ATTENTION NURSES - Squadron Leader Haney's address, cancelled.

TRINITY P. U. - The regular meeting of the Trinity P. U. was held in the Social Hall on Friday evening. The devotional service was conducted by Miss Marion Harper assisted by Miss Edith Simmons and Miss Marion MacEachern. After a short business period the group adjourned to classes. The remainder of the evening was spent in games, concluding with a sing song.

FUNERAL AT WOOD ISLANDS - The funeral of the late Mrs. Daniel H. MacMillan of Wood Islands was held in her late residence Saturday afternoon, the services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. McPhail. The pallbearers were Messrs. Roy MacDonald, Roderick McRae, H. MacMillan, Hector MacDonald, Dan MacLean and Cameron MacPhee. Interment Wood Islands Cemetery.

PRESENTATIONS - On Nov. 11th neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wood, Cross Roads; to honor two popular young men, Wallace McKinnon and Spurgeon Jenkins who have offered their service to their King and Country. Mr. M. W. Wood gave the address and Mr. E. J. McCann presented each with a well filled purse. The boys thanked everyone present and all joined in singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows." The evening was pleasantly spent in games and games, after which a delicious lunch was served by the ladies. Singing of the National Anthem brought the evening to a close. (Patric's Please Copy)

GIVEN FAREWELL PARTY - Mr. Spurgeon Jenkins of Mt. Herbert who recently joined the R.C.A.P. and leaves Tuesday morning for training somewhere in Canada, was given tangible proof of his standing in the community on Friday evening last when his friends young and old from surrounding districts, met at the Assembly Hall of the Protestant Orphanage for a farewell party. During the course of the evening Mr. Jenkins called meeting to order. Mr. Ralph Raynor read a complimentary address, a valuable wrist watch and money belt were presented to the guest of honor on behalf of those assembled by Mr. Dewar Ballen. Mr. Earl Ings spoke briefly. The ladies of the district supplied dainty refreshments. "Spud" for once had no words to express his surprise and pleasure, but rose to the occasion and expressed his gratitude. Mrs. Walter Wood at the piano struck up the chords of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and "The King" brought a very enjoyable evening to a close wishing "Spud" safe flying and happy landings.

REVIEWS NATIVE PROVINCE - Rev. John E. O'Brien, visiting Prince Edward Island the past three months will leave here Wednesday morning for his home in the State of Washington, U. S. A. Father O'Brien left the Island 42 years ago and has been a resident of Seattle most of his life. He is an assistant priest, rector of St. James Cathedral for ten years and parish priest during the remaining years. It is about 20 years since he last visited his native province. He has spent a lovely vacation during the past three months, says Father O'Brien, and has been enjoying the kind hospitality of my many good friends, for whom I shall be very homesick. My native parish, Fort Augustus, is a beautiful place. I feel happy and at home. Rev. Father Thomas Callaghan, pastor of the parish of Fort Augustus, made me feel at home, and did all in his power to make my time pass pleasantly. In visiting the Island I find that it has advanced somewhat, home is a better place to live in. A great deal more could be done to make these good people more prosperous and happy. I love the Island and its people.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER
Buck it up right now and feel like a million!
Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important. It filters out poisons, helps to digest food, gets rid of waste, gives you energy, allows proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order food decomposes in your intestines. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. You feel "softer" - headache, backache, dizziness, dragged out all the time. For over 35 years thousands have won prompt relief from these miseries - with Fruit-A-Tives. So can you now. Try Fruit-A-Tives - you'll be simply delighted how quickly you'll feel like a new person, happy and well again. 25c. 50c. Canada's Largest Selling Liver Tablets

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS - Congratulations were extended Saturday to Mr. Herbert J. Love, retired C. N. R. engineer, one of the first engineers on the P. E. Island Railway, who celebrated his 82nd birthday.

FUNERAL OF MR. J. A. GORDON - The funeral of the late John A. Gordon was held from the MacLean Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon where services were conducted by Rev. I. J. Levy who also officiated at the grave interment was in the People's Cemetery. The pallbearers were: Henry MacLeod, William Heatheridge, B. Benjamin, and Mr. Gallant.

FROM P. E. ISLAND - Mrs. John Ferguson, Almont Avenue, her son Herbert Ferguson and her brother, Mr. Ivy MacKenzie, have returned home after a very enjoyable week-end visit to relatives and friends in Charlottetown and St. Peter's Bay, P. E. I. They had a very pleasant trip and enjoyed the weather and the crossings and during their stay on the Island. - New Glasgow News.

SUCCESSFUL DANCE - The group of "Observers" taking courses at the airport here held a dance Friday evening at the National Mass was pronounced a success. Specific invitations to these dances are issued to ladies whose presence is requested. Partners will be provided for them. The dances are conducted under the supervision of Squadron Leader Bangay.

FETED BY FRIENDS - A most enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Sangster, Charlottetown, when a number of friends of Pte. Elmer Aikens, R. C. A. M. C., gathered to express in a tangible way how much they have been missing about him. Before he left to join his unit in Charlottetown, P. E. I. after a brief visit to his parents Mr. and Mrs. Aikens, St. John's, Nfld., he was presented with a kit and although it was a big surprise to him, he arose to the occasion and thanked them all in a few well chosen words.

FUNERAL AT TARANTUM - The funeral of the late Michael Dunstan was held in his late residence, Tarantum, on Friday morning at St. Patrick's Church, Fort Augustus where Requiem High Mass was sung by the pastor, Rev. Louis MacNeil. The service was conducted by the Rev. P. J. McQuaid and Rev. P. Wood of St. Dunstan's University. The pallbearers were: James Shea, John T. Ireland, Ernest Hughes and John O'Connell.

SUCCESSFUL APPLE DAY - Boy Scouts throughout the province were out in full force Saturday in observance of their annual Apple Day event. Favored by bright sunshine, the smiling boys at their Scout uniforms were to be seen on every street busily engaged in selling their shining red apples. When the boys finished their day's work approximately 25 barrels of the health giving fruit had been sold, many citizens were happy in the fact that they had done their good deed for the day and Island orchard owners benefited by the sales. In other sections of the province including Summerside, Alberton, Rustico and Murray Harbour, Scouts also had a successful Apple Day. The apples sold were all from Island orchards.

C. W. L. - The ladies of St. James' sub-division of the C. W. L., Summerside, held their monthly meeting on Sunday, Oct. 26. Meeting was opened with the League prayer. After the roll call and adoption of minutes, the different conveners reported, and a discussion followed on Ways of Raising Funds, so it was decided to have an entertainment in the hall at Emerald. A committee was appointed for this purpose. Six quilts were completed and it was agreed to send two of these to the T. B. League, remainder to Red Cross. Rev. Eugene Murray in presence of the ladies for their financial aid in placing some new furniture in the Emerald. A committee was appointed to continue their good work. The Emerald members of this sub-division packed four Christmas boxes, and forwarded them to four boys, formerly of Emerald, who are now on Active Service overseas.

CARRY ON CANADA CONCERT - On Tuesday evening Nov. 11th, the hall at Emerald was filled to capacity to witness the Carry On Canada concert put on by Charlottetown and directed by Jimmie Power, and sponsored by the Catholic Women's League of St. James' Sub-division. Summerside. The programme opened with "O Canada" followed by "Play-mates" by Miss Peggy Campbell. The hearty encores showed the numbers that ensued were well received by the audience. Those consisted of a sing song, vocal solos, guitar duets, etc. and were rendered by Raymond Sellick, the Robinson brothers, Messrs. LeClair, Blacutere and Power. A special feature was the ston dancing of Peggy Campbell and Teresa Costello. The height of the applause was rendered ed at the impersonation of two ladies of radio fame who arrived in time to add some numbers to the program. After the singing of the National Anthem, boxes of luncheon were auctioned and a good sum was realized. Dancing followed, music being furnished by members of the Carry On Canada Corps and by McGilligan's orchestra.

ENGAGEMENT - Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stead, Wheatley River, wish to announce the engagement of their youngest daughter Elmira Blanche to Vernon John, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Noye, Hunter River. Marriage to take place in November. L-702.

WEDDING BELLS - One of the prettiest of the Autumn weddings took place at St. Peter's on the morning of October 8th, when the Rev. Monsignor A. A. McAluay united in holy wedlock Miss Elizabeth McDonald, adopted daughter of Augustine and Mrs. Hankey and Pte. Andrew J. Gallant of the P. E. Island Highlanders. The winsome bride was charming, dressed in royal blue transparent velvet with hat and accessories to match and carried a beautiful pearl rosary and prayer book, the gift of the groom. The bridegroom, a member of the 1st Battalion, Highlanders, was assisted by his brother-in-arms Pte. James McIntyre of Souris, while another comrade Pte. Eugene O'Hanney of St. Peter's was officiating during the nuptial Mass. After the marriage a delicious wedding breakfast was served to the bridal party and a large number of guests at the bride's adopted home, the dining room presenting an inviting appearance being tastefully decorated with wedding bells and streamers. Following the breakfast the happy young couple motored to Charlottetown enquired by the groom's brother-in-law, Mr. Ivan Chiverie, returning in the evening to St. Peter's. The bride and groom, where a large number of guests were served a delicious supper and enjoyed an evening of dancing. Among the guests were several representatives of the Canadian navy and army, among whom was Sergeant James McDonald of Fenwick's. The groom is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Gallant serving his country, a brother Lambert of the R. C. A. being stationed at Sydney, N. S. The bride is a beautiful and valuable gift received by Pte. and Mrs. Gallant testify to the esteem with which they are held by all who know them. Before her marriage Mrs. Gallant was tendered a miscellaneous shower by her young friends of St. Peter's.

The Likes Of We

By T. C. BRIDGES

Half an hour later Daniel Burt walked round the corner of the house. He looked odd and broken. His shoulders sagged and he limped slightly. Aaron got up and went to meet him. Burt pulled up and gazed at his visitor.

"What do you want?" he asked with a frown.
"Just called in to have a little chat, Burt," said Aaron smoothly.
"If it's money you want you'd better go home. I haven't any." Daniel answered bluntly.
"Not even gold?" Aaron suggested. Burt's stare was blank.
"I don't know what you're talking about."
"I'm talking about the gold torque that Kewawake hid years ago and that Alton has found. Hasn't she told you about it?"
"Not a word. And I don't believe she's found anything of the sort." "I have proof that she has," Aaron stated. "And you've got to get the stuff from her." Burt stiffened.

"As I've told you, I've heard nothing from her. Anyhow I have no influence with Alton. I'm not going to interfere." Aaron came a step closer.
"It's a bit late for you to take that tone, Burt. Listen to me. You get that gold from Alton and hand it over. If you don't -" He paused significantly.
"If I don't what will happen?" Daniel asked.
"You'll go to prison. A nice thing for a man of your age." A flash of defiance showed in Daniel's sunken eyes.
"What about you?" he retorted. "If I've been crooked you've been worse." He paused then went on in a firmer voice. "You've lied me for years. I'm tired of it. You can do what you please but you don't get any more out of me." He straightened to his full height.
"Now get out of my place," Aaron growled. "If you show your nose here again it's lead you'll get, not gold!"
"I'll go to London to send these films

CHAPTER IX

FERRER FACE - FERRER WAYS

John Lloyd, out of action on account of his injury and confined to his room, heard from his son the whole story of the fruitless trip to the cove where he had hidden his treasure. He chuckled at the unwilling of Rufus to conceal his unfitness at the turn events had taken.

"That's right," he said. "Alton Dane has taken the gold. It's no use your frowning, Crispin. From what you tell me, it can't be anyone else."
"She's not the sort of girl to do a thing like that!" Crispin protested. "You know her. You can't think she'd steal. Do you think she's handed it over to Rufus?"
"You think she's handed it over to him?"
"I don't think for a minute that she'd touch a penny that wasn't her own," said the older man who sat comfortably propped with pillows in his bed. "I think she went back to the cove out of sheer curiosity to find out what we had been about. Finding the gold, she recognized it as the stuff I found all those years ago."

"How could she?" Crispin cut in. "She wasn't born then."
"True, but no doubt Burt had told her his version of the story, and she doesn't know who we are and probably doesn't think we have any more right to it than her step-father."
"You think she's given it to him?"
"I don't. Being the sort of girl she is, she certainly knows that old Burt is not too straight. If you ask me she has hidden the stuff somewhere and is waiting on events. Anyhow, you may be sure the Cowells won't get it."
Crispin looked relieved. He had great faith in his father's judgment and thinking things over, began to feel sure that he was right. He needed.

"No, she won't let them have it," he answered. "She doesn't love that red-haired blighter. I think we'll have to copy Alton's example, - wait until she knows us a bit better. And I'm going to know her better before I'm much older."
Early on Monday, Crispin drove to Froust's poultry farm, which was just outside Kingscoteville. He was busy bargaining with the old man in the yard when he heard a light step behind him and turned to meet Alton.
"What a bit of luck Miss Dane!" he exclaimed. "You're the expert, and you are going to tell me just what I ought to buy."
"How do you know I shan't pick all the best for myself and let you have the duds?"
"There isn't any duds in my stock. You know that, Miss Alton." Froust declared indignantly.
"All right, Mr. Froust," laughed Alton. "I'm only chaffing. Besides, I have all I want for the present. What are you buying, Mr. Lloyd?"
"Rhode Island Reds. I'm told they do well down here."
"Strong birds and good layers," put in Froust.
"Mr. Froust is right," Alton agreed. "And you don't need my advice, Mr. Lloyd. You can safely take Mr. Froust's."
"Then I'll have a hundred to start," Crispin said. He turned to Alton. "Miss Dane, what I really want is advice on feeding and handling the birds. I know a little about poultry. Will you let me give you a cup of coffee as Males' and we can have a chat?" Alton smiled again.
"Morning coffee is a bit I can resist - especially at Males'. But what about the chickens?"
"I'll come back for them. Have them ready for me in an hour, will you Mr. Froust?"
Froust agreed. He liked this cheery new customer and was secretly pleased that he and Alton Dane were such good friends. He admired Alton and heartily disliked Rufus Cowell.
