LAKE OF THE WOODS MILLING COMPANY KEEWATIN

Perfect Testing Systems Insure The Quality of Your Flour

Another big thing we saw at Keewatin—

The significant perfection of the Testing System.

We used to hear some millers boast of testing every pound of flour before it leaves the mill.

Which then seemed quite sufficient to our childlike credulity.

Till we beheld with our own eyes the FIVE ROSES quality tests.

The milling process, as you already know, Mistress Housewife, is a continued series of eliminations.

In a large modern mill, like the FIVE ROSES plant, it is estimated that some of the material travels nearly a mile, all this time being either cleaned or reduced into finer particules or granules.

Every step, Madam, means more impurities taken from your flour, additional purification.

None could be overlooked or slighted without affecting FIVE ROSES quality; they are reduced for financial reasons only in "bargain counter" mills where the flour production is governed by its cheapness.

You wouldn't expect a watch to run if some of the parts or wheels were missing, would YOU?

* * * *

Suppose, Madam, there are a hundred varied processes in FIVE ROSES milling and each were cheapened one penny.—Your dealer could sell FIVE ROSES $1.00 a barrel less.

But there's nothing stingy about FIVE ROSES quality.

Not only is every step essential, but after each intermediate process an individual test is made of the quality of the product; just as you, Mistress Housewife, at intervals anxiously peep into the oven to see what's doing in the pie line.

* * * *

With this test staring each in the face, no man can shirk his task; he dare not leave any little fault for the next man to correct.

Everything must be right—and it is.

Then there's the regular daily baking of the finished flour by the Keewatin public baker.

Indeed, Mistress Housewife, your interests are well looked after.

* * * *

FIVE ROSES is never "killed" in grinding due to hot rolls or bearings.

It cannot lose its elasticity, its power of expansion in dough and oven.

It must be pure, and strong, and wholesome, and sweet.

You know this, Madam, by the true Manitoba wheat flavor, the rich creamy bloom, the different baking consequences.

We tell you all this because any flour is "good enough" till you know BETTER.

SACRIFICES FOOT TO SAVE HER LIFE

TRENTON, N. J., May 9—The presence of mind of Miss Eleanor White, twenty-five years old, saved her life last night when in walking along the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad, near Scudder's Falls, her foot became caught in a frog.

As she struggled to extricate it a train, running at a high speed, approached. Realizing that the engine driver could not stop in time to escape striking her, Miss White decided to sacrifice her foot rather than take chances of being killed.

She threw herself to the ground, leaning as far away from the rail as she could. She dug her hands into the turf to keep from being dragged under the locomotive.

When the locomotive struck her foot, which was still held fast by the frog, it was so severely injured that at the Mercer hospital, to which Miss White was taken, it was found necessary to amputate it. Miss White's condition was satisfactory today. She said she saw no reason to regret her action, saying she was sure that had she not acted as she did she would have been killed.

NEW GOVERNOR GENERAL.

LONDON, May 10—The Express understands that the Duke of Connaught is likely to succeed Earl Grey as Governor Aeneral of Canada, it being the particular wish of the late King. An official announcement is expected shortly.

The Express says no better appointment could be made as it will strike popular imagination surely and instantly.

It is suggested also that the Duke should open the first South African Parliament.

The country is now beginning to resume normal life, the King's earnest desire being that except on the day of the funeral of Edward VII, which is now formally fixed for May 20th, national mourning should inflict no unnecessary sacrifices upon the people.

HONOR TO ENGLAND'S KING AT THE EDEN MUSEE.

At the Eden Musee of New York City, the wax representation of King Edward in the famous group, "Rulers of the World," has long attracted much attention. As soon as the news of the King's death was received, this figure was removed. A new wax group was arranged in the crypt, in the famous room, where long have been on exhibition, reproductions from the death masks of Kings and Queens. Upon a rich bier, lies King Edward, garbed in his uniform of state, and partially covered by the rich robe he wore at his coronation. By the side of the bier, standing at attention, is one of the Royal Guard. The room is draped in royal purple and black. Details were secured from cable descriptions and the reproduction is accurate. On account of the popularity of King Edward, this group for the present at least, will attract many visitors. Artists are already at work upon a figure of George V, and in a few days England's new King will be added to the "Rulers of the World." New moving pictures are received from abroad each week, and exhibited hourly afternoon and evening. These pictures are reproductions of famous events, travels in distant lands, humorous and mysterious happenings. They are projected upon the largest screen in the world, with practically no flicker, and are not to be compared with the cheaper pictures shown elsewhere. Hewes, the famous White Yogi, or master of Hindoo magicians, remains an attraction. His afternoon and evening performances consist of apparently unexplainable feats. The afternoon and evening concerts by the new orchestra, will have pleasing programs, which are making the Musee a musical centre.

SPRING SKIN SORES

At this season, scores of people, girls and women especially, find their faces marked with pimples, dark spots, eruptions, etc. The skin needs attention, needs renovating after the trying winter season. Just think what it has had to go through!

You have been out in rain and sleet and snow. You have been perspiring from skating, or some other exertion. Then you have stood to "cool off." You have spent hours of the day indoors at a temperature equal to summer heat. Then you have covered up your skin, except your face, and gone out into a temperature away below zero! No wonder that the skin of the face and neck shows signs of needing attention.

Zam-Buk is a skin food. Smear it lightly over the spots, the eruptions, the sallow patches, at night, and notice how quickly your appearance improves. As the rich, refined, herbal essences sink deep into the tissue, the hard scurvy-like patches are removed. The cuticle is softened. The cells beneath are stimulated to healthy operation. The pores resume their work properly. Better color results. The cells of the skin being purified by Zam-Buk's stimulating balm, become transparent; the blood beneath is able to impart its proper coloring to the tissue, and the delicate bloom of health replaces the sallowness and pallor of disease.

A few days of Zam-Buk treatment will transform a "muddy," speckled, spotty complexion into one of attractiveness and prettiness.

Use Zam-Buk for more serious skin troubles, such as eczema, pustules, boils, ulcers, festering sores, ringworm, scalp sores, sores on the body due to blood-poisoning, etc. Mothers will find Zam-Buk unequalled for baby! 50c box all stores.

THE RHINO SEEMS A SURVIVAL FROM THE "ELDER WORLD."

Soon afterward we made out three rhino a mile away. They were out in the bare plain, alternately grazing and enjoying a noontide rest; the bull by himself, the cow with her calf a quarter of a mile off. There was not a scrap of cover, but we walked up wind to within 150 yards of the bull. Even then he did not seem to see us, but the tick birds, which were clinging to his back and sides, gave the alarm, and he trotted to and fro, uncertain as to the cause of the disturbance. If Heller had not had his hands full with the giraffes I might have shot the bull rhino; but his horn and bulk of body though fair, were not remarkable, and I did not molest him. He went toward the cow, which left her calf and advanced toward him in distinctly bellicose style; then she recognized him, her calf trotted up, and the three animals stood togather, tossing their heads, and evidently trying to make out what was near them But we were down wind, and they do not see well, with their little twinkling pig's eyes. We were anxious not to be charged by the cow and calf, as her horn was very poor, and it would have been unpleasant to be obliged to shoot her; and so we drew off.

Next day, when Kermit and I were out alone with our gun bearers we saw another rhino, a bull, with a stubby horn. This rhino, like the others of the neighborhood, was enjoying his noonday rest, in the open, miles from cover. "Look at him," said Kermit, "standing there in the middle of the African plain, deep in prehistoric thought." Indeed the rhinoceros does seem like a survival from the elder world that has vanished; he was in place in the pliocene; he would not have been out of place in the miocene; but nowadays he can only exist at all in regions that have lagged behind, while the rest of the world, for good or for evil has gone forward.—From African Game Trails, by Theodore Roosevelt, in the April Scribner.

"VACCUUM CLEANING" costs no more than the old fashioned Way by the time you pay for having carpets lifted, beaten, and put down again. Isn't nearly so hard on the carpets, either. "Vacuum" cleaning removes every particle of dust too, which is more than can be said of the "beating" process. Cleans carpets right on the floor. Everyone delighted. Ask them. Phone us to reserve ates and so avoid disappointment.—Beer & Week's 5—6dtf.

"There is an interesting little sale of nice wash suits and dresses for boys and girls going on at the store these days. Just a little sample lot that we gathered in by good fortune a few days ago—and selling at the factory price or less.—Moore & McLeod. 5-11d3i.
