POULTRY JOTTINGS

Are your pullets laying? Ceiling egg prices are about reached. The advantage of this high market price for eggs. Feed more mash-make your pullets eat. Take 20 lbs. of feed per day per hundred birds to maintain their body weight. Every extra lb. per day will go a long way in increasing your egg production. Don't forget-keep plenty of clean water before your flock at all times. The eggs you gather now will balance that feed bill for a considerable time ahead.

In matters of feeding do not be penny wise and pound foolish. Do not judge the amount of feed you feed by the dollar you pay for it, but by the per cent. of feed your pullets consume. Don't forget the skim milk and the cod oil. Poultry is coming forward in good volume and there is a definite improvement in quality - in fact, some offerings are exceptional. W. Wheatley of Essex Royal, marketed 186 cockerels that were beauties. Eighty-two cockerels averaged 6 1/2 lbs. graded Mixed and One hundred and four averaged 6 1/2 lbs. graded Milkfed B. These birds were graded strictly in accordance with Canadian Dressed Poultry Standards.

We have a number of good poultrymen in our midst. An exhibition of dressed poultry could be made an event of importance. It would be necessary to provide prizes of sufficient value to make it worthwhile to the flock owners. Such prizes could be made possible. Such an exhibition would give flock owners a chance to see what finish could be put on poultry. One could extend such an exhibition in its scope to include the three Maritime Provinces.

Shipments of dressed poultry are still going forward to the U. S. Army. What a chance to advertise P. E. I. quality poultry! If a slip of paper was placed in each box of milked poultry shipped to the U.S.A. or any Canadian point bearing such words as: "A QUALITY PRODUCT OF PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND"

Strictly Graded and Packaged in accordance with Canadian Dressing Standards in Anticipation of your Satisfaction. What a potential market presents itself! We must prepare now for possible post-war markets. P. E. I. is a product specialist's ideal. Its size lends itself to control of quality in its products - products that can be easily contacted - personal contact more often than not results in co-operation - quite a different attitude - the co-operation of all concerned. Our dream of a specialist market for P. E. I. products can easily become a reality.

W. E. Johnstone of New London has a very promising flock of Barred Plymouth Rocks (Gae-dinger strain). This strain has an enviable R. O. P. record. Mr. Johnstone is another believer in the best. His charming daughter, Betty (age six) acted as an escort around the poultry plant and in poultry lore was really a veteran. For those that like to know of the unusual, Mrs. Johnstone has a Welgela Shrub on her lawn in full bloom.

We regret that Donald MacFarlane, Summerside, popular hatchery man is leaving P. E. I. Good luck, Don, in your new venture!

Eggs held at the Island Cold Storage for the Special Products Board are moving out regularly each week to a breaking plant at Three Rivers, Que. Blood testing is progressing favourably on P. E. I. Some flock owners have requested a delay until potato picking is concluded. To date about 45 per cent of the flocks tested have shown no reactors. Our own hatched chicks are shown a much cleaner record than some shipped in.

It's not too soon to talk of next year's hatchery results. What we now plan will give us those results. Mr. Andrew Christie, Kingston, N. S., U. S. representative for the state of New Hampshire, obtained remarkable hatchability from his New Hampshire flocks. His average hatchability never dropped below 85 per cent. Mr. Christie owns several farms in all he has 10,000 laying hens. He hatched millions of chicks. His record is one that P. E. I. hatcheries should aim at. Pen ahead and start early! Mr. Charles Gordon, Southport, P. E. I. has been notified that he headed the list in a competitive hatchery for the Maritime Provinces. It is expected that he will shortly join the staff of the Dominion Poultry Production Service at Charlottetown.

A meeting of the members of the Maritime Poultry Association, presided over by Mr. May of Canada, Administrator of Wooden Coops, and his assistant, Mr. G. H. H. will be held at the Charlottetown Hotel, N. S., on November 9th.

Examination of P. E. I. poultry boxes and egg needs for 1945 will be presented. P. O. Box 39, Charlottetown, P. E. I. regarding your requirements for 1945.

It is anticipated that at least 200,000 of shell eggs will be forwarded from P. E. I. to Britain this year. These eggs will be shipped in wooden cases - make sure you have sufficient supplies. If the Green of Bedoune taken this far this season for cleanliness of his poultry plant. In cleaning poultry houses prior to housing pullets for winter, see that all the old litter is removed, also all nesting material and droppings. Wash by to each fifteen gallons of very hot water will loosen all dirt and go a long way in destroying bacteria and parasite eggs. After the floor is completely dry, apply any creosote disinfectants. To be effective, disinfectants should have a phenol coefficient of five. This is usually stamped on the bottle. All equipment should be thoroughly cleaned.

To keep pullets healthy, keep your poultry premises clean!! Dominion Poultry Services

Dorothy Dix Says--

(Continued from page 8) Undoubtedly the meanest and most unprincipled woman in the world is the one who ruthlessly breaks up another woman's home and orphans little children for her own profit or pleasure. The thug who holds up a man at a pistol's point and takes away his wallet is an admirable character compared to the woman who takes a husband away from his wife because she wants the luxuries he can give her. For the man has only been robbed of his money, while the wife has been robbed of everything that makes life worth living to her. Still it is easier to understand these predatory females than it is the girls who make a specialty of vamping husbands just for the sport of the thing. They don't want the fat, middle-aged man they take away from their wives, but they think it shows their superior powers of fascination to be irresistible to married men. And they get a kick out of seeing wives writhe in helpless jealousy when they contrast their fading charms with the girls' youth and beauty. That husband stealing is a common and profitable feminine racket is a matter of universal knowledge. Especially to men. It is one of the dangers that only poor men escape. For the world is filled with women who are artists in separating every rich man from his wife and his money, and who will get him if he doesn't watch out.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Do you think it is right to forbid a 19-year-old girl having any association with boys? I believe that parents should be somewhat strict with their children, but isn't it carrying things too far when an adolescent girl is not permitted to hold a telephone conversation with the boys of her own group, or to attend a mixed party, or to have a date, or to have a boy come to her house? Just what is your personal opinion of this matter? WONDERING.

PARENTS THROW GIRLS TO WOLVES

ANSWER: Overly strict parents, who think they are protecting their little ewe lambs by never letting them have even a peek out of the home corral, are really throwing them to the wolves. They are bringing upon their girls the dangers they fear, for they are making boys mysterious and romantic figures and hence desirable, instead of letting their Sallies and Mamies grow up with the boy next door and the one across the street and know them as they are, shorn of all justness. No girls are so boy-crazy as the ones who are never permitted to have a date.

Even the dumbest parents should have enough sense to know that they can't keep their daughters from thinking about boys by tugging them to do so, and that their only chance of being able to protect them is to let them have their company at home where they can get acquainted with the lads and see whether they are desirable friends or not. The Garden of Eden episode should be required reading for all parents of girls. Eve's granddaughters still have that hankering after forbidden fruit.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 16, engaged to a boy with whom I am terribly in love. We plan to be married on his next furlough, but I have very bad health, have fainting spells every day. He says he'll make no difference to him, but do you think it would be fair to his for me to marry him under the circumstances? ADELE

ANSWER: No, there would be no happiness in such a marriage for either one of you. Get cured first. Health is the prime requisite in every marriage.
