BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at first sign of Bladder irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all of our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter, but they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy; full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

IN FRANCE'S FLOWERED FIELDS.

In France's flowered fields they lie.
And she will hold them close and dear;
Above their graves her trees will sigh
Her grasses shroud them year by year.

On summer noons the sun will stream
In cheerful warmth across their beds;
By night the moon's slant, filmy beam
Build aureoles about their heads.

The fitful winds will make them moan
A dirge be sung by every breeze;
And they shall lie apart, alone.
Through all the coming centuries.

Dwelling in silences so vast
No thought to that high tower may climb;
An austere beauty holds them fast
Beyond the boundaries of time.

They were to us mere laughing boys,
But in the passing of a breath
They turned from life's scarce-tasted joys
To this high majesty of death.

O France, when coming springs shall break
In foam of bloom to hide thy scars,
And flowers of human kindness make
An end of agonies and wars.—

Forget not these, our sons, who came
At that first wild, bewildered cry,
With their young British hearts aflame,
Upon thy tragic hills to die

Still have them in thy guarding care
A holy and a cherished trust.
And let thy children come with prayer
To dream awhile beside their dust.

To dream of tender love and ruth.
And give a passing thought to thee
Who trod the star-lit ways of truth
Bondsmen of British loyalties.

And since upon thy heart lies now
The richest ransom ever paid
White roses torn from England's brow
Beside thy broken lilies laid—

Be thou our friend for evermore
In ties of common anguish bound,
That we may know the sons we bore
Lie not in unregarded ground.

MAN OF MANY PARTS

The recent appointment of Lieut. Col. Godfrey P. Collins, M. P., as a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, reminds one that the member for Greenock is a man of many parts.

A career in the Navy was intended for him, and with that end in view he was educated on H. M. S. Britannia, midshipman on the East Indian Station. After serving for several years as a ion, however, he retired from the Service in 1893. When General Seely was Secretary for War, Colonel Collins acted as his Parliamentary private secretary.

An expert tennis player and a devotee of yachting, the gallant Colonel, as managing director of Messrs. W. Collins and Sons, Ltd., of Glasgow, wields an important influence in the publishing world.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur it Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produce the soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

THE CHARMED HELIOGRAPH

One morning—it was along the Aisne early in the war—a sudden burst of sun from a bank of cloud found two British officers lying on a grassy ridge enjoying a respite from the usual sodden weather and overcast skies. Together, says Mr. Frederick Coleman in "From Mons to Ypres," they gazed on the entrancing panorama.

As they looked down the wooded hillside into the lower land that bordered upon the river, one of them suddenly called out, "Look! A helio!" From a hedge behind Moussy came the flash, flash of a heliograph, in regular intervals.

"Must be some fool sort of code," said the junior officer. "I never saw anything like it before."

As they watched it the Germans saw it too. Bang! went a big, black "Jack Johnson" not far from the spot. Smash came another. Still the flashes twinkled from the surrounding green. The first two shells were the forerunners of dozens that crashed through the hedge and into the turf about the tiny centre of light. And then the clouds shut out the sunshine and the flashes ceased.

The next morning a brief ten minutes of sun caused eyes on the ridge to wander valleyward again. Sure enough, two flashes, intermittent and apparently quite without coherence, came from the spot at the hedgeside. Soon the enemy howitzers played on the vicinity more fiercely than before and after the sun had gone from sight they kept up their bombardment of the unfortunate spot for half an hour. Dozens of shells fell thereabouts, then scores on scores.

That afternoon a cavalry officer had a journey to make, which took him to General Monro's headquarters near Moussy. When his work was done he continued a few hundred yards and sought the spot that had suffered the awful shelling. It was not hard to find. The hedge was smashed and great, black holes gaped in the green fields round it. No sign could be seen on the helio party; but that was not surprising, since for more than half an hour shells had fallen about the flickering light, until it seemed that no man could live in its vicinity.

The staff officer strolled over to a battery position not far distant and asked for news of the signallers. The gunners had wondered at the heavy shelling, but had seen no human beings near the hedge before or after the bombardment.

Nonplussed, the officer walked back to the devasted area, and, just as he was leaving, discovered the cause of all the trouble. There caught on a twig of the hedge, swinging lazily in the wind, was a bright-bottomed, empty sardine tin, thrown carlessly aside by some satiated luncher. The sun, catching the bright bit of moving tin, had made of it a tiny reflector. Surely, never had so insignificant an object caused the Germans so great an expenditure of costly ammunition.

SOLDIERS AND SCOTSMEN ALL.

Veteran Donald McDonald's fighting days are over.

This war has knocked him out at the fourth attempt, and he is just beginning to wear trousers. He has been in kilts ever since he was five years old, and has worn the tartan of the Gordons over 41 years.

McDonald is a lonely man. His boys—heroes all—have "gone west." "It makes my heart very full thinking about my family and the wife," he says:

War Blooded Ancestors

His regret is that he has not been able to beat his father's record. Old Donald McDonald served in the regiment 46 years and six months. He is still alive, and, if spared, will shortly be a centenarian. McDonald's mother is aged 98, and she is also still alive. Their native place is Tain, Rosshire.

McDonald wears a long row of war medals on his breast. Apart from his two and a half years' service in this war, he served in the Egyptian and Chitral campaigns and in the South African War. He took part in the charge of the Gordons that won the Dargai Heights.

McDonald has killed a few Germans during his 31 months at the front, and if questioned on the point he will demonstrate how he was busy with his bayonet deep in one Boche when another Hun came at him. An old trained soldier like McDonald is not easily caught unawares. He dodged backward, withdrew his bayonet with the end of his boot, and accounted for the second German exactly in the manner prescribed for bayonet fighting, with an upward job of the butt.

McDonald has lost five sons in this war, and two were killed in the South African campaign. All were serving soldiers, with the exception of the youngest, and he enlisted voluntarily. The shock at losing them all killed McDonald's wife. The eldest and second of five who took part in this war "went west" at Mons, with 23 and 18 years service respectively to their credit. The third was killed at Neuve Chapelle, the fourth at La Basse, and the fifth at Arras.

To the six medals he already wears, Lance-Corporal Donald McDonald hopes soon to add the Military Medal and the Croix de Guerre, but his supreme ambition is to "see the King face to face and tell him we have done our bit."

UGN! ACID STOMACH, SOURNESS, HEARTBURN GAS OR INDIGESTION

The moment "Pape's Diapepsin" reaches the stomach all distress goes.

Do some foods you eat hit back — taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, jot this down; Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. "Pape's Diapepsin" is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach— distress just vanishes — your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

HOME MADE SOAP

Grandmother knew how to make use of left-over fats and greases and she kept the kitchen supplied with a useful grade of home made soap.

Here's the way she did it: She saved all the "drippings" and kept them in a earthenware crock and at the end of each month she made them into soap. First she put all the fat into a large kettle on the back of the stove, and when it was all melted she cut up a large raw potato and dropped it in to purify it; then she let the fat cook slowly until all the water was evaporated or until it stopped sputtering. When the fat was pure she strained it through several thicknesses of cheese-cloth, or if she wanted it whiter she strained it through charcoal or clay.

She made a soda solution of one pound of pure caustic soda dissolved in five pints of water and mixed in 14 ounces of this solution to each pound of pure warm fat, and she stirred the mass until smooth. Then she poured the mixture into pans or boxes lined with greased paper and put it away in a dry place to harden.

Why Roman Meal Is Superior To Other Foods

IT is a complete food. Every ingredient required by the body for perfect health must come from food. There is not one essential food element missing in Roman Meal; all are present in proper proportion. Roman Meal is thus a "balanced ration." This accounts for the sense of "wellness" following use of

Dr. Jackson's
Roman Meal

It is superior because:

First—It is the only balanced ration sold in package form being composed of wheat, rye, bran and flaxseed—the latter rendered odorless and tasteless by electricity.

Second—Our digestive canal was developed into a forty-foot tube of muscles because our ancestors lived upon food with more waste than nutrition, considered as bulk. This waste was largely grain waste. Without plenty of waste the digestive canal does not function properly, and constipation results. Roman Meal contains exactly the right amount of waste. Over-milled and over-refined foods contain none.

Third—Roman Meal contains 25% flaxseed. Flax is three times as nourishing as wheat, rye or oats. Therefore Roman Meal not only has the correct amount of waste, but it is very nourishing as well. Flax heals the irritation caused by bran, and prevents intestinal catarrh often resulting from bran used alone, or when mixed with white flour or refined cereals. Roman Meal relieves constipation or "money back."

Fourth—The excessive quantity of starch in white flour and refined cereals ferments and produces vegetable acids. These are absorbed into the blood, turning it acid. This acidity happens because the soluble alkalis which Nature provided in the dark parts of the grain to prevent this absorption are milled out and thrown away. Roman Meal contains the necessary amount of soluble alkalis to keep the blood non-acid.

Acid blood produced by the refined cereals induces disease in the organs. The alkalis in Roman Meal keep the blood fluid and "cool."

Try Roman Meal. Get it at your grocer's. Do not stir Roman Meal porridge except when mixing meal and water.

The Stranger in Your Cup

Those stalks you see in your tea cup have no business there at all. They contain absolutely no tea essence; they are like stones in fruit, adding to the weight and price, but you cannot digest them.

TOBIN'S RAKWANA TEA

is good because it is from carefully selected leaves from which the stalks have been extracted. That is why it is so richly flavored, so healthful and more economical than most teas. It is all tea, the good part of the tea leaf without the bad, wasteful parts.

The product of the celebrated Rakwana Tea Estate in Ceylon and Behali Tea Estate in India has for many years been controlled by

The bare statement that we have been in business nearly one hundred years merely says that we are a very old firm, but there is a great significance in the fact that John Tobin & Co., are today one of the most progressive wholesale firms in America, and carry the most extensive range of staple, heavy and fancy groceries in Canada. The leading manufacturers in England, United States, Canada and elsewhere are always eager to appoint us their distributing agents, and we have exclusive control in Nova Scotia for
