

CUTICURA OINTMENT

Purest of Emollients and Greatest of Skin Cures.
The Most Wonderful Curative of All Time
For Torturing, Disfiguring Skin Humours
And Purest and Sweetest of Toilet Emollients.

Cuticura Ointment is beyond question the most successful curative for torturing, disfiguring humours of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed in the severer cases, by a dose of Cuticura Resolvent, is often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning and scaly humours, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure when all other remedies fail. It is especially so in the treatment of infants and children, cleansing, soothing and healing the most distressing of infantile humours, and preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scald and hair.

Cuticura Ointment possesses, at the same time, the charm of satisfying the simple wants of the toilet, in caring for the skin, scalp, hair, hands and feet, from infancy to age, far more effectively, agreeably and economically than the most expensive of toilet emollients. Its "Instant relief for skin-tortured babies," or "Sanative, antiseptic cleansing," or "One-night treatment of the hands or feet," or "Single treatment of the hair," or "Use after athletics," cycling, golf, tennis, riding, sparring, or any sport, each in connection with the use of Cuticura Soap, is sufficient evidence of this.

Cuticura Resolvent, liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depot: London, 7, Charterhouse St., E.C. 4. In America, N. Y., 15, N. W. Cor. of Broadway, Boston, 127, Columbus Ave. Foster Drug & Chemical Co., Sole Proprietors.

FAVORITE HOBBY OF ENGLISHMEN THEY CULTIVATE RABBITS

Thus They Combine Pleasure With Profit. The Little Animals Sold at the Rate of 50 Cents Each.—An Enjoyable Time.

"I spend hours upon hours here," said a London fancier just lately, during a chat in his rabbitry. And after all, when exhibition rabbits are daily changing hands at prices ranging from £3 to £30 apiece, there is no cause for surprise that men spend time and money over their cultivation.

One hundred pounds was refused during the Crystal Palace show in the Autumn of 1900 for a winning Belgian hare doe, while £50 for a winning buck was paid. Canadians and Americans were over here at that time with the object of satisfying the craze then existent in their country for Belgian hares.

Medical men having propounded the theory that the flesh of these little animals was better food in every way than anything else, nothing would do but that the best of the breed should be found in the hundreds of Belgian hare rabbitries that sprang up in America.

The British fanciers, seeing how matters stood, simply set tight until the most fabulous prices were obtained, £25 being an ordinary figure! One fancier I know made over £1,000 during the temporary boom.

But the boom died out, and we will confine ourselves only to present-day obtainable prices.

The Belgian hare, so-called because of its likeness in color and form to the wild hare, is always a favorite among the visitors to a show, because of its lovely color and "racy" style: £5 to £15 are everyday prices paid for a good specimen.

The lop rabbit's beauty lies in its length and breadth of ear, specimens having been shown with ears measuring 27 inches from tip to tip, and 7 inches broad, for which £25 was paid without a murmur. The Flemish Giant is so-named because of the tremendous size to which it grows, show specimens having been known to turn the scale at 20 pounds, while those weighing 15 pounds are quite ordinary.

Silver-greys—at one time termed chinchillas—silver-fawns, and silver-browns are strikingly beautiful little animals, with their body color silvered all over, short coats, and very neat ears.

Five pounds was lately paid to a North London fancier for a silver-grey thirteen weeks old, and before it was in full coat, while £3 to £10 is the price paid for a really good adult, £18 being mentioned as the price given for a doe a short time ago.

A peculiarity of the young of the silver-grey lies in the fact that they are jet black until about a month old, when they begin to turn grey on the nose, taking from that age completely.

The English rabbit is a largish animal, white, with color dispersed over its body in certain patches and spots, the proper location of these spots determining its show value. Especially is its face curiously marked, the nose being colored in the shape of a butterfly, while it has other important spots and circles round the eye. At the present day there is a specimen of this breed that £20 would not buy from its owner.

The Dutch rabbit is small—in fact, from a fancier's point of view, diminutive size is a greater consideration—but its chief characteristic is its markings.

From the centre of the body of the hind part is colored black, blue, gray, yellow, or tortoiseshell, with the exception of the hind feet, which are white for one and a half inches from the toe. The forepart of the rabbit is white, with the exception of the head, which is the same color as the hind part, but with a white muzzle, from which runs a white mark right up the centre of the head to between the ears.

There are specialist clubs for all the breeds, but the United Kingdom Dutch Rabbit Club is the strongest. In 1902 over 800 rabbit shows were held; this number only includes public, not small club shows. There were instances of over 1,000 exhibits being penned at a show, and 124 different rabbit judges were engaged. At the Tunbridge Wells agricultural show, held this month, there are five rabbit judges engaged, and the entry will probably be over 500.

What is the good of the hobby? Well, many and many a wife will tell you that since her husband has become interested in rabbits he spends his spare hours with them and not at a public house or his club, for all his time and spare cash is wanted if he wants to be among the successful exhibitors; and the money so spent comes back when the young rabbits are sold. It never came back from the public house.

PEARY IN LONDON.
LONDON, Nov. 10.—Commander Peary, U. S. N., lectured before the Royal Geographical Society tonight. Arc You Bilious? Blame the Liver.
Scores of the Common Ills of Life Due to Disorders of the Liver and Curable by the Use of

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills
If you are bilious, blame the liver. If your digestion is impaired and you suffer from headache and dizzy spells, blame the liver. If your bowels are irregular, constipation and looseness alternating, blame the liver. If you have pain under the shoulder blades, feelings of fullness after meals, aching limbs, a yellow, muddy complexion, blame the liver.

Torpid, sluggish action of the liver is responsible for all these symptoms, and while you have a right to blame the liver, it may be well for you to set about to help the liver out of difficulty.

Though bile, which the healthy liver filters from the blood, is nature's cathartic and is necessary to healthful and regular action of the bowels, it is poison when left in the blood and gives rise to many distressing symptoms. The use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills promptly cures torpid liver and biliousness, and because of their combined action on liver, kidneys and bowels ensure a thorough cleansing of the system.

There is probably no one organ responsible for so many ills as the liver. Over-eating, excessive drinking or irregular meals are very likely to upset the action of the liver, overload the system with bile and bring on biliousness or sick headache. Keep the liver in health by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and you will avoid many of the common ills of life. There will then be no constipation, no stomach troubles, no danger of kidney and urinary derangements.

The position which Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills hold to-day as the leading family medicine is undoubtedly due to their wonderfully prompt action on the liver and their combined effort on the kidneys and bowels. There is no medicine obtainable which is more useful in cases of emergency when the digestive, urinary or excretory systems are deranged than this great prescription of Dr. A. W. Chase. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or E. Mansson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations—the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

A STORY FROM GALWAY.
OTTAWA, November 10.—A cable message from England stating that Galway has been chosen as the British terminus for a fast line is without foundation. No such decision has been reached.

THE GLOW OF HEALTH.
When the blood is rich and pure there is a beautiful glow to the complexion which speaks of the vigor and vitality of the system. There is no more certain way for pale, weak people to attain the glow of health than by the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great food cure which forms new, rich, red blood and creates new nerve force.

STRATHCONA'S CONGRATULATIONS.
OTTAWA, November 10.—Lord Strathcona cabled his congratulations to Dr. Robert Bell to-day.

Ask at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & CO., Toronto, Dr. Chase's Ointment.
