The body arrived Tuesday night accompanied by the broken hearted mother and the company of Gypsies to which she is attached. The child was only four years of age and the body dressed in the picturesque Gypsy garb, with the doll and toys she had played with, is a pathetic figure. She was a beautiful child and the poor mother, evidently the only relative in the party is suffering seriously from the shock of her child's death and the many sad accompanying circumstances. The party will leave, taking the body with them, on Saturday for Sydney, thence to Halifax and later to Ohio where the child's journey will end in the cemetery. The body is carefully embalmed and enclosed in a pretty casket. A GOOD LOBSTER YEAR—Mr. Leonard B. BROWN—MACLAUCHLAN—St. Stephen's church, Calgary, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday night, at half past nine, when Maud Louise, fifth daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. MacLauchlan, became the bride of Mr. Edward Craig Crown, the Rev. Canon, James J. Brown, officiating. The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, when the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march was heard, looked very lovely in her gown of white duchesse satin and wearing the veil and orange blossoms which were her mother's. Her bouquet was of white carnations and Ophelia roses. Miss Edith Ritchie, the only bridesmaid, was in a dainty rose-pink satin frock with hat to match and carried pink sweet peas. Mr. Arthur Rooney acted as best man. After the ceremony a buffet supper was served to nearly 50 guests, at the home of the bride's parents, 1225 Pointeclair avenue west. The honeymoon will be spent in Banff and Lake Louise. Afterwards Mr. and Mrs. Brown will make their home in Calgary.
