TIMBER AND LUMBER
Vancouver Has Great National Forest Wealth

Vancouver Island is endowed with a wealth of varied timber and diversified minerals. They have been the main source of the country's revenue for many years, and yet not a third of its area has been exploited, so that what present and contemplated surveys may reveal, it is impossible to conjecture. It is perfectly certain, however, that the island in these respects, as in many others, is only beginning to evolve a splendid future of internal greatness and commercial influence. That the potentials lie within herself is without doubt. Her timber resources surpass those of any other area of similar size in the world. Her forest area is not only vast in extent, but it has a phenomenal growth of abnormally large and splendid merchantable timber. This represents an average, and is not by any means indicative of rare or isolated instances of enormity in size; for the island's timber growth has aroused the wonder and admiration of travellers from all parts of the world. And still, it is certain, the unexplored and unexploited forests, has in the as in other respects, the mightiest and greatest residuum of unexplored wealth and of commercial and industrial potentials preserved for the brilliant epoch of progress on which the island has entered. The indigenous trees of the island include Douglas fir, red and yellow cypress, western white pine and black pine, spruce of two classes, western hemlock and white oak, poplar, maple of various kinds, alder and many other species of deciduous but valuable trees.

BOOST TO DOUKHOBORS
Mr. Drayton Says Time Will Make Them Valuable to Country

That the Doukhobor colonies at Kootenay and the boundary district are "a decided acquisition to the population of British Columbia" is the opinion of C. R. Drayton, manager of the Vancouver Financial Corporation, who returned from a business trip to the upper country. "The people," he says, "are frugal, sober, thrifty, industrious and deeply religious and although they have peculiar customs that run counter to twentieth century civilization, I could not but admire the manner in which they have transformed a veritable wilderness into an earthly paradise. I think that these people, despite the ways, constitute a valuable economic asset to the country like many others. They are here to stay and time will make them harmonize better with their social environment. They have a good many thousand acres of land under cultivation, own comfortable homes, one thousand horses and large herds of cattle. They work early and late and mind their own business. "I marvelled at the fine waterworks systems they have installed in their colonies," he continued. "They have organization methods down to a perfect system. It is a mistake to suppose that they are ruled by their so-called leader, Peter Verigin. All matters affecting the welfare of the communities are decided at meetings held every Sunday, attended by two delegates from each household."

WAR ON DUELLING
Kaiser Seeks to Reduce Number of Encounters in Army

Emperor William is earnestly endeavoring to reduce the number of duels fought by German army officers, according to an announcement made to the committee of the Imperial parliament. His majesty, said the minister, admonishes the commanding generals to give their attention to the matter chiefly in the way of improving the training of officers. The emperor followed this up with a rescript to the army calling attention to the number of duels caused by officers insulting their comrades or civilians. This was in the nature of a warning to the officers to strive against such practices. It concluded: "Self-control and restraint must be cultivated as manly virtues."

LIPTON A GREAT CLUB MAN
Sir Thomas Lipton is probably the greatest clubman in the world, for he is honorary member of nearly a hundred clubs in America alone, besides a very great many in Great Britain. Yachting by no means claims all his sporting attention. In later years he has taken up motoring. He likes gardening, too. Cricket, golf, tennis, and bowls also come within his purview, but he is not a great theatre-goer.

WAR ON THE MOSQUITO
Italy's war on the malarial mosquito has reduced the percentage of fever cases in infected districts from 87.12 in 1889 to 18.26 last year.

BIBLE HISTORY
A Lecturer Brought to Light Some Interesting Facts

At a lecture delivered by Herbert Bolton, the director of the Bristol Museum, some very interesting facts in connection with Bible history were brought to light. He pointed out that the museum is rich in illustrations bearing on Bible history. He showed his hearers a set of carpenter's tools brought from the little village of Nazareth, probably similar to those in use at the time of Jesus, and mentioned that the Copper Pass collected of antiquities served to give a clear idea of what the Roman people were like in the Master's day. Specimens of the precious stones and gems which formed the foundation of the New Jerusalem, as recorded in the book of Revelation, were shown, also "tear bottles" and other ancient vessels from Corinth.

Passing to Old Testament history, mention was made of the examples of Assyrian sculpture, possessed by the museum, which were discovered at Nimrod, the ancient Calah, and including the figure of one of the most famous kings of Assyria, Ashur-Nasir-Pal.

Another interesting exhibit was a few Babylonian clay tablets inscribed with cuneiform writing, and among them was one bearing the name of a city (Erech) mentioned in Genesis x.10. Two Babylonian bricks bore the name of Nebuchadnezzar, and a head and bust of an official who acted as taskmaster to the Israelites; also the head of one of the Pharos.

The museum collection included samples of Egyptian pottery, jewels, beads, etc., which illustrated the kind of treasures which the Israelites borrowed when they spoiled the Egyptians, while a priceless possession consisted of a vase, which was once the property of the Pharaoh of the Exodus, and formed part of an offering to one of the temples. However interesting Bible study may be, it can be made most fascinating and instructive when accompanied by illustrations of the times and peoples who actually lived in those far-off days. The Bristol citizens are to be congratulated on the valuable possessions of their museum and art gallery.

HAIR OF YAK TAILS
Brings Ten Dollars an Ounce as Commercial Commodity

Among the many animal products imported for a wide variety of purposes from foreign lands is white hair. It is of various sorts and has a wide range in value. White hair of the Syrian goat, known as Asiatic white hair, comes from Syria, Persia and Tibet. The body hair of the Syrian buck grows to sixteen inches in length, the beard to twelve inches; but in a lot of 15,000 or 20,000 pounds there might be found less than 25 pounds of 16-inch hair. All the lengths are utilized.

2 Boxes of Gin Pills Cured Me

SUFFERED from Kidney Trouble for five long years. I also had Rheumatism in all my bones and muscles—could not sleep at night—saw sometimes could hardly walk. I was treated by some of our best physicians but without relief. I lost over fifteen pounds, was very weak, and friends, who had not seen me for some time, were astonished. One day, I met one of our leading hotel keepers, who had been cured by Gin Pills, and he advised me to try them, so I bought two boxes at my druggist's.
