

The Mitchell Inquiry Case

the office got into communication with him and informed him that I was there, and asked what he wanted me to do. He replied to meet him at the Queen Hotel in Summerside the next evening—that would be Thursday evening. I arrived at Summerside and met Mr. Thompson the following morning. He phoned me up, I arranged to go into Charlottetown with him. I cannot recall his words, but he said that when he saw the things which were going he ordered the house which was to be built for me to be stopped until he saw how things went. That was as far as he could get. He said he knew nothing about the land, but that it was re-surveyed and that the survey was totally different to the one which Mr. Mitchell had had previously.

Q. That is, it enclosed different lands than the first?

A. The division of lots, I think. Q. Was that the reason why things were not going right and that Mr. Thompson held up the building of the house?

A. I could not exactly say. Any way there was nobody who could inform me which was my land or what farmer I was to go for the necessary training, as Mitchell called it, which I found out since was anything but sufficient. In fact there seems to have been no arrangement made here except the one house which I believe was built for Capt. Dudley and Capt. Butler. I was disappointed the way the thing turned out and felt that the thing was anything but satisfactory. On August 4th I called Mr. Mitchell in London to the effect that the things were not as he represented them to me: "I am very disappointed with how things have turned out and request you refund me money paid you. Advise me by cable what you intend to do in the matter." That was the cable I sent to him. The same day I received a letter from Mr. Mitchell dated 21st September in which he informed me that since I had sailed some twenty people, married and single, had decided for the scheme and would be sailing within the next two or three months. "They are coming in thick and fast now, so I hope we shall have a good colony in the near future," he wrote. Capt. Butler gave me the first intimation that we were the only three out here. In London, Mitchell said I would be one of the first twelve. Then I came out and found there were only three of us. He said if the colony was not settled he said he would be able to send me a guarantee that he would refund the money paid for my areas should I be dissatisfied, on condition that I would not reveal the circumstances to anybody. I think the present circumstances allow me to reveal it. Following that letter I got a cable from him, received by me on the 6th of this month to the effect that Lieut. Jackson was coming out to Canada, "sailing from Liverpool tomorrow; he will go thoroughly into the matter with you upon arrival." I took no further action pending the arrival of Lieut. Jackson. We talked things over and found that we were both more or less in the same boat. He could give me no information about the matter whatever. Yesterday I called Mr. Mitchell again stating that I got no satisfaction from Jackson and asking him to cable what he intended to do in the matter. To that so far I have had no reply. Our interest at present is not to stop anybody coming to the Island but to cry to stop them coming under the misrepresentation that we came out under. Prince Edward Island in my opinion is perfectly all right. There is nothing to stop any scheme conducted properly being successfully carried out. In fact there is nothing to stop people coming here. As regards the Island I am satisfied with it and have found a thoroughly hospitable reception. The only thing I am dissatisfied with is the scheme—the manner in which it was carried out and the way it was misrepresented.

Why is a crocodile the most deceitful of all creatures? Because he shows an open countenance in the act of taking you in.

Defective Vision In Public Schools

Statistics recently compiled show that an average of 25 per cent of the school children in the United States have defective vision. The principal eye defects, according to authorities, are hypermetropia (far-sightedness), myopia (near-sightedness) and astigmatism. Defective vision, chiefly myopia, is found to a large extent among older children in schools, as it is progressive. Near-sightedness is the most prevalent eye affliction, beginning primarily from congenital astigmatism and the subsequent strain upon the accommodation of the eye in an effort to see. Have your children's eyes examined and know the facts, consult

*STORE IMPROVEMENTS.—The store of McDonald & Bros, Georgetown, has been under going some alterations during the past week, a large portion has been removed making the lower part into one large department. The work is done by the skillful management of Mr. W. H. Yorston. A

*FIRES AT GEORGETOWN.—What might have been a very serious fire occurred at 8.30 o'clock when the house and furniture of Mr. James McPherson was completely destroyed by fire. Mr. McPherson put on a fire in the kitchen stove and went down to the Railway wharf to work and before the fire was discovered the house was so badly burned that nothing could be done. All the place of action and a steady stream of water was kept on the out buildings and surrounding houses. The house of Mr. Hugh Houston was saved only through the skillful work of the men.

LINE-BREEDING

Line-breeding consists in following a single line down, breeding a sire or dam to the progeny and such closely related individuals as brother and sister and cousins. It is inbreeding along a certain line. The objections to it are that it intensifies any defects in the blood of the family that is inbred. The value of it is that it intensifies any good traits also. If, by selection, the bad traits can be minimized, while the good are perpetuated, and made more prominent, line, or inbreeding, is a valuable means of improvement. If proper selections are not made, however, the bad that always wants to crop out in breeding will get the upper hand and spoil the progeny of line-bred animals. Line-breeding is practised by skillful breeders, and is one of the chief means of securing improvement in a flock or herd.
