More proof that children take cod-liver oil willingly—this emulsified way

Like so many other youngsters, David McCoy, pictured above, hates plain cod-liver oil. His mother admitted it frankly when the Scott's Emulsion reporter recently called at her home at 187 Mackville St., Toronto. But Mrs. McCoy was anxious to see if David would feel any differently about Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil, so she gladly consented to let him try it.

David took a spoonful. Then he grinned. "Say, I do like this," he said. "It tastes good!"

Pleasanter to take—but that isn't all!

Pale, underweight, run-down children—they need cod-liver oil. Give it to them the pleasantest way—give them Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion doesn't upset even delicate stomachs. It brings you purest, Norwegian cod-liver oil in its pleasantest form—a perfect emulsion. Easier to take—easier to digest. You get more good out of Scott's Emulsion and you feel the benefits quicker.

Scott's Emulsion contains no alcohol. It is rich in vitamin A, the growth-promoting vitamin that helps guard against disease. It is rich in vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin that prevents rickets. It also contains vital minerals that aid in forming sound bones and teeth. This gives Scott's Emulsion a special advantage for growing children, infants, nursing and expectant mothers.

Get Scott's Emulsion to-day. At your nearest druggist, in large home size and small traveling size bottles. Sales Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Paris Styles

By Mary Knight

United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS, Feb. 17 (U.P.)—For a very special place under the sun, we in Paris, nominate one of those bright bathing suits that makes it hard to decide which is reflecting golden glory from which.

Summer seas are going to be a riot of color this season, with scarcely a shade of the rainbow omitted. One suit, as small as it is, will show as many as three different colors in it, or three different tones of the same color. It takes skill to place these colors and tones just right because if they are wrong the figure will be ruined—it will look too heavy in places and not heavy enough in others. Bathing caps will be more interesting too. One I know, will stimulate the glistening "finny" back of a fat, pink salmon, and it will be worn with a suit that has been woven of mohair in striking replica of the sea dweller.

Next to bathing suits there will be many a bright and gay beach cape or jaunty coat that will flap in the breeze, along with a great brimmed hat that falls far enough over the shoulders to protect those delicate curves from knowing the ache of blisters and ruining the effect of a crimson evening gown.

And as for beach shoes! Remember the po-go sticks of a while ago? It is the principal that is being applied to the new shoes for beaching. Just under the cork soles will be two or three coils of metal that will give a little spring to each step and make you feel almost as though you were flying—can you wait to try them?

Temporary Measure Re Unemployment

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 18.—Reduction in unemployment relief payments to pensioners by the Department of Pensions and National Health, "is regarded as a somewhat temporary measure, and it is hoped that an improvement in these rates will be effected before long." This announcement was made by Hon. Murray MacLaren, Minister of Pensions and National Health, in a statement issued today. "In no case," Dr. MacLaren declares, "will hardship result, for there will be such readjustment as will meet the circumstances." Demands for relief payments have greatly exceeded the Parliamentary appropriation, Dr. MacLaren explains, and consequently administrative officers have been informed to effect a reduction to the minimum rates "pending further instructions."

FOODLESS 21 DAYS

(Canadian Press)

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 17.—Twenty-one days of icy, solitary confinement, with neither food nor water to sustain him, had little effect upon Mr. Jimmy Owl, a majestic creature with a wing spread of more than four feet, who was found in the bottom of a smoke stack at a local brickyard here recently.

The owl is now being cared for by W. A. Massey, foreman at the plant, and is rapidly recovering from its long, frigid days of captivity. It is becoming quite tame, too. On January 17, Mr. Massey noticed two owls flying past the yards and saw that as they passed the giant 100-foot smokestack one suddenly vanished from sight. The next day, wondering if, by chance, the big bird had dived down the chimney, which, fortunately, was not in use at the time, Mr. Massey opened the clean-out door at the bottom and peered within. He failed to see anything, however, and after a casual glance again closed the door.

Recently Mr. Massey again became interested in the strange disappearance of the bird and once more opened the door at the base of the chimney, this time intent on making a more thorough search. And there, sure enough, crouched in a corner

Gardening

MAKING THE SOIL EFFICIENT

Efficiency is an ideal of modern business which even employs experts to do other work than to endeavor to see that workmen are efficient. Vegetable gardening needs a lot of efficiency experting as it is usually carried on if the soil is made to give its full value of production. Intensive cultivation is the horticulture term for efficiency.

It means working the soil to the limit, making it produce constantly during the entire season, with no idle, loafing periods when it is giving nothing. To make each square foot yield at least two crops and possibly three or four is the problem of intensive cultivation after the ground is prepared for it.

The preparation consists of fertilizing and digging. Even the best soil in the world needs fertilizer each year to make up for the plant food taken out of it. In a garden the plants are not left to die and decay and return the food to the soil from which they took it as they do in the uncultivated woods and prairies. Fertilizing by the way of compensation for vegetable matter taken away is necessary.

After attending to fertilizing and thorough digging, the next problem is rotation of crops. By this is meant planting for another crop as soon as one crop is out of the way. One method is interplanting for very small gardens which may be carefully tended daily. This consists in stealing a march by planting a row of seeds between rows of vegetables approaching maturity whose space will soon be at liberty.

As an example, suppose two rows of radishes are planted one foot apart. As the radishes approach table size, another row of seed could be put in halfway between the two maturing rows. The seeds would have germinated and a new crop of radishes be started before the old radishes were all used.

Tomato plants are used to set between rows of early vegetables in this manner to excellent advantage.

"HONEST MAN" IS FOUND

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18.—Another type of the "honest man" has been found in the person of Thomas Collins who was convicted on an arson charge by the courts of Lawrence County and was sentenced to several years in the state penitentiary. Collins told the sheriff he could find his way to the prison without being accompanied, but when he called at the gates of the penitentiary, he was told he couldn't get in unless he had commitment papers. Collins offered the papers, and now he's a prisoner.

MEMORIAL SITE GIVEN OHIO

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18.—A tract of land on Buffington Island, where the Morgan raiders were defeated by a band defending Ohio during the Civil War, on July 20, 1863, has been given to the state for a memorial. The tract was presented by Norma C. and C. E. Peoples. Supervision of the erection of a memorial will be by the Ohio State Archeological and Historical Society.

NO TRACE OF GYPSIES

At the conclusion of the season's scouting operation in Quebec entomologists of the Dominion Department of Agriculture report "throughout the season's work no trace of the gypsy moth was found." In this important field work special attention was paid to highways leading from the international boundary to tourist centres in Quebec province. Close examination was made of trees along the highway, orchards, tourist camps, and in and about centres of population.

blinking sadly, was the big grey owl, cold and hungry.

With very little difficulty Mr. Massey succeeded in grabbing one of the bird's legs and hauling it from its bleak prison. Taking it inside the yard he put it in a warm box and gave it a good feed.

using equal quantities of chicken stock and milk, thickened with butter and flour blended together; season to taste and pour sufficient sauce over the chicken to cover it. Roll out flaky pie crust, cover dish with it, add a fluted rim, gasp pastry top to allow steam to escape and put into a hot oven reducing the heat a little after the first fifteen minutes.

Smothered Chicken.
Take a young chicken, dressed, and rub it well with flour and water paste. Wipe perfectly dry inside and dust with salt and pepper. Rinse and drat well a quart of sweet fresh sauerkraut. Fill the chicken with a quart of well-seasoned, hot mashed potatoes and lay it in a casserole (deep baking dish with a tight-fitting cover) with two slices of salt, fat pork under each and two on top of the chicken. Then cover the chicken completely with the kraut; add a teaspoonful of salt and half the quantity of pepper. Pour a cupful of cold water over it and cover tightly. Put in the oven with moderate fire and cook three hours. Keep the bottom of the casserole moist by adding a little boiling water if necessary. When done, place the chicken on a large heated dish and heap the kraut around it, garnish with lemon and parsley and make a sauce with the liquid in the baking dish, adding the yolk of an egg, a little lemon juice and parsley minced fine.

Jellied Chicken a la Cream.
One tablespoon gelatine, 1 cup cream, 1 cup diced cooked chicken, 3/4-cup hot chicken stock, 1/4-cup cold water, 1 pimento, cut in pieces. Salt and pepper. Soak gelatine in cold water, dissolve in hot stock, stirring until dissolved; add salt and pepper to taste. When beginning to thicken, heat until frothy, then fold in whipped cream and other ingredients. Place in mold and chill for two hours. Serve on bed of water-cress and garnish with mayonnaise.

GLENWOOD AND VICINITY

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Betts upon the arrival of a baby boy on Sunday the 8th inst.

An interesting game of hockey was played on Saturday afternoon between the Milburn and Glenwood teams. The Glenwood boys won, the score at the finish was 4 to 3. Another game which no doubt will be keenly contested, is planned for the near future.

Mr. Archie Campbell, of Mount Royal, was a visitor to Summerside on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Adams and two children, Doris and Marion, were visitors to Glenwood on Monday, the guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Elbert Betts.

Her friends are glad to learn that Mrs. Ernest McPherson, who has recently been suffering from an infection on her arm, is now able to be around again.

It is gratifying to know that according to the report of the P. E. I. Co-operative Egg and Poultry Association, Glenwood has attained the second largest egg circle increase, 12,463 dozens. Mr. Elmer Betts, who is manager of this circle deserves credit for the efficient manner in which he has carried on this work during the past year.

The January meeting of the Launching Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Wm. McLean with nine members present. Meeting opened by repeating the Club Woman's Creed in unison. Roll call was answered by "Use of Baking Soda," followed by reading of the minutes of previous meeting and signing of same. The Secretary read a letter of acknowledgment from the Red Cross Society for receipt of funds collected in the district and the president read a grateful acknowledgment from the Sisters of St. Vincent's Orphanage for box sent them at Christmas.
