stomach arouses wonder and awe. Women have sacrificed, for instance, much to enter society. I've heard of many of their sacrifices and yet there's only one that I remember vividly. A woman newly rich was invited to an aristocratic dinner party. During the course of fowl and salad she noticed with dismay a fat, furry caterpillar on her most loved of lettuce. Glancing up, she met her aristocratic hostess's eye. The hostess, too, had seen the caterpillar. Her gaze implored the guest to save the dinner from catastrophe. The guest gave her hostess a reassuring smile. Then she doubled a lettuce leaf around the caterpillar and calmly swallowed it. The look of awe and gratitude that her hostess gave her was an assurance that her footing in society was at last firmly established. "Do you think," she said to her daughter afterward, "that I'd lose a chance of establishing the family socially for a little thing like a caterpillar?"

ONE'S OWN INTERESTS.

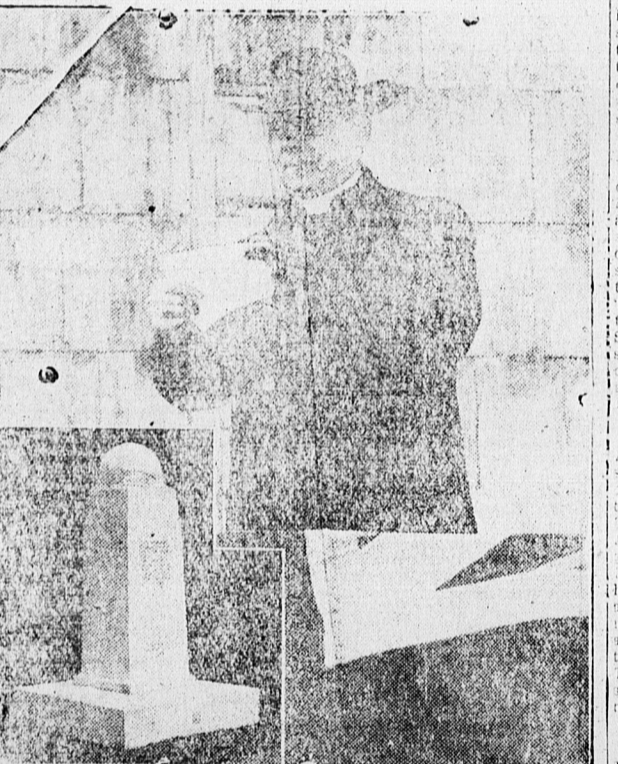

The woman no longer young who is earning her livelihood should make it a point to save a certain portion of her salary weekly, no matter how small it may be. Systematic saving leads to habits of thrift and gives the person dependent upon her own efforts a feeling of security. Furthermore the woman past her first youth will do well to pass by many dress fads of the hour. Fashion is as wavering and as changeable as an April day, and the woman who must toil on alone will assuredly serve her best interests by clinging to quiet, conservative effects.—Exchange.

STORM STOPS HANGING.

An eighteenth century execution on Kensington common was stopped for a time owing to a strange cause. On August 19, 1763, two days before the date of the execution, a heavy fog came over London, accompanied by thunder and lightning and torrents of rain. These conditions lasted for nearly 48 hours, and many people believed that the last day had arrived. When the time fixed for the execution arrived the assembled crowd cried shame on the sheriff for hanging a man when the world was coming to an end. As he persisted in his preparations they burst through the barriers and stopped the proceedings, shouting that the culprit might as well wait a few minutes, when the grand summons would come for all. The sheriff had to obtain the assistance of a force of soldiers before the execution could be carried out.—London Chronicle.

ALL WAS NOT LOST.

"General," cried the orderly, riding up in great excitement, "our left wing is gone." "Then it is no longer possible to fly," replied the general thoughtfully. "However, we should not forget that our legs are left." "Thereupon he led the way.—Boston Transcript.
