Girl Guide News

7TH CHARLOTTETOWN CO.
(Trinity Church)

The meeting on April 5 was an outstanding event in the history of the 7th Company; at that meeting Jean Bevan was presented with her First Class Badge. Congratulations, Jean, from the whole Company.

Mrs. Rowe and Miss Gillan were present at this time and Mrs. Buell, our new Guide, was enrolled.

Twelve Guides were awarded the needlewoman's badge on April 12, when Mrs. McGregor, examiner for this subject visited the Company.

Eleven second class Guides earned the cook's badge by attending the cooking classes in April, and six Guides were granted child nurse badges by Miss Gillan.

Mrs. Buell for the last three weeks has been instructing a group on the requirements of the laundress badge. Mrs. McIntyre, examiner for this badge, will meet with these Guides on Friday, May 12.

Of the three pleasant hikes this spring, the Saturday's was actually the most enjoyable, when at 6 o'clock in the afternoon at Rocky Point.

Is Electrocuted Near Moncton

MONCTON, N. B., May 9—(City News) A young man was the late this afternoon by Stella Taylor, 19, a domestic who had been employed for the last ten days at the farm of Russell Colpitts at Colpitts Settlement, near here.

She was found dead, clasping a wire clothesline, which apparently had broken while she was removing clothes. One of the broken ends was wrapped in a power line. Damp ground on which the girl was standing intensified the shock. Electricity coursed through her body for almost half an hour before the accident was noticed by a farm resident.

Reduce War Risk Insurance Rates

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 9—Lessened likelihood of a European war led the American Institute of Marine Underwriters to reduce war risk insurance rates on commerce between the United States and the United Kingdom and Continental Europe.

The new rate was announced as $7-1-2 cents per $100 value on shipments in both directions. Previously, insurance on export shipments had been at the rate of 50 cents; imports $7-1-2 cents. War risk insurance was simultaneously reduced on shipments to and from all parts of the world with the exception of South America, which already enjoyed low rates. Similar cuts were announced yesterday in London.

A very interesting and instructive lecture on Shakespeare was delivered Monday evening in Trinity Social Hall by Dr. Frank P. Day of Sackville, under the auspices of the Mount Allison Alumni. Dr. Day, a retired resident of Union College, Schenectady, and now an active worker among the Mount Allison Alumni, was introduced by Mr. C. H. Black, who outlined briefly the career of this outstanding scholar and lecturer. At the conclusion of the address Dr. Day was heartily applauded, and a motion of thanks, moved by Dr. G. D. Steel and seconded by Prof. Howard Court, was tendered the speaker.

PORT CONDITIONS UNFAVORABLE

The S.S. Songdal, Norwegian freighter was discharging a part cargo of fertilizer from Amsterdam near yesterday. The vessel was getting underway at the portion of her load at Souris and Georgetown. The ship was moored at the Railway Wharf and it was said that owing to a mud bank behind the wharf, the steamer could not get immediately alongside the wharf. Consequently short extension platforms had to be built to enable the cargo to be unloaded. Shippers said it was conditions such as those which made it impossible to send their vessels here and was resulting in more and more of the former trade of this port being transferred to other centres in the province.

Tignish Meeting

received in stony silence. Citing bond borrowing figures at tedious length, the Premier was interrupted by the audience and told to "give us something we will understand."

His previous claim that the Government spent $607,000 last year on public welfare was amended by the Premier to include gasoline rebates and other items, not legitimately falling into this category.

MR. GEORGE MATTHEWS

"Premier Campbell is solicitous about the people who are not able to sit down in this audience," said Mr. George Matthews. "Was he as solicitous about your welfare when he dissolved the Legislature so hastily and made you travel to-night through all the muddy roads?"

He shouted the audience, and applauded lustily.

"I was very much surprised," said Mr. Matthews, "at the speech of Mr. Campbell, because he has been Premier of this Province for nearly four years, and he has conducted the affairs of the country in a pretty high-handed manner. You know that as well as I do."

Voices: "Sure!"

"Why did he devote all his time to the Conservative platform and a lot of technicalities about roads?" asked Mr. Matthews. "Why didn't he review his own record and pledges?" Did he tell you about Falconwood Hospital?" (Applause.) Mr. Campbell seemed to deny it, in a herring across his trail somewhere.

MR. MATTHEWS THEN DEALT WITH SOME OF THE BROKEN PLANKS IN THE 1935 LIBERAL PLATFORM.

He stated that they were within $90,000 of being their budget," he continued. "I am here to say that it didn't come within a million and a quarter dollars of balancing his budget." (Loud applause.)

Official Matthews charged, instead of being reduced had been increased under the Campbell Government. The Prohibition Commission had been abolished but Mr. Campbell increased his own salary by $500.

"And he has no more work to do in connection with the Prohibition Act, as Attorney General, than the former Attorney General had," the Conservative candidate declared.

Reference was also made to B. W. LePage drawing an extra $1,000 as president of the Executive Council, $200 as Treasury Board member, $272 as expenses in connection with the Fishermen's Loan Board, some $1,500 for his Coronation trip and other items.

Reference was also made to salaries drawn illegally by Messrs. Trainor, Acorn and Aeneas Gallant in connection with the Agricultural Department. Mr. Matthews referred to the opening of a new office at O'Leary to give employment to a man "who would probably starve to death if he was given a farm, because he couldn't grow buckwheat." (Loud applause.)

He also cited, amid further applause, the increased number of road engineers appointed by the Campbell Government, and the discrepancies between the Government's appeal to the electors in 1935 and the statements contained in their brief before the Rowell Commission.

MR. AENEAS GALLANT

Mr. Gallant, the next speaker, read and discussed at some length the Conservative platform in 1931, which he claimed had not been implemented. "I have been accused of accepting a position which the Premier of the Province was good enough to give me on the Fishermen's Loan Board," said Mr. Gallant. "My salary was just $300."

Voices: "Too much! You're not worth it." (Applause and laughter.)

"My expenses," said Mr. Gallant, "were $550 and I put in all my time last year to do my work as well as I could."

He claimed that Dr. MacMillan filled several portfolios when in office, and now he was criticizing "this paltry little job that I got."

The audience said nothing to that.

He went on to speak of adult education.

With regard to the election date, Mr. Gallant said the spring was the proper time "that I had in mind when I said 'Go to the country when the work was going on?'"

Voices: "Sure."

"We saved money by not doing the work," Mr. G. "nt argued. "I'm going to a you," he said, "on an election date to you."

Voices: "Not vote for you!" (Laughter.)

Mr. Gallant: "All right, do that then!" (Increased laughter.)

The good work of the liberal party and the four years of good government that you have enjoyed, and vote for the return of the same Government on the 18th of May."

Voices: "No, no, we don't want you!" (Laughter.)

MR. HUBERT GAUDET

"It shows that there must be something wrong with the Government when people would turn out in such numbers on a night like this," declared Mr. Hubert Gaudet.

"Loud applause, he demanded: "What was the reason the election was brought on at this time of the year? They don't appear to want to give us any reason. There is one reason why, and that is that they are about as far as they can go! They have sunk the country in such a state that probably nobody will be able to redeem it. As far as I am concerned, having an election at this time of the year ought to be put out of office immediately." (Applause.)

Mr. Gallant said Mr. Gaudet had criticized our platform of 1931. Why didn't he go back to his own platform of 1937?

"It was rumored in 1935 around the shore that they were going to raise the price of fish. They were going to balance the budget, on hake," he continued amid increased applause.

Turning to his opponent seated behind him on the platform, Mr. Gaudet added: "Mr. Gallant draws his salary and besides draws something that the fisherman should have. Why didn't you put a fisherman there as one qualified? I would say the was, and they could have administered it far better than he did."

Exploiting the Fishermen

He is going around the country today with the propaganda that they fed the fishermen for four years! I may tell Mr. Gallant that he didn't feed the fishermen for four years. He was the Premier of the Province and the fishermen got the blame. HE USES THEM AS A TOOL. (Loud applause.)

"Those people came to the country in 1935, and what did they say in their platform? Mr. Gaudet continued. "They said, 'the man that takes their dirty dote is no man at all.' They were going to secure work for everybody. DID THEY DO IT?"

Voices: "No!"

Mr. Gaudet: "If they get back they will have all Prince Edward Island and Atlantic relief." (Laughter and applause.)

Voices: "What about fishermen's loans?"

Mr. Gaudet: "What about it? If they were doing so much about the fish, why were there $300,000 voted by the Government should have a share if they had a man with any backbone to go and fight for it. Instead they spent about $60,000 to buy the vote of that half million dollar vote was taken back to Ottawa. IT NEVER WAS SPENT. Where was their backbone? Their backbone was on the wrong side of their mouth." (Loud applause.)

The Conservatives, Mr. Gaudet, continued had been criticized for building three roads for the benefit of our fishermen. Where were the roads? Did he tell you about Falconwood Hospital?" (Applause.) Mr. Campbell seemed to deny it, since the present government got into power they did nothing on these roads but put two tons of sawmills on them. (Applause.)

"All ready to go down to the shore and we can't take any more than one-quarter of a load because they neglected these roads altogether."

Answering Liberal statement regarding fishermen's rebate on gasoline taxes, Mr. Gaudet declared, "I don't know what the rebate would have benefited the fishermen because previously they were getting 30c. per gallon reduction on the oil. Now they get 20c. since the present government got into power they did nothing on these roads but put two tons of sawmills on them. (Applause.)

Mr. Gaudet charged that false reports were being spread to the effect that if the Conservatives were elected, the old age pensioners would lose their pensions. "Who," he asked, "gave you the pensions? The Liberals talked about it before they were elected and did it. The Conservatives obtained it!"

HON DR. MACMILLAN

"I like to come back to Tignish," said Dr. MacMillan in reply to enthusiastic applause. "But I certainly don't like to see you here. As you know, are very bad at this season of the year. Someone was kind enough to say that it wouldn't be long before you would be back. Others said I was sick. Another report was spread that I wouldn't come because I was not anxious to meet my Liberal friends. I am glad to come because I am anxious to meet my Liberal friends, especially on this platform; and I am glad the Premier is here tonight, nearly four years ago, and debating with him the question of his pledge to balance the budget annually."

He also cited, amid further applause, the increased number of road engineers appointed by the Campbell Government, and the discrepancies between the Government's appeal to the electors in 1935 and the statements contained in their brief before the Rowell Commission.

MR. AENEAS GALLANT

Mr. Gallant, the next speaker, read and discussed at some length the Conservative platform in 1931, which he claimed had not been implemented. "I have been accused of accepting a position which the Premier of the Province was good enough to give me on the Fishermen's Loan Board," said Mr. Gallant. "My salary was just $300."

Voices: "Too much! You're not worth it." (Applause and laughter.)

"My expenses," said Mr. Gallant, "were $550 and I put in all my time last year to do my work as well as I could."

He claimed that Dr. MacMillan filled several portfolios when in office, and now he was criticizing "this paltry little job that I got."

The audience said nothing to that.

He went on to speak of adult education.

With regard to the election date, Mr. Gallant said the spring was the proper time "that I had in mind when I said 'Go to the country when the work was going on?'"

Voices: "Sure."

"We saved money by not doing the work," Mr. G. "nt argued. "I'm going to a you," he said, "on an election date to you."

Voices: "Not vote for you!" (Laughter.)

Mr. Gallant: "All right, do that then!" (Increased laughter.)

The good work of the liberal party and the four years of good government that you have enjoyed, and vote for the return of the same Government on the 18th of May."

Voices: "No, no, we don't want you!" (Laughter.)

Highway Paving

Dr. MacMillan denounced the Liberal propaganda to the effect that if the Conservatives were returned, the road paving would be stopped, and a referendum would be held. He argued that the proposed paving to Tignish would be discontinued. Amid applause, he assured his hearers that the incoming Government would have their interests just as much at heart as either Premier Campbell or Mr. Gallant.

The Conservatives did not raise the gasoline tax in order to finance their highway projects, he pointed out. They got $5,500 per mile from Ottawa. They did not get the whole amount. They say Bennett would have paid it all," said Dr. MacMillan. "Let them go up and get the money. They are going to pay as Bennett did and then they can talk." (Applause.)

To the criticism that Conservatives would raise the price of fish, he argued that the cost of fish had increased 32 per cent between 1932 and 1937.

He denied that the Public Accounts were not all clear and complete.

Dr. MacMillan: "Where do you find the salary of the chief engineer?"

Premier Campbell: "The chief engineer received $1900 including salary and travelling expenses."

Dr. MacMillan: "That is his expenses alone."

Premier Campbell maintained that the chief engineer "didn't get another cent."

Mr. Bennett had filled the office of Chief of the Legislature at a lower salary than his predecessor, but he attempted no explanation as to why Messrs. Trainor, Acorn and Gallant had been permitted to sit and vote in the House.

"We have seen to it," he said in his final appeal, "that this district of Prince got its full share and possibly a little more."

A vote of thanks was tendered to the chairman, Mr. Henry Doyle, Tignish.

HUGE MACHINERY PURCHASES

Dealings with the thousands of dollars of machinery purchased by the present Government, Dr. MacMillan charged that this machinery, representing capital expenditure, had been rented to the road companies for $20,000. He suggested that the machinery should be placed in ordinary revenue against the charges of the Government garage. This should pre-

LIBERAL M. P. DUCKS ACREAGE BONUS BILL

The Premier had stated publicly that he did not want people coming to see him in his office, but MacMillan continuing. He has been hard to see than the King of England. Yet people standing over at the Post Office in Charlottetown could see him in his office.

Premier Campbell: "You can't see it from the Post Office."

Dr. MacMillan: "You have got a place to hide from people standing at the Post Office, have you?" (Laughter.)

The Premier did not reply.

Continuing, Dr. MacMillan quoted the Premier as stating that if the farmers were allowed to go into the courts in cases of land expropriation, they could get their neighbors to swear that their land was three or four more times more valuable than it really was while on the other hand the Government could not get one farmer to go to court and swear as to the real value. "In other words," said Dr. MacMillan amid applause, "the Premier has put the farmers into the category of perjurers!"

"We will restore to you your right of appeal to the courts of this Province, because it should never have been taken from you."

Dr. MacMillan cited statements of Hon. John A. Campbell and Mr. George Barbour, charging the present Government with extravagance in administering Falconwood Hospital. He added not to agitate the audience applauded. "The only thing they ever did at Falconwood was cut the pay of those who work out there."

COURT HOUSE PLANS

Referring to Liberal misrepresentations regarding Falconwood plans Dr. MacMillan asked: "What about the plans for the Charlottetown Court House? The architect has stated to be $50,000 and the architect got $2,800 for plans. $50,000 was NOT the amount of the tender; it is the amount of the bill, after the bungling they did when they had the architect's fee. The management. We don't know what the tender is. It is not recorded in the Public Works report where it should be, but take their own figure, $59,000 is the sum total. Working on the same proportion, our new court plans, do you know what their plans for Falconwood would cost? Not $7,000, as they say, but $85,000." The chances were, he pointed out, that the tender was about $30,000, and if so the same ratio of fee to Falconwood plans under the Campbell Government would cost about $125,000.

Credit for adult education and credit unions, Dr. MacMillan pointed out, had been promised by the Campbell Government but to the Conservative Government which was responsible for interesting the Carnegie Corporation in demonstration libraries in this Province.

$100 Bills to Belgian Count

"Why," asked Dr. MacMillan, "didn't the Premier tell us something about his administration of the prohibition Act? I had him where he got his money in CASH—those hundred dollar bills—which he paid to the so-called Belgian Count." (Applause.) I have been Provincial Treasurer the same as he has, but I never had access to the money. He got it. That is something the people want to know. (Loud applause.)

Dr. MacMillan also referred to the large amount of liquor sold through Government stores, without the Minister's consent. He said that no information was obtainable. "He has so changed the law that he is supreme in the administration of the Prohibition Act," the speaker continued. "It is that when you have been elected in this democratic country, do you want your rights and privileges taken away from you in every respect?" (Loud applause and cries of "No!")

He concluded by reviewing the achievement of the last Conservative Government in obtaining $2,000,000 on subsidy claims which has been placed to our credit at Ottawa and represents an annual subsidy increase of $150,000 for all time to come.

PREMIER CAMPBELL

Premier Campbell in twenty minutes of rebuttal at the close of the new address was sponsored by Hon. W. D. Harrison, former Canadian Minister to the United States, took place here yesterday when Mr. Herriage and Premier Aberhart and members of the Liberal party were disclosed today by Premier Aberhart.

"Mr. Herriage outlined the reaction to the new democracy program in British Columbia and also in the east," said Premier Aberhart. "I am quite satisfied that his program when fully summarized and definitely outlined will be most acceptable to most progressive-minded citizens of Canada."

"Until he has finally formulated his platform, I do not wish to commit myself more than to express my sympathetic interest in the new democracy movement," the Premier added.

British Plan Unsatisfactory Russia Claims

(By The Canadian Press)

A Vatican news service disclosed Tuesday that Pope Pius had initiated negotiations "through various contacts" in various capitals "in an effort to help Europe keep the peace."

The move got a "distinctly sympathetic" reception in German Foreign Office circles.

In addition to Berlin, the Pope is believed to have approached the London, Paris, Rome and Warsaw governments through his envoys with some definite plan for relieving the current world tension and maintaining peace.

Diplomatic circles in Paris reported France and Britain had left to Poland the making of a final decision on whether to act on the Vatican's efforts.

Observers in Warsaw considered Poland's position as being delicate. It was pointed out that Poland is strongly Catholic but is averse to anything other than direct negotiations in settling foreign problems.

In Italy, although the Government was silent, part of the Fascist press commented favorably on the Vatican's efforts.

The move came at a time when Germany was engaged in intensive diplomatic activity in both Europe and Asia. Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, returning after arranging the new Rome-Berlin military and political agreement, was on his way to Chancellor Hitler's Berchtesgaden Mountain retreat to report.

The Fuehrer's right hand man, Field Marshal Goebbels, was on a routine visit to Berlin. Spain is strengthening German ties there, and officials in Berlin studied relations with Japan. The Tokyo Government was reported anxious to prevent isolation of foreign problems, a concrete commitment to either Italy or Germany.

The Foreign Ministers of Norway, Sweden, Finland and Denmark met in Stockholm in a week of mutual non-aggression treaties, charted a course of strict neutrality.

Russia, whose policy, though obscure, continued to play a vital role in almost every phase of the European problem, appeared to be possibly on the road to better relations with Poland as a result of the arrival in Warsaw of Vladimir Potemkin, first assistant commissar for Soviet Foreign Affairs.

At the same time, however, in Berlin Nazi officials said friendship negotiations were under way between military and political officials in the Russian capital. Soviet officials indicated dissatisfaction with counter-proposals with which Britain had answered a Russian suggestion for a Russian-British-French alliance. Communists were issued suggesting the British plan was inadequate.

Noted British Aviatix Dies

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, May 9—The body of Mrs. G. A. H. Williams, once widely known as an aviatix when she was Lady Mary Heath, was identified today by relatives at a hospital where she died of head injuries suffered in falling down the steps of a double-deck motor bus.

The flier, who had not appeared in public much recently, was 46. At the height of her aviation career, she was injured in 1939 when her plane crashed at the Cleveland Air Race. Her husband, Sir David Munro, Sir David served in Remo, Nev. from Sir James Heath, British iron-master and colliery owner. She subsequently married George Williams, also a well-known British flier, at Lexington, Ky.

KING'S MAIL

weather became rougher.

The King and Queen spent some time on deck late in the afternoon watching the storm-tossed sea. As the sun went down, the wind eased slightly.

Three days out from Portsmouth on her nine-day voyage to Quebec with the King and Queen, the Empress departed at 4:30 p. m. Greenwich mean time (1:30 p. m. A.D.T.) from the massive Repulse.

But even in mid-Atlantic, with a strong southerly gale, the wind curling up clouds of spray off the Repulse and two other convoy warships, the parting was occasion for a demonstration of unerring naval precision.

Into the lowering sea was thrown from the Empress a sealed cask of mail, including letters from the King and Queen to their daughters.

Earlier, the King and Queen had watched a student employment watching sailors smear grease over the head of the cask to make it waterproof. Her Majesty watched closely to see how it was done.

There had been some doubt whether the
